EDUCATION BOARD MEET

Reports of Principals Received —
Agriculture Taught at Public School

The regular monthly meeting of the local Board of Education was held at the Board Rooms on Monday evening with Chairman C. R. Bastedo presiding and Members Dr. H. H. Alger, Dr. C. F. Walt, and Messrs C. F. Linn, E. W. Bailey, E. A. Luery, J. B. Belshaw, H. C. Martin, E. G. Bailey and Walter Wright in attendance.

In his opening remarks the Chairman welcomed the new members of the staff at the Public School and welcomed back to their duties the teachers who were present last year.

R. G. Lawlor, Principal of the High School, presented his report and stated that the attendance at that institution was a little above last year. He invited the Board members to attend the Field Day being held at the school. Several requests for storage for equipment, a new map, pencil sharpeners and other small items needed were granted on Motion of H. C. Martin and Dr. Walt.

In reporting that there were 158 in attendance at the Public school this term, Mr. C. A. Wells stated that this was a slight increase over last year's enrolment. He also stated that there had been a desire expressed that the teachers of this district meet in Stirling for the purpose of organizing a Rawdon Teachers' Council and asked permission to use the school rooms for that purpose. Several requests were made for manual training equipment, supplementary reading books, etc., and on motion of Dr. Walt and E. A. Luery, the purchasing of these materials was left with Mr. J. B. Belshaw. The question of seating accommodation in one room was discussed and arrangements made for improvement. Mr. Wells also thoroughly discussed the teaching of Agriculture in the Public School, outlining for the benefit of the members the various phases to be undertaken and the benefits it was hoped would be derived from the teaching of the subject. It was moved by E. W. Bailey, seconded by Walter Wright, that Agriculture be included in the studies of the local Public School.

Mr. Belshaw reported that certain repairs had received the necessary attention: a stoker had been installed at the Public school and, although still undergoing adjustments, would soon be functioning properly; steps at the entrance to the High School had been rebuilt, doors re-finished and desks varnished.

Dr. Alger, as chairman of the Internal Management Committee asked for the opinion of the Board in regard to the holding of a clinic for the giving of Toxoid and Vaccine treatments to those desirous of having same. The matter had not yet been decided upon by the local Board of Health, but Dr. Alger was desirous of learning whether or not that board would have the co-operation of the School Management. All pupils between ages to be determined later, could take these preventative measures, which in no instance would be made compulsory. All charges in connection with these treatments would be given with little or no expense to the recipients of the same. Although no epidemics were prevalent in this immediate locality at the present time, outbreaks had occurred in centres in this district, and it was desired to take preventative measures before the splendid health record of the local schools was in any way impaired. Dr. Walt moved that the Board approve of the recommendation of the Board of Health that Toxoid and Vaccine treatments be given without compulsion. Seconded by H. C. Martin.

Inspector's report of Cadet Corps equipment and the necessary bonds was received and on motion of members Alger and Bailey, was filed.

It was moved by Messrs Linn and Martin that ink and examination paper be procured by the board for the use of pupils at both schools.

The following accounts were ordered paid:

Public School — McGee & Lagrow, 75c; J. S. Morton, $9.20; F. N. McKee, $20.62.

High School — McGee & Lagrow, $3.75; J. S. Morton, $6.65; News-Argus, $12.00; N. E. Eggleston, $1.38; L. & R. W. Melikejohn, $8.75; E. G. Bailey, $2.00; C. B. Faires, $2.20.

RECONSTRUCTIONISTS HOLD MEETING HERE

Candidates in Hastings-Peterborough and South Hastings Speak

Only a fair crowd of the electors turned out to hear the candidates of the Reconstruction party in the ridings of Hastings-Peterborough and South Hastings at a joint meeting held in the Community Hall last night.

Mr. George Elliott, of Belleville, acted as chairman and in his opening remarks found fault with the high protective tariff allowed certain industries, particularly the auto industry. "We need protection," said Mr. Elliott, "but not racketeer protection. How can any nation do business with us, when we cannot do business among ourselves. The export trade of Canada only amounts to 5 p.c. of the country's activities and it wouldn't matter much if we lost the whole thing."

They tell us Stevens' plans will not work out because they're against the law. If this is so then the law should be changed. If the B.N.A. Act is wrong, change it. If the monetary system is wrong, change it. There's not anything in Canada needs looking into more than the money racket. The speaker also told something of big business methods in dealing with the employees of factories.

Herbert Hoover
"The Reconstruction Party means the reconstruction of this country," said Mr. Hoover in his opening remarks. There is nothing new about it, every nation in Europe has been reconstructed of late years, only Canada is ten years behind. Sweden has everything under government control and in the first six months 76 p.c. of the unemployed went to work. Denmark never felt the depression owing to a reconstruction of her economic system. It is time the people of Canada woke up.

Speaking as a farmer, Mr. Hoover stated the packing industry was responsible for the most of the depression. Farmers lost $15,000,000, of 3c per pound on their bacon, because it was not up to standard, while Canada Packers, who processed it, paid their manager $1,000 a week. Stevens says he will remedy these conditions.

Judson Gunter
Introduced by Chairman Elliott as a man who always paid a living wage and the highest wages in the north country, Mr. Judson Gunter, who is the Stevens candidate in Hastings-Peterborough, received a good reception from the audience.

What we need to do in this country is to forget politics as they did in England, where unemployment is now almost a forgotten word. If England, a country of large population and comparatively small natural resources can do this, what about Canada, with all its natural resources, and only ten million people.

"Our greatest wrong is our monetary system. I don't want you to think we are criticizing our banking system. We have a safe system. But what we are criticizing is that our banks are not nationally controlled. Less than fifteen men have been allowed to control thirteen billion dollars of the country's wealth, nearly twice the national debt. Had the government been handling the banking system, with profits accruing to the government, we wouldn't have any national debt. They claim we have a national bank, but it is privately controlled. Why should governments be allowed to control the money?" (Continued on Page Five)

SUCCESSFUL EVENT AT CARMEL CHURCH

Sixtieth Anniversary Observed Sunday and Monday Last

The anniversary services of Carmel United Church, held on Sunday last was the celebration of the commemoration of the church, held sixty years ago. The church was tastefully decorated with large baskets of flowers and plants. At 11 o'clock a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Rev. I. B. Naylor, of Belleville Tabernacle Church preached inspiring and helpful sermons to the congregation that filled the church. Many former residents were present and of the letters received from those unable to be present, one was read at the evening service from Rev. David Weaver, of Kentucky. The choir rendered four anthems and solos were contributed by Mr. E. J. Pyear and Miss Nina Carlisle, which added inspiration to the services. The Thankoffering asked for by the Board of the Church was realized and the members who start out to carry on this noble work, begin with new encouragement.

Monday evening was a continuation of the inspiring services on Sunday, bringing to a climax this anniversary occasion when the Carmel congregation passed the 60th year of its history.

The dining hall never looked more attractive as the ladies of the congregation vied with one another to make this memorable feast event the best yet. In the spacious and comfortable room the three long tables looked inviting, the spotless linen with the shining china and silver cutlery and charming floral decorations looked brilliant under the splendid lighting system (thanks to the Brooks boys).

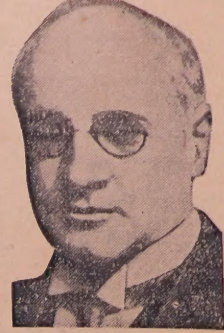

LOCAL HORSESHOERS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeated Thomasburg in Final Game of Centre League Playoffs

In the second game of the play-offs in the Centre Hastings Horseshoe League played here on Tuesday night, Stirling defeated Thomasburg by the score of 9 to 7, and thus won the championship of the League for 1935. The first game was played at Thomasburg, when the locals were also the victors. The local players were Messrs. Malcolm Reid, Mac Lummis, Earl Fox, James Mitchell, Stanley Dainard, Fred Hulin, Walter Jeffrey and Harry Conley.

One hundred and sixty were seated at the first table and all testified enthusiastically to the splendid chicken dinner served with efficiency and courtesy by the waiters. Altogether a little more than 400 guests were served. A very pleasing event of this hour was the lighting of the sixty candles studding the large birthday cake by a former pastor, Rev. C. W. Barrett. The pastor then called upon the venerable E. W. Brooks, who when a young man turned the first sod in the building of the Church to blow out the candles and put the knife into the cake. Many were fortunate enough to secure a piece of this product of Mrs. Wm. Carlisle's cooking ability.

Promptly at 8:30 the audience, which filled every available space in the church, was called to order by the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland, who acted as chairman and the well balanced programme commenced. LIBERAL RALLY IS WELL ATTENDED

Two Candidates and P. C. McLaurin
Expound Liberal Policies

Since the time of Confederation times of prosperity had always been under Liberal regimes, Mr. Rork Ferguson, Liberal standard-bearer in the riding of Hastings-Peterborough told an audience of about one hundred and fifty on Tuesday night, when he spoke in the Stirling Community Hall at a joint Liberal meeting in the interests of the candidates in South Hastings and Hastings-Peterborough. Being a farmer himself, he looked at the present day conditions from a farmer's viewpoint, said Mr. Ferguson. Unless the farmers are prosperous the villages and towns cannot prosper. Back in 1896 the condition of the farmers was practically the same as today. The Laurier Government came into power and within two years the farmers were put in a position where they could make an honest living and pay their debts. This, the speaker continued, was due to the lowering of the tariff and a freer interchange of goods between the nations of the world. From 1930 to 1934 the prices obtained by the farmer for his produce were just half what they were before, but the cost of goods the farmer had to buy were the same. In 1930 Premier Bennett promised to raise the tariff against New Zealand butter, which he did. What was the result? New Zealand shut out of the Canadian market, flooded the English market with butter and cheese, the price paid the Canadian farmer for butter fat dropped, and we lost our cheese market in the bargain. Tariffs that were 6 per cent. under Laurier and King were 12 per cent. under Meighen and Borden, and 25 per cent. under Bennett. What we need is an equalization of the prices of the goods we sell and those we buy, so that the dollar we get for our product will buy a dollar's worth of goods we need, and this will never come under high tariffs.

P. C. McLaurin
In his opening remarks Mr. McLaurin urged his hearers to forget partyism and look the facts sanely and squarely in the face. We have a fine country, with a small population, and an abundance of raw material before us, and yet we find that the country cannot give us a good living. Do we want to continue under the conditions of the last five years? We are primarily an exporting country. We grow more than we can consume and must have markets. Trade cannot be only one way, and if we export, we must import. If we export and import to the utmost of our ability, we put into action that which will give employment. External trade has been cut one-half in the last five years, with a result that our railways have had less work to do, and thousands of heads of families have been thrown out of employment. During the last five years of Mr. King's reign there was a surplus every year and $250,000,000 was paid off the national debt, while during the last five years there has been a deficit every year and $700,000,000 has been added to the country's debt. Are we going to appoint a man to handle our affairs for the next five years like the last five, or do we want a man who gave us the prosperity of the five years previous to 1930.

Mr. Cameron, who is the Liberal candidate in South Hastings, confined his remarks chiefly to a discussion of the Stevens party. Mr. Stevens is Canada's opportunist No. 1. For twenty-five years he had been a Conserva-

PAVING PROJECT IS DISCUSSED

At Special Meeting of Council Held Friday Last.

A special meeting of the Village Council was held in the Council Chambers on Friday night, with Reeve W. C. West in the chair and all members of Council present.

Mr. Roberts, of the Jordan Sales Co., experts in the art of finding water supplies and installing pumping stations for municipalities, was introduced to Council and discussed the local situation with the members. During the past summer the local supply was not quite sufficient and besides objections have been made about the mineral taste of the water. For the past ten years, according to Mr. Roberts, municipalities have been trying to get water supplies from sand and gravel formations, which were found to give a better quality of water than rock wells. He advised that if the local authorities were spending any more money on the present system, to try to find the supply in such a formation. The mode of testing for water bearing strata and the development of a gravel well were also explained in detail by the speaker. The latter type of well would eliminate all mineral taste from the water and the presence of Hydrogen Sulphide, which attacks the water pipes, could also be eliminated. No action was taken by Council in the matter other than to have the members of the Council accompany Mr. Roberts on a tour of inspection the next morning.

Mr. Chas. Langlois of the Routley Construction Co. also interviewed the Council relative to having Station St., from Front St. to the C.N.R. station, and Charlotte St., from Station St. to North St., paved. When the company is working in the neighbourhood and has all its equipment available, the road could be paved at much smaller cost than otherwise, said Mr. Langlois. Mr. Langlois also quoted a price for the different widths of pavement. Council, after discussing the matter at some length, left it over for further consideration at a later date.

Mr. Cameron, Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Bennett Cabinet, and only three months ago he said he was always a Conservative and always would be. When Premier Bennett's health failed, Mr. Stevens had hopes of being chosen as leader of the Conservative party. When this failed he next had hopes of being head of the League for National Government, and as a last resort formed a new party of his own. At this point, Mr. Cameron, in an effort to show the insincerity of Mr. Stevens, read extracts from Hansard, contrasting Mr. Stevens' remarks on the floor of parliament in other years to those he is making now on the eve of an election. The suggestion has been made, continued Mr. Cameron that Bennett and Stevens have a frame-up to get votes. I don't believe that, but from information I have gathered recently I be-

Listening in to Politics

The relative values of the radio and newspapers as mediums of presenting viewpoints have occasioned considerable comment in the newspapers themselves now that the politicians have again started dispensing their patent products.

"Which will make the better impression, an air broadcast or the permanence of the printed word?" asks the Toronto Globe. "... there are good reasons for the belief that the most profitable appeal candidates can make is through the press.... the spoken word is soon forgotten, while the candidate who makes his appeal through the newspapers has remarks recorded in permanent form and the advantage of this is obvious."

Speaking more specifically The Windsor Star comments on the introduction of the Reconstruction party relying entirely on the press for dispersal of its manifesto — "Mr. Stevens' recent manifesto on behalf of the Reconstruction party was given to the public exclusively through the newspapers. The audience thus reached.... was many times larger than had the same announcement been given only over the air."

Change in Division Courts

A complete reorganization of Division Courts in Eastern Ontario is under way, and the neighbouring County of Prince Edward has lost five of its courts in the shuffle. While nothing definite is known as to what the government contemplates doing in this regard in Hastings County, it has been rumoured that the local court may be abolished. If this is the case it will be an inconvenience to local residents and they will be required to bear the extra expense of going to another centre for these services. It is reported that the courts are being closed as an economy measure, but we fail to see where any great saving can be made. The judge receives a salary, irrespective of where his duties are performed, while the Clerk of the Court and the Sheriff are paid by fees. It looks to us as simply another step towards the centralization of everything in the larger centres to the detriment of the rural municipalities. There is much lament about the drift of the population from the rural sections to the city, to which governments themselves are contributing to a considerable degree when they continue to withdraw public services from the smaller to the larger centres. We are glad to note that the Stirling Council passed a resolution at a special meeting held last Friday night requesting the government to refrain from closing the local Division Court.

Fire Prevention Week — Oct. 6th to 12th

In Canada and the United States the week of October 6th to 12th is being observed as Fire Prevention Week. The Dominion Fire Marshals, local Fire Chiefs and others are co-operating with civic organizations in the furtherance of the aims of Fire Prevention.

About 350 people are burned to death and a much larger number are injured by fire in Canada every year. The recorded loss of property by fire in Canada during the 15 years, 1920 to 1934 exceeded $610,000,000. In other words, at our present burning rate, approximately one human life is sacrificed and $110,000 worth of property is destroyed every day in the year.

Fire is no respecter of persons. Every man has a responsibility towards his neighbours and that responsibility should cause every right-thinking person to pause and consider what he owes the community in which he lives. We owe it to ourselves, but in a greater degree to our fellow-citizens to permit no condition to exist upon our premises that will invite a visitation of fire. A great majority of fires are so easy to prevent that it is certainly a moral crime to tolerate the things which bring them about.

Cities and towns, like individuals, reap what they sow. To permit the erection of fire traps, to fail to provide an abundant and reliable water supply and means of using it or to fail to apply the everyday rules of fire prevention, is to constantly face a menace of heavy fires and sweeping conflagrations.

Why tolerate a condition which not only levies tribute upon life and property but in effect imposes an added cost to the conduct of every feature of business activity and increases the burden of the people in providing the necessities of life.

We cannot afford to go on and be indifferent to it all. Fire Prevention Week is a particular Week set aside to call attention to the menace of fire. Are you doing your part?

CURRENT COMMENT

With the opening of the duck season on Tuesday, and the deer season coming about a month later, the hunters of Stirling and district, together with thousands of others from various parts of Canada will be making their way to the marshes and woods after their trophies in birds and animals. At this season it is a common thing to read of human lives being snuffed out by hunting accidents: many of them just from carelessness in the handling of guns, particularly in the hands of the less-experienced sportsmen. No such fatality has occurred in Stirling district of recent years, but a few precautions may be mentioned in order to avoid accidents or possible fatalities. There are also many people injured each year, principally through their own ignorance. Common among the causes of injury are pulling guns through fences; uncased loaded guns in automobiles; accidental firing of guns through bottoms of boats; leaving obstructions in barrels such as cleaning rags, rods and the like, carelessness in handling guns by letting them explode with barrel ends under water; shooting at a moving object without seeing clearly, and firing at game without looking beyond it in the line of fire. In view of the possible danger in the careless handling of such weapons, local sportsmen would do well to pay heed to all rules of safety and thus avoid accidents.

In future any motorist involved in a fatal accident will be barred from operating a motor car for a period of thirty days, in case of no court action, according to an announcement by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, this past week. The department may also suspend the permits of drivers involved in serious non-fatal accidents, unless there is court action, or in cases where there is court action the suspension will stand until a decision is handed down. A new driving test will be required before the license is returned. For the past year the Hon. Mr. McQuesten has been conducting a safety campaign, but this latest edict is the most drastic of any coming from the department. We doubt very much if it will be very satisfactory to motorists in general. If the minister had decreed that those responsible for an accident, whether fatal or not, should be deprived of the privilege of operating a motor vehicle for thirty days, there are few who would find any fault with it. But to deprive a driver, who is in no way responsible for an accident, from the privilege of operating his car for thirty days is not just the fair thing to do, and in many cases will doubtless inflict a hardship on the motorist. It might even mean the loss of employment to a motorist who uses his car in his work. There can be no doubt but that the Minister of Highways is hard put for ways and means of impressing on motorists in general that the crippling and killing of citizens in motor accidents must stop, but we fail to see why the innocent should suffer with the guilty. Increased penalties to the guilty parties should have the desired effect.

The Federal election campaign has reached its final stages in the riding of Hastings-Peterborough. On Monday nomination proceedings took place in Marmora when three candidates were officially placed in nomination: Dr. A. T. Embury, of Bancroft, Conservative; R. Ferguson, of Asphodel, Liberal, and J. Gunter, of Bancroft, for the Reconstruction party. Up until this week there has been little activity in the way of political meetings in this corner of the riding, the candidates apparently centering their efforts in the northern part, but now the campaign has switched to this district. On Tuesday night the Liberals of Hastings-Peterborough and South Hastings held a largely attended meeting in the Stirling Community Hall, when both candidates, with their supporting speakers, presented the Liberal policies. The Reconstruction Party candidates, Mr. Judson Gunter, in Hastings-Peterborough and Mr. Laurie Lewis, in South Hastings, held a joint meeting in the same hall on Wednesday night, and, it is rumored that the Conservatives are planning a rally for later in the campaign. All three parties are making a determined effort to capture this riding and no effort is being spared to acquaint the electors with the policies of the different parties. The entry of the Stevens party into the federal fray has the old-time political prophets guessing. A few weeks ago predictions were flying thick and fast in favour of one or the other of the old parties, but as the campaign increases in intensity and the date of an election draws near, a very uncertain situation exists as to the possible outcome. The present election is being classed as a most important one in the life of the Canadian people. Consequently, the electors should attend all the political meetings possible in order to hear the various arguments presented and then after giving the matter their serious thought exercise their franchise for the betterment of the country as a whole.

NEWS-ARGUS ADS PAY

SERVICES RENDERED

(Ottawa Journal)

The fourth annual report of the Minister of Public Welfare and Municipal Affairs for Ontario is worth study for the picture it offers of private services at the public expense.

The report covers the activities of the following institutions, organizations, and worthy enterprises:

Old Age Pensions;
Mothers' Allowances;
Children's Aid Society, this branch including adoptions and administration of the Children of Unmarried Parents' Act;
Industrial Schools (five);
Training schools (two);
Ontario Society for Crippled Children;

Unemployment Relief Branch;
Supervision of 46 orphanages and 77 Houses of Refuge;
Soldiers' Aid Commission.

All of these services are necessary, in the modern conception of the state's duty to the individual. Not one could be dropped without bringing suffering to citizens of Ontario impairing their chances in life for boys and girls. But when we grumble about our taxes, about the high cost of citizenship, we should bear in mind these items of public expenditure which in the name of duty we have assumed.

Now that the cool evenings are with us, you can sit down beside the kitchen stove and figure out how many members will be elected from among the 900-odd candidates who are seeking election to the 245 seats. Then compare your list with the election result on October 15.

DID ABERHART EXAGGERATE AT SEAFORTH?

The following article objecting to the presentation of conditions in the Province of Alberta by Premier Aberhart when visiting his home town, Seaforth, Ont., is taken from a copy of the High River Times, sent to us by Mr. Geo. E. Mack, a former well-known resident of this district.

Many Albertans — probably the majority of Albertans — were startled at the picture of adverse conditions here, attributed to Premier Aberhart in a speech at his home town of Seaforth, Ontario. He is reported as saying "there are people starving in Alberta; women who have worn nothing but gunny sacks made from binder twine bags, in the last three years; children who have not tasted butter or milk in the last three years, though they live on farms. Children are crying for food in Alberta."

Referring to the many cars around Ontario, Mr. Aberhart is reported as contrasting: "In Alberta they cannot buy cars or gasoline."

If you were a part of that large audience which listened to Premier Aberhart, would you gain a favourable or a true picture of Alberta from these words? Would you envision any of the scenes with which we are familiar — the blocks upon blocks of good cars which line the streets of the rural towns every Saturday evening, the well dressed, vigorous groups of country people, who meet at social gatherings through the province, the sturdy children, the endless stretch of fertile fields, the herds of stock visible on all sides?

Mr. Aberhart was no doubt emphasizing the injustice of "poverty in the midst of plenty," but it was unfortunate that Alberta was presented in such a dolorous light. It would no doubt be found that "poverty in the midst of plenty" exists in quite as acute a degree in Ontario or Quebec or many another province.

No one can deny that there is poverty and hardship in certain drought areas of Alberta. So long as there is relief, there is hardship. But three though not perfect, does concentrate on adequate food and clothing for all years of milkless diet in the country seems a bit thick. Milk prices being what they are, it is neither economical nor thrifty to deprive a farm child of this food. There is hardship in some part of all provinces, as shown by employment records and relief costs.

But the picture of destitution as attributed to Mr. Aberhart's speech is so far from typical that Albertans read it, incredulously crying "Lawk-a-mercies this is none of it."

As for Albertans not buying cars, many Ontario visitors this summer commented in astonishment on the large number of new and good cars to be seen throughout the province — relatively as numerous as in Ontario they said.

There has been quite a mustering of provincial statistics to show that in Alberta people still use cars and gas, and it is found that Alberta stands third amongst the provinces of the Dominion in car ownership per population. In 1934 car owners paid $3,659,089 in licenses and gas tax, or 24 per cent. of the total revenue.

A significant fact about Alberta is that 97 per cent of the schools were open for eight months or more in 1934, a record that no province can better. And teachers received a higher minimum of salary than any province west of the Great Lakes. If schools were open, children attended. If they failed to attend or were inadequately clothed and nourished, it is certain that the teacher and interlocking agencies would report on such conditions and they would not go unremedied. children of the province, as well as for adults.

Alberta could point to municipal tax collections, to public health activities, to municipal doctor's contracts, to numerous enterprises and phases of social and economic life which compare most favourably with any province in Canada. It could point to the productivity of the soil to the greatly increased sale of motor cars and farm machinery this year, to the bank clearings, and general business turnover, in order to show that it really is not a horrible example of destitution. It shares with the world in world conditions of low prices and relative money scarcity, but by no means to the extent that other parts of the world, and even other parts of Canada are suffering.

To be chosen as the Horrible Example of "Poverty in the midst of plenty," is not to the liking of Albertans. Moreover it is questionable wisdom to paint such a picture of Alberta when bound on a "borrowing" mission. It would not increase the feeling of security in Alberta's productiveness.

Medical Officer (examining the recruits)—"Have you any scars on you?"

Recruit — "No sir, but I can give you a cigarette."

Miller: "I never take any trouble home with me from the office."

Kinsey: "I don't either. Mine's always waiting for me there, too."

"Julia has invited me to her golden wedding."

"Her golden wedding?"

"Yes, she is marrying a millionaire."

"Do you think your audiences enjoy the statistics you quote in your speeches?"

"No," replied Senator Sorghum, "I just put 'em in to make the rest of my remarks seem more interesting by contrast."

They were discussing the bore of the seaside boarding house. "He would talk a dog's hind leg off," observed Smith.

"And even then," answered Brown, "he would go on with the tale."

Freddie: "I fell out of bed last night."

Mother: "Poor little fellow! You must have slept too near where you got in."

Freddie: "Not at all, mother, I slept too close to where I fell out."

Week-end Guest: "I've made up my mind not to retire until I'm seventy."

Host (whose hints regarding the lateness of the hour have been ignored): "In that case, old man, I hope you won't mind if I turn in now."

Young Author: "I am writing a book on how to bring up the first baby."

Friend: "Oh! And, by the way, where is your little pet?"

"I've sent her away for six months, while I write the book."

Father: "Did you have the car out last night?"

Son: "Yes, dad; I took some of the boys for a run around."

Father: "Well, tell them I found two of their lipsticks, will you?"

Brown: "I told my wife she needed a new hat yesterday."

Green: "You told her that? Good gracious, what did she say?"

Brown: "She said, 'You sit down quietly, dear, while I phone for the doctor.'"

"Yes, I know it's a best seller, but is it pure and clean?"

"Well, the hero's a white hope, the heroine works in a laundry, and her mother takes in washing. I don't know what more you could have in the way of cleanliness."

A very strict lady was called out of bed one morning at 5 a.m. The following dialogue ensued:

Voice—"Hello!"

Lady—"Hello!"

Voice—"How are you this morning?"

Lady—"All right."

Voice—"Then I guess I must have the wrong number."

The child of rich parents saw half-a-dozen infants streaming across the street in front of her car.

"Poor little children!" she reflected, "I suppose they've got no nurses — only mothers."

Johnny—"What is a brick hod used for, daddy?"

Father—"Why for carrying bricks, of course. You should know that it explains itself."

Johnny (after a moment's silence): "Then I suppose a tripod is used for carrying tripe?"

"What made you a multi-millionaire?" a reporter asked of a big razor blade magnate.

"My wife," answered the man of sharp practices.

"Ah, her tactful help and advice in times of great need, I suppose?"

"Nothing of the sort. I was just curious to see if there was any income my wife couldn't live beyond."

On returning from a country holiday a child was met by its mother. The little one at once began to talk about country experiences, and described picking strawberries for breakfast. The mother replied: "Yes and I wonder you didn't fall out of the tree and break your neck."

One day, when Mark Twain was very busy writing in his study, his little daughter asked where daddy was, and was told she must be quiet and not disturb daddy, because he was upstairs writing an anecdote.

Not long after the door-bell rang and the little girl ran to answer it. The caller asked if Mr. Clemens was in, to which the little girl proudly replied: "Yes sir, he's in, but you can't see him, 'cause he's upstairs riding a nanny goat."

AN AUTUMN STROLL

There's something in these autumn days

With all their calm, sweet loveliness,
That merits with our warmest praise
And fills our hearts with gratefulness.
'Tis not because yon woodland range
Is richly clad in green and gold,
But 'tis because there reigns within
A peace that's better known than told.

And as I tread these wonderful paths
O'er low incline or gilded mound,
And breathe the sweetly scented air,
It seems I tread on holy ground.
But from the breezes and the hills
My secret thoughts I would not hide—
The one who shared life's joys and ills
Today seems walking by my side.

And friendship's sacred ties are dear,
More dear, than tinted bows above,
I hear her footsteps and it stirs
The deepest passions of my love.
Nor does my heart grow dark and sad
Though checking off the falling tear,
For though alone I still am glad
For autumn, scenes and memories dear.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Experiments are being conducted at the Central Experimental Farm, to determine the optimum storage temperature of poultry, meats and the most satisfactory method of packing them. The information this obtained should prove valuable to those placing poultry on local or export markets. At present it is recommended that commercially packed dressed poultry should not be held longer than two or three weeks at temperatures above 32 degrees F.

When going into storage, potatoes should be as dry as possible. All diseased or damaged tubers should be sorted out. The best storage temperature is from 33 degrees to 35 degrees F. Storing potatoes in the basement of a dwelling house is not, as a rule, satisfactory owing to the difficulty of providing proper ventilation. Many thousands of bushels of potatoes are lost each year through storing in faulty cellars, closely constructed bins and where the temperature is too high.

Handling Eggs

Eggs should be collected at least once daily, and during very cold and very warm weather collections should be made at noon and night to avoid freezing or heating. The eggs should be taken at once to a cool cellar, where there is a fairly uniform low temperature. It may be advisable to open one or two windows and substitute screens covered with cheesecloth to carry off odour or excessive moisture. Dirty eggs should be cleaned with coarse sandpaper, but not washed. Stains may be removed with a little vinegar on a clean cloth. Washing eggs destroys the protective coating and lowers the grade.

Current Crop Report

Threshing operations have been slower than usual, due to the bulkiness of the harvest. Canners are now completing a satisfactory pack of corn and potatoes. Fodder corn is being cut, the yield is above average. Late potatoes give poor promise. Recent tests show a reduced sugar content in the sugar beet crop, but the tonnage is expected to be well above that of last year. Early varieties of apples, while smaller than usual, are a good yield. Later kinds are patchy and yields will be light. Plums are being shipped to Great Britain in large quantities. The pear crop is below normal. A large percentage of an exceptionally good tobacco crop has been safely harvested. It is estimated that the yield for the Norfolk area will be around 30,000,000 pounds, with the quality on the whole well above average.

Crop Production

The Department gives the total production of Spring wheat in 1935 as 1,867,000 bushels, as compared with 1,803,000 bushels in 1934. The oat harvest will yield 37,224,000 bushels an increase of 5,698,000 bushels over last year. The average yields are slightly in advance of 1934, that of spring wheat being 18.9 bushels per acre, as against 18.7 last year, and an average of 19.6 for the past decade, and of oats, 36.7 bushels compared with 34.1 in 1934, an average of 34.8 for a ten year period. As for barley, during the last ten years, the crop has averaged 15,415,000 bushels. The production this year, the report says, will be 17,050,000 bushels, an advance of 2,208,000 over last year. A near-record crop of lay and clover is reported. The weather and other factors have, however, brought, in some sections, grains to too rapid maturity, and have adversely affected the late potato yield and root crops, as well as the sugar beet and tobacco production.

The Time for Culling

According to most practical poultrymen culling should be a continuous and constant process. All the birds that are poor doers, either hens or pullets, should be eliminated before they become seriously ill and used as market birds. In chicks these can be determined by slow growth, small shanks, shallow heads, narrow backs, etc. Hens that stop laying early should be culled out. Those which show evidences of anaemic qualities should be culled out. Every bird that is doing poorly should be culled out for the mere fact that, if not culled out, it is liable to contract disease more easily than those that are doing well.

Hens should be culled out from the middle of May on. Those which stop laying the last of May and during June July and August, certainly should be eliminated and those which lay into September, October and November should be kept for breeders. If you want next year 50 breeders in a general way, keep the 50 that stopped laying the last. Of course, always cull for disease.

Cull the Poultry Flock

Poultrymen are advised to cull their pullets before putting them in the laying pen for the winter. All undeveloped pullets should be prepared for market as they would make poor producers. Birds which appear to be unthrifty should also be removed. If yearling hens are to be kept over to serve as breeders in the following spring, and on trap-net records are available, cull out all birds which are early moulters, those showing yellow shanks or beak, those showing coarseness in the head and those possessing hardness or excessive fullness in the abdominal regions. The best layers are the late moulters which will be found in broken or ragged feather at this season. They will possess clean cut heads, bright prominent eyes, lack of yellow pigment in beak, legs or flesh colour, and above all, they will have abdomens which are soft and pliable. Rely on these late layers for your future breeders.

Transplanting Trees

When trees die after transplanting the cause may often be ascribed to lack of sufficient care on the part of the transplanters. Trees and shrubs should be dug out as carefully as possible so as to retain a large proportion of the roots. The more roots there are, the greater the chance the plant has of living. The roots should not be allowed to become dry from the time of digging until the trees are in the ground again. They may be protected from drying in transit by protecting them with wet moss or wet sackings. If the roots at evergreens, especially pines, become dry even for a short time, the trees are almost sure to die. When planting, a hole should be dug large enough so that the roots may be spread out and not crowded or doubled up. The hole should also be deep enough so that the tree will be one or two inches deeper than it was in the woods or nursery. If the soil is at all poor it should be discarded if possible and the hole filled with good soil which should come in close contact with the roots and be trodden down. Manure should not be put in the hole with the soil as it may burn the roots or make the soil so loose that it will dry out easily.

ONE CACHOO

One little sneeze that might have meant death "ca-chooed" Stanley Barlow, of Peterborough into the ditch a short distance west of Havelock on No. 7 highway on Friday afternoon. Driving home with Mrs. Barlow after visiting at his Belmont Lake cottage he was crowding the right side of the road on the curve a few yards from the bridge over Plateau Creek when the sneezing impulse struck him, and in spite of Mrs. Barlow's attempt to right the car, they found themselves piled in the ditch. The assistance of an auto derrick was needed to set the car back on the road. The popular "Stan", who lived at Norwood for many years, escaped with a severe shaking up.

When one we loved so dearly, so gently passed away.

It was hard to part, but it was God's

To vacate the chair that we can never

God saw the road was getting rough,
And the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed his weary eyelids,
And whispered, "Peace be thine."

LIBERAL RALLY HELD

I have that should no party have a working majority in the next House the Stevens and Conservative members will unite and thus we will have another five years of Conservative rule. According to the Montreal Gazette, an attempt has been made to procure a saw-off in the Province of Quebec. Coming nearer home J. Gunter had sought the Conservative convention and when defeated had become the Reconstruction Candidate.
The constituencies of South York and the City of London, where other examples pointed out by Mr. Cameron where candidates had switched their allegiance. "A vote for Stevens is a vote for Bennett," said Mr. Cameron.
Mr. C. F. Aylesworth also briefly addressed the gathering which was presided over by Mr. J. E. O'Donnell.
Others on the platform were Col. R.
Vanderwater, Mr. Harry Heath and Mr. Harder.

RECONSTRUCTIONISTS MET

low private individuals to do this thing. Both old parties are guilty, and we as a people have been responsible for allowing it to exist. Big interests control the leaders of both old parties, but if Mr. Stevens gets into power he will fight these interests. A challenge is being issued to the people of Canada by Stevens, and it is only the people of Canada that can get us out of this fix.

Had Bennett issued treasury notes and Canadian money gone down to a par with the British pound, Canadian farmers would have received two or three cents more for every pound of cheese shipped to the Old Country.
What happened? The big financial interests bought large stocks of manufactured goods in England when the pound was down, with a consequence that employees in Canadian factories were thrown out of employment and businesses failed. The purchasing power of Canada was killed.

Referring to the fuel situation in Canada, Mr. Gunter said "$51,000,000 was sent to the coal fields of Pennsylvania every year. We have just as good in Alberta. We have railways and men. What is wrong? Mr. Stevens has promised a new fuel policy in his platform.

Until we get employment for our boys and girls, depression will be with us indefinitely. Hon. Harry Stevens has said to the people of Canada, there's got to be a show down. We've got to have the people who are fighting for the common masses on one side and the big interests on the other.
Are the people of Canada going to rise to the occasion and forget partiality, and support a man who has been brave enough to fight the big interests?

Miss Lorna Edwards

Declaring that if our representatives at Ottawa hadn't gone to sleep on the job, we wouldn't be in the mess we're in, Miss Lorna Edwards, of Toronto, took the Liberal speakers to task for stating there was collusion between Mr. Stevens and Mr.
Bennett. It is a malicious falsehood and they know it is a lie.

MacKenzie King promised at the Winnipeg convention to bring in unemployment insurance. Have you got it? Even in the good times previous to 1930 our young people had to go to the United States in search of work because MacKenzie King couldn't give them a job. Youth is not saying to Governments "you owe us a living".
Youth wants work and is asking for it.

"Canada Packers sit in Toronto and set the prices to be paid the farmer for his hogs. If you heard of such action in Russia you would hold up your hands in horror. But you're hearing about it every day in Canada and what are you going to do about it. You will have your chance on October 14th," said Miss Edwards.

Laurie Lewis

"Diogenes took a lamp and went out to search for an honest man. I challenged you tonight to take your light and go out and find a contented man.
You can't find him because there is no economic security in Canada. Everybody is discontented. Everyone is in fear of tomorrow. We've all been intimidated into submission—a great northern race become a supine people," said Mr. Lewis in opening his address.

"Canada has a great problem. You electors should decide whether you are going to be governed by the monied men, thirteen of whom control fifty-one per cent. of the wealth of this country, or whether you are going to assert yourself and follow Hon.
H. H. Stevens, a great leader. These are the men," continued the speaker, "who are holding up the medium of exchange by which commerce can operate. This is the secret of all our troubles. You small business men can't get money from the banks. They want government bonds as security.
But if you want money for the expansion of your business you can't get it.
MacKenzie King and R. B. Bennett want to lead so they can hog the people. Mr. Stevens proposes to break this chain which binds us.

Explaining Mr. Stevens' platform,
Mr. Lewis stated that he proposed in-roducing a housing scheme, as well as a reforestation scheme.

"In addition to the coal fields of Alberta and Nova Scotia, we have a large peat industry in Canada waiting for money to develop it. Stevens will require the money barons to loosen their purse strings. What Great Britain did Canada should have done in 1931. Their housing scheme brought them out of the depression, 2,670,000 homes being built there in a few years. Our leaders have been political tricksters instead of statesmen.

Easy money is the thing for Canada, but we haven't far-seeing bankers and statesmen.
"Mr. Stevens has shown that there is plenty of work to be done. The old parties are lacking in policies, but we have the policies to remedy conditions.

Reviewing the regimes of Bennett and King, Mr. Lewis mentioned the Beauharnois scandal and the Imperial Conference held at Ottawa in which Premier Bennett almost shattered negotiations because he demanded such high protection for the wealthy textile manufacturers.
"Mr. Stevens proposes a tax against these multiple unit corporations and give the small manufacturers or stores a chance. All Mr. Stevens is looking for is justice and equity for the people.
"Nine hundred million dollars is being spent each year in Canada," said Mr. Lewis, "with ten governments to attend to the affairs of ten million people. Mr. Stevens proposes, if elected, to cut fifty per cent in duplication services alone, which would enough to balance the budget of every government and have enough left over to help retire the national debt."

The DIVORCE COURT MURDER

by MILTON PROPPER

FIFTEENTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS

Barbara Keith, wife of a prominent Philadelphia business man, is murdered as she waits alone in a side room to testify in the divorce case of Rowland vs. Rowland. She was to have testified for the husband, a friend, who was defendant in the action. Detective Tommy Rankin is assigned to the case from police headquarters. His preliminary investigation disclosed that both Mr. and Mrs. Rowland had gathered evidence against the other of infidelity. The will of Mrs. Rowland's first husband directed her lawyer brother, Mr. Wilford, to handle the estate until she remarried when the new husband was to come into control. Detective Rankin finds motives and the evidence of guilt in the murder of Mrs. Keith, leading to the doors of virtually all the principals involved. These principals are, the two Rowlands, Mr. Wilford, Mr. Keith, husband of the murdered woman, Hugh Campbell, paramour of Mrs. Rowland, and his underworld confederates.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Well, Rankin, here it all is," said the lieutenant. "You can have aid in going through it, if you need it. What are you particularly interested in?"

"Every bit of it," Rankin returned. "I'll want to make a thorough search. But first, have you found a picture of Dennis among his belongings?"

Becker shook his head. "There wasn't any, or our aunt for him might have been more successful."

"I suppose a description of Dennis will have to do then," Rankin observed. "Of course, you obtained full details of his looks from Miss Trent."

"Yes, it's right here — as exact a picture of him as she could give us."

Disappointingly, however, the record was not overly practical for identification; it might have applied to thousands of similar youngish, attractive men.

"What about his fingerprints?" the detective queried. "He must have left plenty in his quarters on the articles he handled."

Lieutenant Becker produced an ink-smudged paper. "These are the ones we found on his furniture."

"I'd like a copy of these," Rankin requested.

The detective reached for a suitcase. "I'll start going through Dennis' things," he said. "If you'll get some one to open these other bags, lieutenant, and help me sort their contents, it won't take long."

Instead of summoning assistance, Becker lent Rankin a hand himself. There were three bags altogether, the one on which Rankin began his examination being of brown leather, oblong and held together by straps. The second was a rumpled black catchel, somewhat old and frayed, while the third was a patent-leather overnight case. None bore traveling tags, and only the last a manufacturer's imprint; though on the suitcase the name of the retailer, a well-known department store in Chicago, was stamped.

Mr. Lewis watched the detective, with admiration and wonder at his thoroughness. Careful to miss no item, the detective examined the band of a crushed felt hat and a gray cap, both size 7½, seeking a clue as to where they were bought. He also searched for hairs from Dennis' head that might cling to them. Similarly, he scrutinized his safety razor shaving kit, which was unmarked. The fugitive had three inexpensive but sporty suits. The miscellaneous contents of the pockets included a small revolver, loose change, a handkerchief, a ring of skeleton keys, and a flask.

"Say, Becker, look at this belt!" What do you make of that?" said Rankin suddenly.

Abruptly, after his excited exclamation, he broke off and extended the article in his hands. As he was repacking it into the suitcase, he happened to study it more closely. It was a finely grained, strong belt of shining brown leather. Smooth and wide, the usual holes were punched at one end; at the other, a heavy brass buckle still glittered brightly, after years of storage and neglect.

Rankin's eyes shone, as though at an unexpected inspiration, causing Becker to take it with a bewildered frown.

He turned it over. "Well, what about it, Rankin?" he returned. "It's an exceptionally fine piece of leather, I'll admit; but it's just a belt as far as I can see."

"I wonder," the other's voice rang with enthusiasm. "That's just it; it's too good and strong for an ordinary civilian belt. It looks to me very much like a russet belt — a fair leather belt is the slang for it in the service."

"Service?" Becker repeated, obviously startled by the suggestion. "You mean this is an army belt?"

"Either that or a marine belt, lieutenant," Rankin directed his explanation more to Mr. Lewis than to the officer. "No doubt you've noticed service men in the winter — particularly soldiers and marines — wearing heavy khaki overcoats; they put these russet belts around them on the outside. They're something like the Sam Brown belts officers wear about their uniforms."

The lieutenant inspected it carefully. "But there's nothing on it to indicate that it's part of service equipment," he objected. "I always supposed the stuff was marked — either stamped with the name of the corps, or the initials of the army or navy punched on it."

"You'll generally find the name of the depot that issued it," Rankin agreed. "But it's usually placed on a small loose leather strip, inside; that connects the buckle with the loop for the end of the belt, to keep it from flapping. And that's easily removed. If Dennis didn't want the fact known that he had been in the service, he could slip off that strip. I enlisted during the war, and from my training camp days I recall that much about my uniform."

The lawyer also examined it. "It's very likely this is a service belt," he then agreed, "only you mustn't jump to conclusions. It is possible this didn't come from a post, but from an army and navy store; I understand they can be purchased there quite easily."

For an instant this idea took Rankin aback; then his confidence in his theory reassured itself.

"That's a chance I'll have to take," he replied. "But one thing is certain," he added with enthusiasm and excitement. "If Dennis was ever in either military branch, we'll be making genuine progress. They maintain a complete record of their men, and we should get valuable information about him."

Despite the optimism he expressed about the clue from Fred Dennis' suitcase, Tommy Rankin fully realized the slenderness of the thread on which he depended.

Nevertheless, having progressed as far as possible with his investigations at Fort Wayne, he looked hopefully toward his next step. Indeed, he had no other avenue of approach. In uncovering Dennis as a likely suspect, as the murderer of Barbara Keith, he had been favoured.

The detective caught the Manhattan Limited, New York bound; that necessitated a change at Harrisburg, for the most direct route to Washington. In the nation's capital he knew where lodged the records of all enlisted men, as far back as the American Revolution.

Eager and alert, he nevertheless retired, and for the second night in succession, slept aboard a train. So far as he could predict, the pursuit of Fred Dennis had just begun; through six years and in many places, because of the precarious life he led, he must trail the wanderings of the culprit. There was no judging how long the chase would take him or how far afield.

In the morning the detective disembarked at the Union Station in Washington.

Offhand which bureau housed the information he sought, Rankin decided first to cover the possibility of Dennis having been a marine, and instructed a taxi to drive him to the Navy Building.

Within his official card speedily gained him the intelligence, at the information desk, that the records of enlisted men were in the charge of the adjutant-inspector's office.

Once he proved his bona-fides, Rankin anticipated no difficulty in gaining access to the records he required.

Mr. Roche, a blond, dapper young man in a wing collar, was, however, impressed with his own importance. Behind his cold politeness the detective sensed suspicion and antagonism. Rankin did not mention the murder, giving Mr. Roche to understand that he hunted Dennis as the ringleader of a robber organization. It was not until the latter realized the magnitude of his quarry's activities and more important, that he had been out of the service more than six years, that he thawed into affability.

He nodded more graciously. "Yes, I think we should find the information you want in our files," he said. "What was the fellow's name, Mr. Rankin?"

"Fred Dennis," Rankin returned. "That doesn't mean, of course, that he enlisted under it; he has probably changed it a dozen times since. But I've also brought his fingerprints to compare with those on file. You take the men's fingerprints, I believe?"

"Oh, yes, that is included in the description," Mr. Roche extended his hand. "Give them to me and I'll arrange to have the record examined now."

"And what about photographs?" Rankin spoke a bit anxiously. "Have you pictures of your men as well?"

The secretary shook his head. "We don't take them as a regular part of the enlistment process. But whenever recruits have to undergo a preliminary training, they are usually photographed in training camp, and their pictures put in their record book. There is a space for it."

The detective produced the data he brought from Fort Wayne; and quickly scribbling a few notes, Mr. Roche rang a bell on his desk. To the orderly who answered it he passed both the papers and the message.

He was gone for more than a half hour, fraught for Rankin with intense suspense and anxiety. He had no other workable clue to Dennis' trail; so much depended on his uncovering facts about him in one of the two military divisions.

He sighed in secret relief when the orderly returned with more papers than he had taken with him.

"There were several Fred Denises in the files, sir," the man reported briskly, "but none of them answers the description of the chap you're after. On the other hand I've also had the prints traced from their general pattern; Mr. Gorgas, in the Bureau, says they fit some one named Steve Harmon. So I've brought this record along."

Mr. Roche waved his hand. "Carson. Put them down on the desk, and thank you."

He waited until the orderly left the office before inspecting the record with Rankin.

"Steve Harmon," he read aloud, "age twenty-two, height six feet one inch, eyes blue, weight a hundred seventy, thin, broad-shouldered, dark hair, that appears to fit your description. I suppose there's no danger someone else has similar prints."

"Not a chance in ten million of their being duplicated," Rankin asserted. He bent over the inkmarks intently. "Yes, these agree exactly with those the authorities have," he pointed out, "those lines and that broken curve. And note the ovals along the upper ridge."

"Well, here is his complete history," The secretary opened a pamphlet and turned its pages. "He enlisted in April, nineteen-twenty-five, at San Antonio, Texas, and was sent for preliminary training to the San Diego Marine Barracks. Has no family ties or responsibilities. Was assigned to the U.S.S. Wyoming in June. . . . Hm, he was a pretty poor specimen of a marine and needed plenty of disciplining. Insubordination, A.W.O.L. and petty thieving of clothes; he was leniently let off with a month in the brig. And he ended by deserting in October."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

IS YOUR LENS CLEAN?

With a clean lens, plus proper exposure, you should always get sharp, clear pictures such as the ones above.

THE Guild has received a number of letters from fellow snapshot-takers complaining about smudgy looking pictures. They say they know their exposures are correct and developing done carefully with fresh, clean chemicals.

Granting that all this is true the next thing to consider is your lens. Is it clean? You have looked through dirty eye-glasses with probably a few finger prints on them. If you haven't it's a sure bet that you have experienced the difficulty of looking through a smudgy window. Clean eye-glasses and clean windows give clear vision and similarly the camera cannot "see" so well if its eye (the lens) is cloudy and smudgy from grease, finger prints and dust collected over a period of months.

Cleaning a lens is a very simple operation. All you need is a soft, unstarched linen handkerchief and perhaps a match or pencil. If the lens is quite small, the rear surface of the lens can easily be reached by removing the back of the camera. If the camera has a double lens (one behind and one in front of the shutter diaphragm), the front combination may be removed by turning to the left, which will allow you to work through the shutter opening when set for "time," with the handkerchief over the end of the match or lead pencil. If the lens is quite dirty breathe on it and then rub quickly with the handkerchief. Be sure, when replacing the front lens, to screw it back into the shutter as far as it will go.

The suggestion to work through the shutter opening also applies to cleaning the front surface of cameras with single lenses fitted to box cameras and certain folding models. Handle the lens carefully and don't exert too much pressure. It isn't necessary and might scratch the surface.

The amount of pleasure you get out of your camera depends almost entirely on how much thought and care you give it.

Picture taking is just like golf, tennis, basketball or bowling—the more you experiment, the more thought you give to your hobby, the greater your reward in self-satisfaction.

There are many good books available on amateur photography but one of the latest off the press is called "How to Take Good Pictures." It is packed with sound advice for the beginner or the advanced amateur and profusely illustrated with pictures of every type, diagrams and what have you. It might be called "The Amateur Photographer's Reference Book," but don't think for one minute it is as "dry" as such a name might imply. You can no doubt purchase this book from stores that sell cameras and photographic supplies.

If you know your camera—its limitations or its versatility—give careful thought to composition and story-telling possibilities you are well along your way to take pictures as interesting and sharp as the two shown above.

Sunday Programs of Merit
"And it came to Pass . . ." the new fall series of Sunday afternoon programs from the Montreal studios of the Canadian Radio Commission, got away to a good start on September 29, and judging from the reaction of listeners the presentations bid fair to become among the most popular on the networks.

The ten broadcasts are under the direction of Rupert Caplan and the scripts, written by people who know their subject, have the unanimous approval of leaders of the different religious denominations. While the broadcasts are based on Biblical stories, they are not religious in the true sense of the word and listeners need not fear that they will be given anything in the nature of sermons. Most of the famous stories from the Bible are inspiringly romantic, with no small amount of adventure and it is from these that the broadcasts have been adapted. Due reverence in the treatment of the topics will, of course, be maintained and no actor will impersonate Christ.

The next presentation will be "The Windows of Heaven," by William Boyce, and will be heard over the Commission's national network at 5:30 p.m.

"Forgotten Footsteps" to Begin Soon
"Forgotten Footsteps", the series of beautiful fantasies constituting one of the most unusual dramatic features ever designed for radio presentation which will be offered on the fall program schedule of the Canadian Radio

Commission, makes its premiere on Sunday, October 13, over the national network from Toronto. Based on the Romance surrounding the art and historical relics in the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology, the series will open with "The Trojan Mirror," a dramatization of the romance inspired by the Bronze Mirror. This mirror, which now rests in the Museum, is one of the finest pieces of Greek goods belonging to the 5th Century, B.C., and bears exquisite tracings of the figure of a beautiful young woman. The tragedy of her love of a Grecian warrior will be the basis of the story.

Throughout this program, as in the others of the series, there will be one sustaining character. He will be a veteran art collector whose belief is that the only real life is the life of the past and whose imagination is fired by the stories of the men and women who walked the earth hundred of years ago. He will relate his tales to a typical Canadian school boy, "Forgotten Footsteps," which will be both fascinating and entertaining, will provide many interesting things about the treasures which have been brought from the tombs and ruins of other civilizations. It is highly recommended as Sunday evening feature for both children and adults.

Another CRCM Surprise
Surprises are becoming more and more commonplace at station CRCM. The other day program men were jilted out of their deep concentration on new material when Miss Therese Bertholet walked into the office displaying, amid blushes, a significant band on the third finger of her left hand.

Little Therese, erstwhile "Mademoiselle from Armentieres," had had a very busy day. She began with a more trifle of a wedding in the morning. That wouldn't be so exciting, perhaps, if it had not been for the fact that Therese took a leading part. She was the bride.

As the day progressed Miss Bertholet attended a dress rehearsal of CRCM, went on the air for a broadcast, and attended a special dinner given that evening in her honour. Then returning once more to the studios she underwent a special audition in connection with the fall operetta programs. Having fulfilled all her radio obligations, Therese then joined her husband, Dr. Martin, and they embarked on a boat bound for Bermuda, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Miss Bertholet was one of the first women to launch French Chansonnettes in Montreal. She has deserved every bit of her success, being what is known in stage parlance as "A regular little trouper."

Chuhaldin Plays Famous Suite
Alexander Chuhaldin's October 7 presentation of his international exchange "Sinfonietta" program will highlight the famous Reblin Milford Suite in six parts. The Suite begins with the Prelude, continues with the Air, the Minuet and Trio, the Quick Dance, the Slow Dance, and ends with the Jig. The 9:30 p.m. spot is reserved for this program which will also be carried by NBC.

World News Interpreted
Listeners interested in world affairs should enjoy the regular Sunday afternoon broadcasts of Professor Herbert L. Stewart, of Dalhousie University, Halifax. Prof. Stewart has gained recognition through his brilliant interpretations of the news and his frank, unbiased opinions. These programs are carried by all Commission stations at 6:30 p.m.

TYPHOID IN BELLEVILLE

Ten cases of typhoid fever were reported in Belleville on Saturday by Dr. G. S. Cronk, medical officer of Health. He said the cases, traced to impure water have all been isolated and that they are not virulent. All patients are expected to recover. Dr. A. L. McKay, of the Ontario Department of Health and Engineer Johnson, have been assisting Dr. Cronk. The disease is reported to have originated in a well at the Fair Grounds, used extensively during Fair Week, August 27-30. The well was ordered filled in and the work has been completed.

HORSE IS KILLED BY CAR

Norwood — Wandering down No. 7 Highway apparently in search of his former home, a horse belonging to T. C. Haddlesey was struck by two different automobiles on Friday night. Mr. Haddlesey had purchased the horse from Wm. Heffernan of Asphodel only a short time before. Slipping the halter in some way "Dobbin" managed to break out of his stable and evidently struck out for his former home on The Loneragan farm about three miles west of Norwood. About eight o'clock a Toronto car hit the animal and slightly injured him, the car having to come into Webb's garage for repairs to headlights bumper and fenders. Later in the evening a second car, a new Ford V-8 owned by Miss Peggy Dawson of Campbellford and driven by Miss Mayda Joyce, also of Campbellford, struck the horse, breaking his neck and both hind legs and killing him almost instantly. The car was badly damaged.

SIDNEY CROSSING

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Mason, of Campbellford, also Mrs. M. Outwater and son Clayton, of Mt. Carmel, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Outwater on Sunday.

Mrs. J. Vallis, of Hamilton, Bermuda, attended Aikins Church on Sunday and was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Grills.

The regular Sunday School Service was held in Aikins Church on Sunday morning. Misses Ferns MacMullen and Betty Finkle favoured with a duet as a special number. The Church service was then conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. B. Johnston. The special music was a duet "My Saviour First of All," by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Westover.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stickle and Muriel, of Johnstown, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hogle on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eggleton and family were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. Walter Meyers and family, Wooler.

A number of ladies of this neighborhood spent a very enjoyable afternoon at Centenary Church on Wednesday. The ladies of the Centenary V.M.S. made them feel very welcome. Miss Vera Ray, who is leaving for Nigeria, Africa, where she will take up her duties as Missionary, gave a very interesting talk, which was much appreciated.

BOB PATTERSON

SEEN THROUGH THE OFFICE WINDOW

BY
OWL

Howdy gang!

We believe Lindsay Melkjohn is right when he claims we're in the midst of a depression —

At least nobody seems to be going anywhere or doing anything that we can find out for the weekly edition.

And that's why we missed last week.

But speaking of not going anywhere or no visitors or nothing —

That brings to mind a little occurrence of last Tuesday afternoon.

You know, the Office Owl has frequent visitors of all sort and descriptions — varying from Bob Patterson to Cliff Baker, etc., but on Tuesday we were surprised to see two stately-looking gents appear in our corner that we weren't quite expecting —

There stood Constable Eggleton, looking all straight-faced and pious like —

And we weren't even quite so surprised to see Sam either, but —

Right behind him stood about as fine an array of brass buttons as we ever saw pinned to a cop's dress suit.

Well, we began to wonder if somebody had figured we had busted a window in "Stub" Rollins' Barber Shop, run over Bill Whitty or snatched all the ice cream cones out of Joe Whitehead's candy house —

In fact all the sins of past months wiggled up and down a jumping and twitching frame until —

We found it was none other than an old friend of ours — Clair Hayes, the genial Chief from Tweed.

And if you don't believe that Clair can throw a bit of a scare at yuh, ask Don MacCallum!

Before the Office Owl came to Stirling to occupy this column on the back page of the News-Argus, we used to print the time-tables for the railways at Tweed, and Clair, who was at that time engaged as a C.P.R. despatcher, or something, in that town, used to see to it that the time-tables were obeyed — he fired three presidents and a secretary-treasurer for the same thing!

While the two "cops" were visiting with yours truly, Cliff Baker came in, opened his mouth to say something — and closed it right up again for fear he would — and marched right out with both hands in his pockets.

Evidently Cliff don't trust them there policemen either!

Well right after that, Bob Patterson came in and he sort of gave us a line-up on the chicken supper at Carmel on Monday night.

The three musketeers — Tom Ward, Gord Bailey and Tommy Solmes were there — and nothing survived on that end of the table.

They ate everything as far as they could yell both ways.

But we expected that.

What we didn't expect was the rest of the yarn Bob told us.

It seems as though Murney Hick was there too.

Murney sat through three complete servings, and made no attempt to move until Ed Pyear claims, he went over and asked him what he had in that bag under the table.

After some questioning, Murney admitted that he had taken his supper with him in case they ran short!

Believe it or not!

Some of the boys were telling us another yarn about Bill Dunn, down at Tai Long's eating house.

It seems as though when the strangers flock in to the reception room, it's up to Bill to do the announcing of the guests.

Anyway the three newcomers asked Bill to please announce "Mr. and Mrs. Dollar and daughter".

And Bill rushed inside and with all the dignity demanded on such occasions, politely yells out: "Three B-B-Bucks!"

Tom Cranston believes an old-timer is one who can remember when all the abbreviations he had to know were BVD and RFD.

Well the cold weather has just about finished all the local sport activities.

Harry Lovibond, better known to the travelling public as "Sir Malcolm Campbell", says that now the tennis season is over, the only thing his racket is any good for is to strain the notatoes.

A couple of weeks ago we carried an article about Robt. Eggleton being seventy-nine and F. T. Ward being seventy-eight.

And in walks Nell Bedell, the Minto fortune-teller, and says that these youngsters down here that are forever blowing about their ages and what they can do, kind of give him a pain in the apron.

Nell tells us that within the next two weeks he'll be eighty-two, and on the morning of his birthday, he's going to come to Stirling, call for Messrs Ward and Eggleton, and put up so much hard cash as a guarantee that neither one of them can walk down to Belleville and back with him.

Why he picks out Belleville, we don't know.

They might walk down all right, but —

Anyway, according to reports, the Community Welfare Club is going to commence operations again for the fall and winter season.

MAPLE LEAF MISSION BAND

The initial meeting for the fall term of the Maple Leaf Mission Band was held in the basement of the church on Saturday afternoon last with a good attendance. The meeting was presided over by the President, Marguerite Rosebush and the Scripture Lesson was read by Lillian Matthews. Grant Montgomery in a short recitation set forth the aim and object of Mission Band work. A primary exercise "Dropping Pennies" was given by five little girls, Jean McIntosh, Shirley Montgomery, Mary Agnes Fox, Margaret Wilson and Doris Rodgers. Three of the senior girls, May Johnston, Marguerite Rosebush and Inez Elgie, sang a trio which all thoroughly enjoyed. Mrs. H. Rollins told the story of the Missionary Mite Box. The Junior girls and boys put on a dialogue which was a comedy with a moral. In the opening scene four girls, Jean Dufos, Doris Jandrow, Lillian Matthews and Dorothy Montgomery were telling how thoroughly disgusted each was with her particular duty in connection with the Junior Missionary Society. They became disinterested and dozed to sleep. Several kitchen utensils entered and they too were disgusted with their share in life. Finally the broom and the mop entered and they were so happy with their humble tasks. They envy no one but endeavour to brighten the corner where they are. They teach the lesson and all agree that in future they will strive to face life's tasks with joy and satisfaction. Rev. Koffend then spoke to the children and stressed the thought brought out by the short play. Lunch was served and a social hour spent. Mrs. R. H. Williams was accompanist for the meeting.

RIVER VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bush, Jack and Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rosebush, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rosebush, Cobourg.

Mrs. Elgin Jackson spent Saturday with her daughter, Mrs. Stanley Irvin.

Misses Evelyn Bush and Dorothy Utman spent a few days last week with Mrs. Eldred, Peterboro.

Miss Helen McDonald spent the week-end with Mrs. Arthur Pyear.

MADE OFFICIAL VISIT

Rt. Wor. Bro. E. A. Carleton, District Deputy Grand Master of Prince Edward District, A.F. & A.M. was in Deseronto on Tuesday night, where he paid his official visit to Craig Lodge, No. 401. He was accompanied by Wor. Bro. T. W. Solmes, District Secretary, and Wor. Bro. G. B. Bedford, District Chaplain.

SUNSHINE MISSION BAND

The September meeting of the Sunshine Mission Band of St. Andrew's Church, at West Huntingdon, met on Sunday, Sept. 29th. ST. PAUL'S Y. P. S.

The first regular meeting of St. Paul's Young People's Society was held in the Church parlours on Monday evening, under the direction of the Citizenship Department. The President, Miss Mary Hullin, was in charge of the meeting, which opened with a short song service, followed with prayer by Mrs. George White. Miss Irene Bronson read the Scripture Lesson, 72nd Psalm. Mr. Arthur Duncan rendered a very pleasing solo "The Sinner and the Song", accompanied at the piano by Mr. G. L. Clute. During the business part of the evening, which followed, the various sub-leaders were called to the platform, and each in turn read over the names of the members belonging to their particular group. The Executive for the coming year under the leadership of Miss Mary Hullin, President, is made up of four vice-presidents: Reg. Mathison, 1st vice-Pres.; Lloyd Rowland, 2nd vice-Pres.; Miss Helen Mallory, 3rd vice-President and Miss Dorothy Eggleton, fourth vice-president. The speaker of the evening was Mr. H. Scollie, Science Teacher of the High School. Speaking on the theme of "Citizenship", the speaker dealt with our influence over the lives of children who are to be the Citizens of tomorrow. It is well to always remember that children acquire habits good and bad, and we are the ones that they imitate. We owe it to all humanity to live so that our lives have a fruitful bearing on the future citizens of the nation. To develop good citizens is the aim of all young people's organizations, and we should strive to encourage this great work. Education too has a very prominent part to play in the development of good citizens. It serves to broaden the mind, and give confidence to the students in expressing constructive ideas for the mutual benefit of mankind. To be physically fit is an aid to good citizenship also and there is no greater medium for the development of the body than clean sport, which also teaches the value of fair play which is an essential quality in the life of any successful person. The years of youth from the ages of 12 to 20 years are the moulding years which have a permanent influence on our entire life, provide the right environment for these years and we will raise the standards of citizenship. In the present days of perplexity all citizens are faced with the problem and to solve them we must be sufficiently broad-minded to weigh carefully the thought of others, and still have sufficient courage to act and think for ourselves. With the coming of the election in the next few days, there will be those who for the first time in their lives will be called upon to exercise their right to vote. Before then, it would be well for them to know that the first vote they cast will have the influence on the lives of all men in this country. In closing this very able address which was brimming over with constructive thought, Mr. Scollie said that the qualities essential to good citizenship were honesty, loyalty, clean living and clean thinking, and lastly self-confidence. Misses Grace Pitman and Mildred White delighted the audience with a piano duet, "At Full Tide" by O. VanRaalte. Mrs. J. Balmforth put on a car contest. Attendance was seventy-five. The Mizpah Benediction closed this very interesting meeting.

called forth many favourable comments. Thank you, Tom.

To mention an outstanding performance in connection with the evening's entertainment would be difficult indeed. The solos by Misses Maybee and McDonald were much appreciated and the readings of Mr. Smith and Miss Barnum were fitting and very entertaining. The hand saw solo by Mr. Sills was listened to with pleasure as were the numbers of the trio orchestra, Mr. Sills, Mr. M. Fraser and Mrs. A. Pyear. It was good to have present Rev. A. J. Terrill and Rev. C. W. Barrett, former pastors, who brought fine messages. Rev. J. E. Beckel, of Rawdon charge, brought the greetings of his people.

CONSERVATIVE JOINT MEETING

Large Audience Hears Questions of Day Discussed by Candidates

A joint public meeting in the interests of Mr. W. E. Munton, Conservative candidate for South Hastings, and Dr. A. T. Embury, the Conservative choice for Hastings-Peterborough, was held in the Community Hall here on Tuesday night, when some two hundred and fifty electors turned out to hear the Conservative side of the election issues.

Mr. J. S. Morton acted as chairman throughout the meeting and with but a few remarks introduced Mr. Geo. Reid, of Belleville, Conservative organizer, as the first speaker.

Mr. Reid in opening his remarks reminded his hearers of the necessity for organization and entreated every Conservative to get busy between now and election day and do his part towards returning the Bennett government to power. You're not voting for the Conservative candidate or Mr. Bennett, you're voting for Canada," concluded Mr. Reid.

Dr. Embury

"I have always received handsome majorities in the village of Stirling and the Township of Rawdon," began Dr. Embury. "I want to express my gratitude for the confidence you placed in me in the past and am again appealing for your endorsement. This is the first time since Confederation that there has been a three-cornered contest in this riding. However, the third party is quickly going by the board. Mr. Judson Gunter was a strong supporter of R. B. Bennett until he lost the Conservative Convention some weeks ago. He wasn't outside the door of the convention hall when he turned Stevens.

"Mr. Stevens and Mr. Gunter are in the same boat," continued Dr. Embury, "but they can't fool the people because their system is wrong. They say the old party system is wrong. However, Canada has been nurtured under the two party system and has become one of the leading nations of the world.

"Six months ago," said Dr. Embury, "I was intimate with a gentleman on the inside in Liberal circles. At that time the Liberals were certain of 165 seats in the next House; now they say 105. The policy of R. B. Bennett and his work of the last five years stand between Liberalism and victory." Dr. Embury concluded his address with a further appeal for the electors' support.

R. J. Graham

In his opening remarks Mr. Graham briefly outlined conditions prior to 1930 when Bennett came into power and legislation passed as a result of the change in government.

"Prior to 1930 there was the market crash, resulting in financial chaos and deplorable conditions. Markets had been lost to Canada through the actions of MacKenzie King and his colleagues, resulting in an unfavourable trade balance.

"When Mr. Bennett came into power he maintained the credit of the country. He reduced controllable expenses on the C.N.R. by twenty-seven per cent. You all recall the extravagance by MacKenzie King in luxurious hotels, golf courses, etc. The capital expenses of the C.N.R. were also greatly reduced.

The Bennett Government also created a Central Bank and a Tourist Bureau. This is the first time in the history of Canada that the Federal Government has promoted the tourist business. The Empire Trade Agreements were also made. "These," said Mr. Graham, "constitute the greatest piece of legislation since confederation. The Federal Marketing Act, the Housing Act, and the Farm Loans Act were also placed on the statutes by the Bennett government. When the Heppburn government came into power in Ontario, loans to farmers were discontinued, so the only source now available to farmers for government

ANSON COUPLE SHOWERED

Last evening about two hundred of the friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holmes gathered together at Mount Pleasant Church Hall to wish them well following their marriage, which took place a couple of weeks ago.

Rev. J. A. Beckel acted as chairman. The programme began with Community Singing led by Miss Milligan and Miss Thrasher, with Mrs. R. Hoard at the piano. Among other items on the programme were piano solos by Miss Frances McKeown and Mr. Geo. Dwyer, vocal solo by Miss Marguerite White; reading by Miss E. Thrasher and short addresses by Mrs. J. Sharpe, Wilbert Hagerman, Frank Hutchinson, Edgar Peel and Clifford Holmes.

The address was read by Mr. John Coggins and the presentation, which consisted of a bed couch, bridge lamp and fern tray, was made by Mr. Frank Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes thanked the people for their kind gifts and all joined in singing for "They are Jolly Good Fellows."

At the close lunch was served and a social half hour was much enjoyed.

On Wednesday evening Bro. W. R. Loucks, D.D.G.M., of Campbellford, accompanied by a delegation of installing officers, visited Stirling Lodge, No. 239, I.O.O.F., officially and installed the following officers into their respective chairs:

W. R. Loucks — G. A. Weaver.
V.G. — E. F. Broadworth.
V.G. — W. L. Anderson.
R.S. — J. B. Thompson.
F.S. — F. T. Ward.
Treasurer — J. W. Searles.
War. — C. Carter.
Con. — H. Ashley.
O.G. — W. Sine.
I.G. — W. Warren.
R.S.N.G. — E. R. Carlisle.
L.S.N.G. — E. E. Hall.
L.S.V.G. — E. Fox.
L.S.V.G. — M. Sine.
R.S.S. — A. Vandervoort.
L.S.S. — B. R. Searles.
Chap. — N. E. Eggleston.
After the business of the evening refreshments were served and a social hour spent by all.

Loans is Ottawa.

"The Farmers' Creditors Arrangements Act is another piece of legislation for which the farmers can directly thank Mr. Bennett. This is to be extended to people in the urban centres." Unemployment insurance was also mentioned by the speaker.

"Mr. King," said Mr. Graham, "now admits that the Empire Trade Pacts are a good thing, but at the time they were negotiated opposed them strenuously. Canada's exports in the past four years were better than any other country in the world except Japan. In spite of all the unfavorable conditions which the world has come through, Canada has a favourable trade balance.

"As a result of the Empire pacts between 1933 and 1935 Canada's exports to Australia increased 159 per cent, to South Africa, 200 per cent; to New Zealand, 190 per cent; to India, 71 per cent, and to the Irish Free State, 82 per cent. The Conservative party is appealing on its record of performance. According to the League of Nations we're coming out of the depression better than any other country except Japan.

"The Liberals have a so-called policy, but no platform. They haven't offered the electors anything. They have no arguments. The old question of tariff is the only difference, the rest merely vilification. Conditions are one hundred per cent better today than in 1930. You're duty is to judge between the Bennett Government's five years of actual accomplishments and the theories as presented by Mr. King. Which are you going to choose?"

Mr. Tummon thanked his hearers for their support and confidence in the past and assured them that he had performed his duties at Ottawa to the best of his ability.

"Much is being heard in this campaign about sincerity," said Mr. Tummon. (Continued on Page Five)

ST. ANDREW'S Y. P. S.

The opening meeting of St. Andrew's Young People's Society was held last Monday evening with a goodly number in attendance. Among those assisting were Marguerite Rosebush who gave a very interesting and delightful reading on "Character" in the hymn, "Character is the key to the door of life." Another poetic number was given by Roy July entitled "What If Christ Had Not Come?" The topic for the evening was taken by the president, Mr. Jas. Johnston, his subject being "Friendship." The feature of the evening was a play under the auspices of the Maple Leaf Mission Band, which was very well given and greatly appreciated. followed by the Lord's prayer in unison. Lloyd Howland, second vice-president, assumed charge of the remaining program. Mr. George Bruce, teacher of a Korean school, under the direction of the United Church of Canada, was the guest speaker of the evening, and he gave a very excellent address on Korea. Mr. Bruce gave a very graphic description of Korea, and the life and character of the Korean people. The predominant note of this address was the description of the great courage and Christian faith of these people. The speaker quoted several outstanding cases where the faith of the individuals put to shame the Christians in the homeland. These Korean people believe absolutely in the power of prayer, and have witnessed many direct answers to their prayers. In closing Mr. Bruce made a very strong appeal to the young people to support missions and placed special emphasis on prayer. This address was listened to with rapt attention, and thanks of the young people are due to Mr. Bruce for this very educative and interesting address. Colour count showed an attendance of 70. Help The Legion

Canadian Legion Post No. 210 of Stirling is staging a big Carnival in the Stirling Arena on Monday night (election night) which has for its object the raising of funds which will be used in assisting veterans and their families in the district.

The veterans have been working hard to make the Carnival one of the best, and a good programme has been arranged, featuring complete election returns. There will also be all kinds of amusements. Refreshments will be served and for those who wish to trip the light fantastic a platform will be available with good music. The local Boy Scout Troop is assisting in the programme and members of the troop will stage boxing bouts and tumbling acts. The parliamentary candidates are also expected to be present.

Altogether this should be an entertaining programme and one worthy of the support of all. This is the first appeal that the local Legion has made for a long time and the proceeds are being devoted to a most worthy cause. Citizens of Stirling and district are being given an opportunity to help those who stood on the foreign battlefields in defence of your home and mine, and they should not be found wanting. Plan to attend Monday night's Carnival in aid of the veterans.

Be Sure and Vote

Next Monday Canada goes to the polls and if the electors are not well informed on the questions of the day neither the political organizations nor the newspapers can be blamed. The daily and weekly press, the radio, the mails and every means of reaching the electors have been used by the candidates of all parties. In Stirling joint meetings have been held of the electors of both ridings, Hastings-Peterborough and South Hastings, and yet there appears to be much evidence of apathy on the part of the electors. Speakers of all political parties have been going up and down the country trying to impress upon the electors the fact that Monday's election is a most important one in the history of Canada. Upon them rests the responsibility of the legislation which will influence economic and social conditions, trade and commerce, and the part Canada will take in international affairs.

Those voters who have not yet decided on the candidates for whom they will vote and especially those who will exercise the franchise for the first time, should carefully examine the programmes of the four parties, analyze the proposals contained in them, and consider the logical results of the legislative measures advocated. Having done this every voter should go to the polls on Monday next and exercise his franchise. It is a duty of the first importance to vote.

Patronize the Library

The heavy frosts of the past few nights, the congregating of the birds for their long sojourn to the warmer climes, the gradual change Mother Nature is effecting in her landscape, and the sound of the whistles of threshing and corn-cutting outfits from all directions, as well as the longer evenings remind us that winter is not far distant. And with winter comes the thought of how best to spend the hours of leisure in a beneficial manner.

There are many ways one may spend his or her time, but the one way we have in mind when writing this article is reading, which is one of the primary forms of recreation. Stirling Public Library offers every facility for the enjoyment of those who like this form of recreation. Here you will find a large assortment of books, many of them of the latest vintage, from which the average reader should have no trouble in selecting one to his liking, whether it be in fiction or among the classics. Reading is one of the finest forms of education and for those of us who have never had, nor probably never will have, an opportunity to travel through the various sections of the world in which we are more or less interested, it affords an excellent way in which to increase our knowledge of customs and conditions in distant lands.

The Stirling Library Board has given much time and thought to the selection of the books of this local institution which has gained a reputation among the readers of being one of the best. Citizens of Stirling and community all have some time to devote to reading, and should take advantage of the opportunities provided

What Others Say

NEED STRONG GOVERNMENT

(St. Catharines Standard)

The next parliament of Canada may be the worst political salad this Dominion has ever called upon to digest. It may be parliament of dictation by this or that group, when government will only be able to maintain existence by compromise. Any government under such conditions will be a weak government at a time when Canada needs a strong government.

ECHO ANSWERS - WHY?

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

We would like to hear some person well informed on political and economic matters, explain the following: If American magazines can be made in Canada and sold at the same price as they are sold in the United States, why is it that Canadians have to pay thirty-five per cent. or better over the them right at their door. If you are not already a patron of the local Library, plan to become one. By doing so you will not only enrich your knowledge, but you will also show appreciation of the efforts of those citizens who have laboured in the interests of the local institution. Plan now to become a member!

Teaching the Child Fire Prevention

The child of today is the citizen of tomorrow. In a comparatively short space of time, our children will be the home builders and business men and women of the nation; the responsibility will soon be theirs of directing its destiny and of bearing our torch of civilization onward. We cannot prepare them too well for this great purpose. The progress that may be made in our and their day toward the ultimate goal of human happiness will depend largely upon how much we teach them of what is good, helpful and progressive.

You, no doubt, know about the little things which start big fires. Many of the causes are simple things and are not too complex or difficult for the child mind to grasp and understand. Children cannot be taught the simple fundamentals of life too young. The younger they are, the more plastic their minds, and the more receptive to truth. To make them understand requires meeting their minds with child thought and language. The failure of so many, even of teachers in school, to teach children successfully is because they try to teach a five year old child in fifty year old language and thought. Another reason for failure is because of a lack of love for the child. To love a small child is instinctively to influence it. The child just as instinctively shuns those who do not love it.

Now while they are eagerly grasping every fragment of knowledge which comes to them, and while their ways are being moulded into life-long habits, commence the teaching of fire prevention. Teach them the dangers of heat, that is, stoves close to woodwork, or stovepipes through or close to wood walls or ceilings, or of oils when mixed with cotton or other fibres and hence of furniture polishes and other things which contain oils. Keep on teaching them until they understand, not necessarily why, but that these and many other simple things if misused or neglected become dangerous hazards which might harm or destroy them.

The most opportune time for teaching fire danger to children is in the impressionable or plastic age during the lowest grades of school. After that time it becomes increasingly difficult to genuinely impress them; the older they become, the more stereotyped are their habits and when they reach the absent minded age, they are hopeless. If you have small children, you are vitally interested for you want to know that they are safe from danger of fire. So begin at once to teach them the safe way and continue until you feel that they are competent to care for themselves.

CURRENT COMMENT

The surest way to get satisfactory results in any undertaking is to find the best method of doing the job and then get busy and do it.

The League of Nations in session at Geneva has declared in favor of sanctions against Italy in an effort to persuade Mussolini to cease hostilities against the Ethiopians. What form these sanctions will take and how they will be applied are not known, but the situation appears to be a most serious one. Mussolini has declared at different times within the past few months that sanctions mean war. While war is the one thing that everyone is anxious to avoid, if Mussolini persists in his slaughter of innocents in Ethiopia stern action will have to be taken by the other nations. If all nations of the world, irrespective of whether they are members of the League of Nations or not would cease to trade with Italy, it would not be long before peace would be restored, but with France being undecided whether to offend Italy or not and a number of other nations still silent on their intentions, the situation is endangering the peace of the whole world.

With the completion of the World's Series in baseball for another year, football is enjoying its fling and it will only be a few short weeks until the hockey teams will be getting things in readiness for the coming winter. While it is perhaps too early yet to talk about hockey in many centres, it is a question that should be discussed in Stirling, if anything is to be done in the way of this sport during the winter. For some years now hockey has been in the doldrums so far as this village is concerned, and it is about time that this splendid game was revived. We have talked to some of the fans of the village, and we have talked to some of the prospective players. Both parties are apparently in favor of Stirling having a hockey team but no one wants to take the initiative in the matter. Why not call a meeting of all concerned and talk the matter over. Suggestions have been made about reviving the old Trent Valley League, which might be accomplished. There is also a possibility that a local team might be entered in the district league of Trenton. These are just a couple of suggestions, there may be many more. Now is the time to get things moving. Choose a date for the meeting and the News-Argus will gladly advertise it.

American price for the cars they buy and which are produced in factories owned or controlled by Americans but employing Canadian labour? The magazine publishers must be making money by their arrangement else they would not sell their magazines in Canada at the American price. What a profit the car manufacturers must be making?

"What did you think of the Horse Show?"

"I didn't see a single frock I liked."

Upper: "What did the doctor say about your heavy breathing?"

Lower: "Oh, he said he'd put a stop to that."

Wife: "You don't give me nice presents now."

Husband: "No, but I pay for those you give yourself."

Wife: "It won't do you any good to worry about the bills, dear."

Husband: "I know, but I think it's the least I can do."

"What would you say, Jackie, if I married your mother and became your daddy?"

"Don't do it, Mr. Smith."

"There's that man who's always giving women something to talk about."

"A scandalmonger, eh?"

"No — a surgeon."

Bill: "Can you tell me a good cure for sleepwalking?"

Jack: "Yes, scatter some tincture on the bedroom floor before you retire."

Magistrate: "What did the defendant look like when you arrested him?"

Constable: "Well, sir, he had a sort of a pinched look."

Mike: "What does 'not transferable' mean on the ticket?"

Pat: "It means that if you don't go yourself you won't be admitted."

"How you doing?"

"Not so good. It's hard to make both ends meet."

"What you doing?"

"Cutting cord wood."

Superficious: "George, dear, do you remember what Wordsworth said about Daffodils?"

"No. And what's the use of both-ering when we pay a gardener?"

Lady: "Have you been accustomed to having a housekeeper over you?"

New Maid: "Madam, we never speak of having people 'over us'. But I have had colleagues."

Young Man: "Young lady, what do you usually get for teaching a young man like me some new dance steps?"

Attractive Dancing Teacher: "One of my assistants."

"So you're a young man with both feet on the ground, eh? What do you do for a living?"

"I take orders from a man with both feet on the desk."

"When I was twenty-one I made a resolution to get rich."

"You haven't done so, anyway."

"No; I found it was easier to change my mind."

Mistress: "Why are you cleaning the inside of the window but not the outside?"

Maid: "Please, mum, so that you can look out, but the people outside can't see in."

Second (to boxer who has just finished a round, and has both eyes closed): "You must go in and finish him this time."

Boxer: "I can't see to hit him."

Second: "Well, you must hit him from memory."

Manager: "Are you sure you are qualified to lead a jazz orchestra?"

Applicant: "Absolutely. I've had two nervous breakdowns, was shell-shocked in France, and I live in an apartment above a family with twelve noisy children."

Policeman: "Now, then, come on. What's your name?"

Speed Fiend: "Demetrius Aloysius Fortescue."

Policeman: "None o' that now. It's your name I want, not the family motto."

Visitor: "Well, Johnny, how are you getting on at school?"

Johnny (aged 7): "Fine! I ain't doing as well as some of the other boys, though. I can stand on my head but I have to put my feet against the wall."

Bill: "What would you do if you were in my shoes?"

Tom: "Clean them."

"I wonder why they don't hang horse thieves any more at Crimmon Gulch," mused the salesman.

"Wal, mused Cactus Joe, 'there aren't any more.'"

"No more thieves?"

"No; no more horses."

SIR HENRY DRAYTON VISITS CAMPBELLFORD

A most enjoyable and successful social evening was held by the members and friends of Christ Church, in the Parish Hall, on Monday evening (one week ago). Sir Henry Drayton, who was accompanied by Lady Drayton, was the guest speaker of the evening. The chairman of the evening, Rev. T. H. Floyd, introduced Sir Henry and spoke of his outstanding work in connection with the Restoration Fund of the church. In his address the speaker told of the wonderful results of the Restoration Fund in many parishes, telling of one parish in a poor district where $360 was raised by periodic contributions of two cents, adding that he was confident that the Parish of Campbellford would certainly reach its objective. He also referred to the various duties of a layman to his church.

The musical program of the evening was greatly enjoyed, the following artists contributing to the evening's enjoyment: Mrs. (Dr.) F. deFree, accompanied by Miss Gertrude Maynard; Mrs. Ellis, of Stirling, accompanied by Mrs. (Dr.) Alger; Miss Hilda Bonnycaste, accompanied by Mrs. J. O. Benor.

Refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation, assisted by the young men, when a happy social hour was enjoyed by the congregation and their friends. The Parishioners were welcomed by Mrs. Geo. Elmhirst and Mrs. T. H. Floyd.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Sir Henry and Lady Drayton, Toronto; Mrs. Bugar, (daughter of Mrs. T. J. Kennedy), Toronto; Miss Helen Campbell, Belleville; Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. (Dr.) Alger, Stirling.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the gathering to a close.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Canada increased her share of the canned apple trade of the United Kingdom by 26.5 per cent for the next six months of 1935 as compared with the same period last year, 51,829 cases being imported during the 1935 period or 12 per cent of the total imports.

Barley production in Ontario this year will amount to 17,000,000 bushels, an increase of 2,399,000 over 1934. Production of barley in Ontario during the last ten years has averaged 15,945,000 bushels. Too rapid maturity was a factor tending to lower the standard of grains in Eastern Ontario. Further assistance to Canadian dairymen is the aim of the Butter Export Stabilization Scheme just officially approved.

Statistics indicate that the stocks of butter in storage on September 1, 1935, were approximately 8,500,000 pounds in excess of the five-year average and as the current production is larger than last year, further increases in the surplus will be the result unless some action is taken.

The purpose of the scheme is to facilitate the export of butter to the United Kingdom, where, at the present time, it appears a favourable market exists. This action is intended to relieve the butter market in Canada and, in so doing, strengthen the price of butter fat sold in milk and cream by dairymen throughout the Dominion.

The scheme provides for the marketing or the regulation of the marketing of butter for export. Agencies may be designated through which the butter is to be marketed. Where necessary, exports may be compensated for losses incurred through export transactions.

Farm Cash Accounts and Financial Statements

Methods of recording financial statements relating to the farm are important. An adequate record of cash transactions is a necessity in the preparation of the Income and Expenditure statement. For this purpose it is highly desirable to cultivate the habit of securing a voucher for each transaction at the time it takes place. These should be filed in some orderly fashion. Statements and account sales rendered by companies to whom products are sold or shipped, and invoices for purchases are good vouchers. A receipt should be given when money is received and the particulars entered on the stub. When payments are made by cheque, the stub should be completed. Filing the foregoing, pencilled memoranda are useful and a pad and pencil in the barn or the time-honoured kitchen calendar have their place in building up an adequate record but do not in themselves make up that record. From these original records, the cash book should be written up as frequently and regularly as possible by the farmer, his wife, son or daughter.

For farms operated by managers, farmers' clubs, co-operatives, and those individual farmers who are anxious to keep exact records, a columnar cash book may be purchased with the desired number of columns, or an ordinary notebook may be ruled as required. The purpose of such a book is to classify receipts and payments into whatever groupings are desired.

Clean Up and Burn Areas Infested With Weeds

Much good can be accomplished at this time by cleaning up any weeds which did not receive attention during the growing season. Seeds are retained by many weeds until freeze up when they are distributed by various agencies including wind, water, birds and man, thus infecting new areas.

The wind carries some weed seeds long distances, not only with drifting soil but also over frozen ground and snow in the winter. An experiment conducted in Saskatchewan proved this fact when it was found that six ounces of surface soil taken from a spot along a road contained the following seeds: Stick Weed 330, Wild Mustard 267, Hare's Ear Mustard 99, Stinkweed 3, Black Bindweed 159, Lamb's Quarters 15 and Pig Weed 9.

Another experiment conducted some years ago showed the presence of many weed seeds in snow — thirty-two seeds of nine species having been found in two square feet of a snow-drift.

Many weed seeds are eaten by birds during late fall and early winter when other food is not plentiful. According to Jack Miner, an authority on bird life, these seeds will not lose their vitality and may be carried for miles in this way.

Seeds of neglected weeds growing in vacant lots around buildings, fence lines and ditches will be carried long distances by spring floods. By cleaning up and burning all neglected weeds at this time we improve the appearance of property and will help to control weeds — not only on our own property but also on that of our neighbors.

Preparing Poultry for Market

To a great extent the ultimate success of the poultry enterprise will greatly depend on the manner in which the products are marketed. The discriminating customer will be attracted by the well-fattened and well-dressed chicken or fowl, and will pay a premium in price for appearance as well as quality.

Success in fattening and marketing will depend to a great extent on the operator's knowledge and ability to prepare his product in the most economical and attractive form. Special feeding for a week or two will greatly improve the quality and pay for the extra feed and labour involved.

As only birds with strong constitutions can stand heavy feeding with limited exercise, very young and extremely thin birds seldom make profitable gains in the fattening pens.

A serviceable crate, six feet long, by twenty-four inches wide, and eighteen inches high, may be made from slats nailed one inch apart with a galvanized pan beneath the slatted floor for droppings. Partitions two feet apart will provide compartments two feet square, and will accommodate four or five birds, according to size.

To insure freedom from lice, dust the birds with flour of sulphur and create a good appetite by starving for the first twenty-four hours. The second day give only slight feed and gradually increase the amount until the third day; from then until finished all they will eat twice daily at regular intervals about twelve hours apart. Mix to a batter that will pour slowly from a pail, skim milk or buttermilk with two parts of cornmeal and one part finely ground oats. Feed in troughs suspended in front of a crate. A good finish should be obtained in ten to twenty-one days. Feed enough to thoroughly satisfy at each meal, but leave nothing over in the troughs to stall the birds. Starve for at least twenty-four hours before killing, bleed by "sticking" in the roof of the mouth, and drive pluck. Grade to uniform size and quality and pack in neat boxes.

Church were held last Sunday and were largely attended. Rev. H. A. Turner, B.A., B.D., of West Huntingdon, was the special speaker for the day and delivered impressive sermons both morning and evening. His text for the morning service was found in Luke 14: 28. Rev. J. E. Beckel, pastor of the church, was able to be present in the morning and assisted in the service. The choir, under the leadership of the organist, Miss Mildred Elliott, rendered special music, consisting of two anthems, "A New Song" by R. E. Nolt, and "I know of a love" by E. S. Lorenz, with Mr. Arthur Duncan taking the solo part. Also a quartette, "The Heavenly Father's Everywhere", sung by the Misses Mildred and Annie Elliott, Lauretta McMullen and Irene Tucker.

At 7:30 p.m. the Church was again filled to capacity. The minister chose as his text Matthew 16: verse 18. The choir again offered two anthems, "Serve the Lord with Gladness", by L. Rogers and "In Shadow and Sunshine" by F. E. Houton, also a solo, "Just leave it with Him", sung by A. Duncan, Stirling.

The Rev. A. S. McConnell brought greetings from St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, and Rev. E. W. Rowland from St. Paul's United, Stirling. The programme closed with the singing of the National Anthem, and Mr. Bruce pronouncing the Benediction.

Women's Institute. There were 26 in attendance. The President, Mrs. W. H.

peace. In response to the roll call each member named a Canadian industry and told where it is being carried on.

The minutes were read and approved and the business before the meeting completed. Miss Pansy Lansing was appointed to attend the Women's Institute Convention in Belleville. Mrs. Chard has charge of the Jubilee programme which is to be held in the River Valley Schoolhouse on Wednesday evening, Nov. 9th. Mrs. Alex Bush opened her programme on Canadian Industries with the opening chorus "The Maple Leaf." Mrs. Donald Donohoe gave an excellent paper on the industries of Canada. Miss Pansy Lansing delighted the assembly with a solo "In an Old-Fashioned Town." Mrs. Lansing played the accompaniment. Mrs. George Heasman gave interesting current events. Mrs. C. Mrs. Roy Bush gave an illustrated talk on the process of making shredded wheat from the grain feed to the box and stressed food value and cleanliness of the Canadian product. Complimentary samples were given. A piano solo was given by Mrs. Clarence Chard and was well received. An "Industry" contest prepared by Mrs. D. Donohoe was conducted by Mrs. Alex Bush. The meeting was brought to a close with the National Anthem. Collection amounted to $125. Mrs. Heasman served a delicious lunch and a social half hour was spent over the tea-cups. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Heasman by Mrs. Alex Bush, seconded by Mrs. Robt. Bush.

G. F. BRUCE IS SPEAKER

This section of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada was fortunate in having in their Churches on Sunday and Monday, October 6th and 7th, Mr. G. F. Bruce, Missionary on furlough from Manchuria. Mr. Bruce is the principal of boys' school in southern part of Manchuria and speaks with authority on the religious and educational problems of that great Eastern Country. In all his addresses he urged a further support of the foreign missionary enterprises of the church. There is a grave danger that he and some of his colleagues may not be able to continue their work in that far eastern section due to lack of funds. He urged his audiences to a new consecrated loyalty to the mission work of the Church.

Mr. Bruce preached at West Huntingdon on Sunday morning; at Springbrook on Sunday afternoon, and at Ivanhoe on Sunday evening. On Monday afternoon he addressed the students of the High School; in the early evening the members of the Stirling United Church Young People's Society and later in the evening the large gathering at the Bethel Anniversary Supper.

While in Stirling Mr. Bruce was entertained at the Rawdon and Stirling parsonages.

JOINT MEETINGS HELD BY CONSERVATIVES

mon. "Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Minister of Health in the Hepburn Cabinet, has questioned the sincerity of the Prime Minister of this country. Let me tell you that there is no man in public life in Canada or any country more sincere than Mr. Bennett. He's a statesman and not a politician," said

Mr. Tummon.

After stating that the bottom of the depression was reached in 1933, Mr. Tummon continued, "Are you aware that in the last two years Canada's trade has increased $300,000,000, or at the rate of half a million dollars a day (approximately). In spite of this there had been no commendation from the Liberals, nothing but abuse and criticism. That's all we heard on the floor of the House of Commons since 1930. Has the leader of the opposition no responsibility? Surely for a salary of $18,000 a year he should have something to offer other than abuse.

"Let's go back to May 1st, 1930, when Hon. Chas. Dunning, then Minister of Finance in the King government, presented his last budget. He reported there was $244,000,000 decline in visible exports in the last year of Liberal rule, or $779,000 a day. But the King Government did not go out of power until four months later when trade had declined another $138,000,000, or over a million a day for the last four months in power. I don't say that King was responsible for that. I believe in being fair in political matters. The same Mr. Dunning said 'the markets of the world had been closed to Canada with exception of the Old Country.' The United States put up trade barriers against Canada. But MacKenzie King says the policies of the Bennett Government have strangled foreign trade when foreign markets were all closed to Canada while King was in power. It is unfair. It is misrepresentation when he goes up and down the country saying policies of Bennett had closed the markets of world against Canada."

Referring to the Empire Trade Agreements, Mr. Tummon continued: "In the early part of 1932 the Old Country passed the Import Duty Act with a 20 per cent tariff on imports, with the proviso that it would not come into effect against the Dominions until the 15th day of November of the same year. Mr. King drew the attention of parliament to this very thing. Following the negotiation of the agreements at Ottawa, the parliaments of the Old Country and other countries met and ratified the agreements, but it was long after November 15th that the Canadian Parliament ratified them. The Liberal party opposed them tooth and nail and when it came to the vote, only one Liberal supported them. These agreements were made for five years and expire in 1937. Who is going to sit around the table with representatives of other countries to negotiate the renewal of those agreements?"

"It has been said by members of the Liberal Party that the money voted to stabilize the cheese industry is a bribe. I had considerable to do with getting this piece of legislation passed and I'm not ashamed of my connection with it," concluded Mr. Tummon.

Mr. Fleming

"Six million voters, half a million of them for the first time, will cast their ballots next Monday in the most important election since Confederation," said Mr. Fleming. Referring to the Liberal banner "It's King, or Chaos," Mr. Fleming said it should read "It's King and Chaos." "Mr. King has fooled no one in this campaign. He offers nothing but vilification of the sitting prime minister. 'Let depression beat Bennett' is the Liberal campaign slogan. The depression is world wide but Mr. King has done his best to impress upon the electorate that depression is in Canada alone. He has conducted a campaign of prejudice and bigotry. This is the first time that Mr. King has been pictured as a man of action."

"King held office from 1921 to 1930, with exception of two months in 1926. Good times could not be attributed to Mr. King, because it was a world condition. Six years ago the bubble burst. Mr. King held office ten months after but did nothing. Between 1926 and 1930 France raised tariff on Canadian wheat from 11c to 85c; Germany from 5 to 95c; Italy from free to 83c. What did King, 'the man of action' do to find other markets for wheat? Nothing. He watched a foreign trade balance of four hundred and some million shrink to one hundred and three millions, but did nothing. Unemployment increased in 1929, but he did nothing. In 1919 Mr. King promised unemployment insurance, but when unemployment increased he didn't introduce any bill. He had seen hundreds of mergers, with financiers taking control of factories, yet did nothing. He saw 125,000 Canadians leave Canada for the United States, yet this 'man of action' did nothing. Yet this legacy left Mr. Bennett. Never in the history of Canada has a Prime Minister had such favorable conditions as Mr. King. Never in the history of Canada has a Prime Minister had to face such unfavourable conditions as Mr. Bennett. It is not fair to make comparison between the years 1921 and 1929 and 1930-1935.

"When Bennett came to power he summoned parliament; raised the tariffs; voted 20 billions for public relief, closed channels of immigration; set about finding markets for Canadian products. Don't forget that the money voted for relief was used without discrimination throughout Canada, not like Mr. King with his five-cent speech to any province with a Tory government."

"Eighty-two nations of the world have raised tariff to save home market. Not one has lowered its tariff. Is Canada going to be the first to open her markets and let the whole world come in? You can rest assured they will come, band wagon and all. Mr.

Bennett has said 'We stand ready to negotiate trade treaties with anybody on terms that are fair and reasonable.' The day of free trade is gone; the day of bargaining has come. We want a good bargainer at Ottawa. MacKenzie King has never been found to be a good bargainer."

During the evening Miss Dorothy Sager, of Tweed, rendered two solos, accompanied by Mr. Charles Allen on the piano. The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

ARE YOU SATISFIED?

Next Monday the people of Canada go to the polls to cast their ballots in the most important election since Confederation. Another five years like the last five would mean the bankruptcy of the great majority of farmers and of merchants in the towns and villages. It would also mean increased unemployment and relief costs, increased taxation and further piling up of debts by Federal and Provincial Governments and municipalities.

About 850 candidates, representing half a dozen political parties, are seeking election to the 245 seats in parliament and as a result there is great danger that no one party may have a sufficient majority to form a stable Government. A Coalition Government with the bickering and bargaining which would ensue, and the freak legislation which might be enacted to win the support of certain groups would be a calamity.

The only three parties with any chance of winning a majority of the seats are the Liberal, the Conservative and the Reconstruction. For that reason electors should consider their record, their platform and the probability of their having a majority of the elected members.

Liberals have reason to point with pride to their record, as every period of great industrial expansion and prosperity in the past fifty years has been under a Liberal government, with the exception of the artificial prosperity caused by the Great War. From 1896 to 1911 saw the changing of Western Canada from virgin prairie to the granary of the Empire, and a corresponding industrial and agricultural development and prosperity in Eastern Canada.

In 1926 the Liberals went into power on promises of reduced taxation, wider markets, old age pensions and other social legislation. The sales tax was reduced to 1%, postage was reduced to 2 cents and many nuisances taxes were eliminated. Canada's trade expanded until it averaged well over $2,000,000,000 per annum from 1925 until 1930 and all know the prosperity which was enjoyed. Old age pensions and other social legislation was also enacted.

Since 1930 every Province has held an election and in all but one the Liberal Governments have been elected with huge majorities. The exception was Alberta where the Social Credit Party was elected on a freak policy, which illustrates the need for careful consideration by the voters. Nearly all the Federal by-elections have also been won by the Liberals with big majorities. The above results should be conclusive evidence that the Liberals are the one party likely to have a decisive majority next Monday.

The Liberals are also the only party with a definite policy approved by its leaders and the rank and file from the Atlantic to the Pacific. A Lower tariff, a National Commission to deal with unemployment, a National Bank with government control of currency and credit, new trade agreements and new markets, extensive public works are included in the Liberal program when returned to power.

In 1930 the Bennett Government was elected on a platform of promises. Mr. Bennett promised "I will end unemployment in three months." "I will blast our way into the markets of the world." "The Government will assume the whole cost of old age pensions." "I will complete the trans-Canada Highway." "We offer you the St. Lawrence waterways." More than once Mr. Bennett asserted "These things will we do or perish in the attempt." Not one of these promises has been kept. Instead of accepting the penalty, which he himself proposed, Mr. Bennett now offers bigger and better promises, and with still less chance of keeping them.

The Reconstruction Party has no record on which to be judged, except that of a leader, Mr. Stevens as Minister of Trade and Commerce is, next to Mr. Bennett, as much responsible as any other man for the conditions which have existed for the past five years.

VOTE FOR RORR FERGUSON AND LIBERAL POLICIES which have given Canada so many prosperous years. No other party has a chance to win a clear majority and form a Government free to put its policies into effect.

THE DIVORCE COURT MURDER

by MILTON PROPPER

SIXTEENTH INSTALMENT

SYNOPSIS

Barbara Keith, wife of a prominent Philadelphia business man, is murdered as she waits alone in a side room to testify in the divorce case of Rowland vs. Rowland. She was to have testified for the husband, a friend, who was defendant in the action. Detective Tommy Rankin is assigned to the case from police headquarters. His preliminary investigation disclosed that both Mr. and Mrs. Rowland had gathered evidence against the other of infidelity. The will of Mrs. Rowland's first husband directed her lawyer brother, Mr. Willard, to handle the estate until she remarried when the new husband was to come into control. Detective Rankin finds motives and the evidence of guilt in the murder of Mrs. Keith, leading to the doors of virtually all the principals involved. These principals are the two Rowlands, Mr. Willard, Mr. Keith, husband of the murdered woman, Hugh Campbell, paramour of Mrs. Rowland, and his underworld confederates.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Rankin's eyes widened in surprise. "Deserting?" he repeated. "Of course, that would explain his secrecy about his past and why he destroyed the evidence that he was ever in the service. He wasn't caught, was he?"

"No, he evidently escaped successfully."

"I suppose that's his picture, on the next page," the detective observed.

"Yes, the one that was taken at San Diego," Mr. Roche held out the pamphlet.

Rankin reached for it eagerly enough, but without anticipating the shock that followed. Suddenly, at the sight of the features staring at him from the portrait, he gasped. Experienced as he was in extraordinary developments in his investigation of crime, he could not control his astonishment. The passage of eight years was insufficient to prevent his recognition of the face in the picture.

Such was his overwhelming amazement that Mr. Roche eyed him wonderingly.

"What in the world is the matter Mr. Rankin?" he demanded hurriedly. "You're not ill, I hope? You act as if you're acquainted with the man."

The detective wiped his brow. "That's just it, I am. But it's absolutely incredible; for the life of me, I can't understand how it can be possible. You see—". In time, he recalled how little Mr. Roche knew of the true reason he sought the ex-dier. "He's a notorious second-story man, and wanted badly in many cities."

With this revelation, he grasped in one fell swoop all the elaborate mechanism of the murder. At one moment he was blindly following his nose; the next every piece of a complicated and ingenious puzzle, the sheer originality of which he had not even dreamed of, fell into place. He needed no more information from the marine records. Now he knew how the crime had been engineered and when it was committed. He perceived all the subtle safeguards by which the murderer prevented suspicion from lighting on him, the daring that revealed his perverted mind. Always ready to allow his opponent due credit, Rankin appreciated his plot, as brilliant and audacious as any he had ever encountered. The measure of its success was the completeness with which it had baffled him until this very moment. With the solution confronting him at every turn, he had been a victim, throughout the case, of a cunning with which he could not cope.

His only consolation lay in the fact that back in Philadelphia he already possessed his quarry's fingerprints. Hence, even without the photograph, he would eventually have discovered Dennis' identity at Headquarters, when he compared his prints with those he took early in the investigation.

Yet, despite his information and certainty, he lacked positive proof of the criminal's guilt. Not one iota of his evidence was more than circumstantial nor could it be established directly. Though he could show the man's motives and opportunity, and a dozen suspicious moves, they had only the force of suppositions. Dennis had no eyewitnesses to positive acts that linked him inescapably to Barbara Keith's death. So incriminating were the circumstances that Rankin depended on them alone to convict him; but he was not satisfied. He wanted to leave no loophole by which the man might escape and this he could accomplish only with some testimony that brought the deed straight home to him.

While he continued his conversation with Roche, Rankin's mind raced in search of some fact that would close his net. Step by step he reviewed every transaction of the criminal, his preparations, precautions—and final act; and each detail of the plot he discarded as being incapable of direct proof. That is, until he considered Dennis' purchase of the chloroform. In obtaining that, he committed a distinctly incriminating act, which lent overwhelming significance to the purely circumstantial evidence. The difficulty was that, despite a thorough canvassing of all city druggists, Rankin's assistants has thus far been unable to trace it.

Unless his quarry had never bought the drug at all! The idea that occurred to the detective at that instant caused him to break off his conversation with Mr. Roche. Suddenly he had recalled an item of information Mortimer Keith had casually dropped early in the case. At the time he could attach no importance to it, and quickly forgot it; now it suggested a startling possibility that made him stiffen and breathe excitedly, as he pondered it. He did not believe some one else bought the chloroform for Dennis; that was too great a risk.

And if he figured wrongly, he could fall back on the canvases of the city, though that would delay the final arrest. In one conclusion he had faith. Sooner or later, if he followed the man's movements during the entire two weeks prior to the tragedy, he would discover the source of the weapon he used.

The detective immediately acted on his theory and decision. As soon as he finished his business with the secretary, he returned to the Union Station and at 6.15 caught a train for Philadelphia.

Three hours later the train deposited him in Broad Street Station and he went directly to City Hall to complete the necessary formalities. Then armed with the warrant, he departed and walked briskly down Broad Street to Pine. Here he turned and just past 16th Street he stopped before a bleakly respectable brownstone house, four stories high. The lower windows were dark; but a brass shingle on one front sill—"Dr. Anton Brantman"—indicated that one of the most eminent specialists in ailments of the head lived there.

Though it was long after office hours, Rankin rang the bell. Five minutes elapsed before footsteps echoing along the stairs announced Dr. Brantman's approach.

Without any comment he led Rankin into the lofty waiting room for patients.

Rankin apologized for the intrusion and then came directly to the point. His first query caused Dr. Brantman to shake a solemn head and tighten his lips with a sigh.

"Yes, I was well acquainted with Mrs. Keith," he replied; "I treated her for headaches. . . . A dreadful business that." He paused and made commiserating sounds. "Only I don't think it was Wednesday evening, May twenty-fourth, that she consulted me last; it was several days later."

He went with Rankin into his private office. "Yes, I am right," He pointed a finger at a scrawled, almost illegible notation. "Here it is, two days later, at eight-thirty p.m., on Friday, May twenty-sixth."

Of course, doctor, that fits in perfectly after all," declared Rankin. "She couldn't have visited you Wednesday. She was accompanied, wasn't she, Dr. Bateman?"

At the physician's reply, his face lighted with a half smile of confidence. After that more eagerly and rapidly he began to put his questions, insistently pressing upon Dr. Brantman his startling inspiration.

Finally, the doctor could no longer contain uneasiness. "I don't doubt, Mr. Rankin, that what you suggest is possible," he admitted. My nurse, Miss Vickers, wasn't here to watch and I had no other patients; and my drug shelves are quite open. If I happened to be occupied at this desk I might not notice what went on behind the screen. Only it's so difficult to believe."

"Not if you knew the person we're dealing with as well as I do," Rankin returned.

"But wouldn't Mrs. Keith be curious about the theft? She'd question it, or stop him, or inform me of it." "She was in no position to prevent anything," Rankin explained. "She didn't dare interfere. . . . You had better look, doctor, to find out whether I'm mistaken. But just point out the drug; we must be careful not to destroy any clues or prints."

"I hope to God you are wrong," Dr. Brantman murmured fervently. More pallid than usual, he stepped behind the screen. The detective located the bottle.

"I fear that you are right after all, Mr. Rankin," he announced gravely. "The amounts don't check at all; I should have seven ounces left. Even if my judgment is only roughly correct, at least four ounces are missing."

Delighted by the substantiation of his theory, Rankin lifted the vial with extreme caution.

"And that means there should be fingerprints," he commented, "if this hasn't been disturbed since. . . . He probably brought along a small container instead of taking this."

Fifteen minutes later, with the evidence upon which he relied and Dr. Brantman as a witness, the detective left the house on Pine Street. On the warrant in his pocket he had filled in the criminal's name. His eyes glistened with excitement as he summoned a taxi. Experienced though he was in the pursuit of wrongdoers, he would have been less than human not to be stirred by this momentous occasion.

He gave the cabman directions as he climbed in. "And on the way," he directed, "if you notice a cop, stop so I can pick him up."

The taximan obeyed. Near the 44th Street two uniformed men stood on the corner, conversing, and the taxi drew up to them. Rankin beckoned them in; and by the time he had identified himself and explained what he expected of them, they reached their destination.

It was an exclusive, somewhat elegant red-brick apartment house, U-shaped, each of its three wings having a separate entrance. The detective dismissed the cab and selected the entrance into the left wing, in the vestibule of which he paused at the letter boxes.

He indicated one "That's the one we want, boys—three-C, third floor," he declared. Now remember your orders—to stay out of sight while I enter." He drew out a whistle, borrowed from one of the officers. "Don't interfere unless I blow this," he continued. "I expect I can manage him by myself; but he'll be desperate, so stand by, ready in case he is troublesome."

With that, he pressed the button beneath the name of the man he sought; and in a moment, a buzzing sound released the catch on the inner door. The three men trooped in, over a red-tiled floor, and, disregarding the elevators, ascended the stairs on the right. On the third floor, the softly-lighted corridor stretched in both directions, lined with regular-spaced, numbered doors, 3C so close to the stairhead that, to prevent observation, the policemen retreated down several steps toward a midway landing. Then Rankin advanced to the apartment door and boldly seized the brass knocker.

SIDNEY CROSSING

A social evening was held in Aikins Church on Tuesday evening of last week. Miss Vera Ray, of Centenary, who is leaving soon for Nigeria, Africa, where she will take up her duties as nurse and missionary, gave a very interesting talk on her studies while in Bible School and told of how she would travel, and explained how she would have to go about her work when she arrived. A number of graduate nurses of the Belleville Hospital were present. Miss Edith Wright read an address and they presented Miss Ray with a sum of money. This was a great surprise to her.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Duffin and family, of Stirling, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hubble, on Sunday. Mrs. Duffin also attended the Church service, it being the Sacramental Service in charge of the pastor, Rev. H. B. Johnston. The Sunday School service was also well attended. Mr. Harleigh Hamilton gave a reading as a special number.

A number of ladies from this neighborhood attended the W.M.S. Convention in Cannifton United Church on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Wm. Hamilton entertained a number of ladies to dinner on Tuesday.

Mrs. Bruce Hogle entertained Mrs. H. Barker of Toronto; Mrs. Wm. Hamilton and Mrs. A. Page, to dinner on Wednesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Seabrooks and family, of Trenton, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Outwater, on Sunday afternoon.

RECOMMENDED VARIETIES OF OATS

Variety tests of oats made at the Central Experimental Farm over a long period have shown that Banner and Victory still hold the lead in the medium late variety class in this district. Legacy, a medium early variety has yielded exceptionally well in comparison with later standard varieties. Where very early varieties are required, Alaska has long been recommended as one of the best. The new early variety Carlier, which has been accepted by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association as a registered variety, is considered as being equally good and slightly higher yielding than Alaska in this district.

A beautiful love story of Athens, set in the year 490 B.C., and having as its hero one of the Olympic stars of that day will be the subject of the first presentation in the new Canadian Radio Commission dramatic series to be known as "Forgotten Footsteps".

The broadcast will be heard over the Commission's national network from the Toronto studios on Sunday, October 13th, at 9.00 p.m. and will be produced by Stanley Maxted with a dramatic cast and orchestra under the direction of Geoffrey Waddington. Don Henshaw is the author of the story, "The Tragic Mirror," which tells of the romance between Miletus, handsome son of a proud Athenian family, and Elena, a beautiful Grecian "deb".

Miletus is engrossed in art, to the chagrin of his father, who was once a great Olympic star, and because of his cultural interests he is considered a most unworthy suitor in the eyes of the Athenian belle. When he forsakes his studio and the molten bronze for the Olympic track and the laurel wreath, the whole world seems rosy, for he has, in place of derision, the plaudits of the populace and the favours of his sweetheart. But tragedy follows and it is in the climax of this tale of Athens long ago that modern audiences will learn how much akin to present days were the loves and heartbreaks of two thousand years ago.

"The Tragic Mirror" is a fanciful story which has its origin in a delicate bronze shield, exquisitely traced, which is one of the most valued relics of the early Grecian collection at the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology.

"Forgotten Footsteps" will be presented each Sunday night from the Toronto studios and will have as its inspiration many unique treasures from this famous collection, which covers the whole progress of the many civilizations of the world, and which will reveal, through the medium of the radio drama, that little does time change the impulses of the human race.

The stirring British film epic, "Born to Glory", will be the basis of a radio dramatization to be presented as a special feature from the Toronto studios of the Canadian Radio Commission on Wednesday, October 9, at 8.30 p.m. The production, which will be presented by Stanley Maxted with a dramatic cast and orchestra under the direction of Geoffrey Waddington, will be heard over the Commission's national network.

"Born to Glory" is based on a novel, "Brown on Resolution", by C. S. Forester, and the picture, like the "Lives of a Bengal Lancer", depicts ingeniously and even generously from the original narrative, presented a human and likeable story of a boy who trains himself for the sea and acquires himself like a hero when he falls into the hands of the enemy.

The picture besides being a vivid comment on the futility of war, is a striking story of courage, character and thrills. Scenes from this highly dramatic success of the English screen will be adapted for the radio presentation, which will feature leading dramatic artists of the "First Wednesday" and "Up-to-the-Minute" casts.

It is reported that after years of refusal, the British Admiralty gave full facilities to Gaumont British studios to make the picture that would immortalize the story of a sailor, his life, his love and his sacrifice.

Sinfonietta Programs

Confirmation has been received that Wallenstein's Sinfonietta will be available to the Canadian Radio Commission during the fall and winter season, and program officials announce that the feature will be heard weekly on Wednesday evenings, from 9.30 to 10 o'clock. Alfred Wallenstein is first cellist with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and musical director of the Mutual Broadcasting System. His programmes are ranked among the best of their kind in the United States.

Airplane Ride Proves Exciting

J. Arthur Dupont, program director for the Canadian Radio Commission in Quebec and The Maritimes, whose frequent journeys throughout Eastern Canada and the United States in the interests of the Commission are the envy of those members of the headquarters staff afflicted with wanderlust, doesn't want to travel any more—at least not by air.

A few weeks ago Mr. Dupont, as a member of a Montreal delegation comprised of Mayor Houde, members of the City Council, Montreal Tourist and Convention Bureau, and the Canadian Legion, hopped off from St. Hubert Airport for Newark, N.J., and St. Louis, Mo., to persuade the American Legion to hold its 1937 convention in the Canadian metropolises.

The journey through the ether was a pleasant one—until a raging storm from the Atlantic seaboard got in their way. Where, a few minutes before, there had been waves carrying soft strains of music from Commission stations, there were then crashes of thunder, flashes of lightning and torrents of rain. The machine bounced, lifted, fell, rolled, dipped, banked and did everything but turn the loop.

"Scared? No. But it was no picnic," Mr. Dupont confessed. "Never before did I long for my office as I did then. You see, I had my hand read the day before and was told that when I did it would be from a fall. I thought then, when some 10,000 feet in the air, that I had met my Waterloo! You should try it sometime—it's good for that roving spirit."

CANADIAN NATIONALBelleville Sectional
W. M. S. Rally Held

(By Florence MacMullen)

Despite a drizzling rain over two hundred delegates and visitors gathered at Cannifton United Church on Thursday, October 3rd, for their annual rally. A profusion of lovely autumn flowers and potted plants greeted the eye and Mesdames Merrick and Twiddy welcomed the delegates with Mrs. Callery in charge of registration.

Mrs. Farnham was pianist for the day and was assisted by a number of W. M. S. ladies from near-by points.

Mrs. H. Froats, vice-Pres., of Belleville Section, presided over both sessions, in her inimitable style, and proved to all that her first year had been most successful.

Following the Invocation, the business of the day was dealt with and Mesdames Campbell, Holmes and MacMullen were appointed Press Secretaries for the weekpapers in the section and Mrs. Earl Denyes Secretary, with Mrs. E. Farnsworth Convenor of the nominating committee.

Mrs. J. B. Patterson took charge of the Devotional exercises based on 145 Psalm and Mrs. Homan offered prayer.

Miss Emma Collett of Cannifton extended a hearty welcome to the visitors and Mrs. Earle Denyes graciously replied, saying it was a high adventure to be a member of the Woman's Missionary Society.

Mrs. Froats urged that all letters sent to auxiliary secretaries from Presbyterian officers be read at the following meeting as these were meant to be read publicly at the auxiliary.

"Jesus Shall Reign" was sung and six five-minute papers were given.

Mrs. Alyea, speaking on the Dept. of "Treasurer" said accuracy was essential. She advised systematic giving and thought the finance committee should devise ways and means to balance the budget.

Mrs. Moore on "Temperance" said the W.M.S. in speaking of this word meant alcoholic beverages and this evil has reached appalling heights. Splendid Temperance information may be found in the July and September Monthlies. Temperance leaders should be up-to-date in their knowledge of the liquor laws and should read and study widely. The future of our church as well as the liquor traffic depends on "Our boys and girls so we must pray, set an example, and use our influence to overcome this great evil.

Mrs. J. Daniels gave a lovely talk on "The Joy of being a Strangers' Secretary". She simply radiated joy and delight in this phase of the work and the several Strangers' Secretaries in the audience felt they had done so little after they heard how she visited the sick, the lonely and the sad, carrying with her flowers, small treats, and reading material. Surely it is more blessed to give than to receive.

Mrs. G. C. Shorey, voicing her sentiments on "Literature" urged all to read and study our "Blue Book" brimming with letters from the missionaries in the field. The Missionary Monthly and leaflets contain much useful information for everyday use.

Mrs. Morley Sine on "Why discard the Mite-box" said this box is to hold offerings from grateful hearts, and its object is (1) to help on a great work, (2) to give the gospel and blessings to those who know it not, (3) to encourage giving, especially the younger folk (4) to educate people to share with others (5) lastly, to gather in the "littles". She gave a graphic picture of "The Two Mites" and closed with a "Mite Box Psalm".

Mrs. Bewe, speaking on the difficult subject of "Peace and Politics", urged the women to stamp out the general belief that "The White Race is Superior." She said it has been proven that the underlying causes of war could be corrected and she asked "Is it a Christian Immigration policy to deny others the privilege of living on Canada's broad acres?" We as Christian women should renounce war, enlarge our sense of responsibility, take an active part in politics, help mould public opinion and finally put the "Kingdom of God" first in our lives.

Mrs. E. Farnsworth, Christian Stewardship Secretary of the Presbyterian said, "We must value Eternal things as we find no pinch along money lines in the world of sport or variety. We must read and study this subject and the nearer we get to God, the more anxious we are to further God's Kingdom and awaken religion in all women. The Christian Stewardship Secretary should impress upon the women that all they have belongs to God and is only given to us as a trust. To give to God is to receive and the more we give the more abundantly is given to us. She urged the women to try tithing for one year, especially in this Jubilee year when our allocation is a ten per cent. increase in membership, subscribers to Monthly and finances. If each quarter were evenly divided the interest accruing would amount to over four thousand dollars. She closed with an illustration and said "Is the world today turning away from Christianity. Do Christians tick?"

Mrs. James Reddick, of Trenton, gave "the story of the year", telling of the work accomplished by the busy, alert women in our thirty-three auxiliaries, the majority being in rural communities. She told of the life of Martha and asked "Is your missionary society a place to rest, or is it cumbered with too much serving?"

Several problems were dealt with and the encouraging features were systematic giving and the stressing of Christian Stewardship. All were urged to spend more time in prayer. Aikins were complimented on their study of the Monthly and Foxboro on their Grandmothers' meeting.

Roll call was well responded to and the offering was taken while all sang "Jesus Saves" and Mrs. S. Lloyd dedicated it to God's work.

Mrs. S. G. Gay, Honorary President of Presbyterian took charge of a special responsive worship service and gave a splendid address on "Prayer, its place and power." She closed by reading the hymn "Prayer is the Soul's sincere desire"; Mesdames Duff and Bradley sang "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer."

The ladies of Cannifton served a most delicious and appetizing dinner in the basement of the church.

The afternoon session was opened with a very impressive worship service conducted by Misses Vera Pound, Nancy Cone and Ruth Garrison, members of Cannifton C.G.I.T.

Mrs. E. Hubbs gave a paper on "Leadership". She said Leadership spells influence and then power and it means responsibility and it is a true spirit of helpfulness. She gave instances such as Florence Nightingale, Lincoln, Edison and Kegawa. Power is the driving force of vision and the lighted Divine Spark within us by which nothing is impossible. A leader needs courage, conviction and she gains humility, understanding and wisdom. She admonished all to give of their time, talents, and themselves and include God in their plans. Tabernacle C.G.I.T. girls sang a quartette "What are you doing for Jesus?"

Mrs. J. A. Crews gave a paper on "Programmes" and said in order to enlist new women in our work we must have attractive and interesting programmes, which will challenge the allegiance of every woman. Programs should be well planned with a committee in charge where a variety of ideas can be discussed. The responsibility should be widely distributed, giving all a chance. Free discussion on the business should be encouraged but parliamentary rules strictly adhered to. The programmes should be inspirational and educational. Leaders should be prompt in opening and closing, have no pauses, speak distinctly, be a student of missions yourself, encourage public prayer, tell your own thoughts rather than give pretentious papers. In closing she urged all to read the leaflet "Tying the Strings".

Mrs. O. S. Reddick, of Napanee Presbyterian Supply Secretary, thanked the auxiliaries for the lovely boxes of supplies and said today a mission box contains lovely warm quilts, clean and mended clothing, layettes and knitted goods. She read several letters of thanks which conclusively proved that this a very worthwhile work.

Mrs. H. D. Williams, Picton, Presbyterian Literature Secretary, had on display the new study books and various leaflets. She said knowledge comes through reading and she urged the women to read and study more, especially the Blue Book.

Mrs. Belcangue read a letter written by her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Pretis, Napanee, Presbyterian Baby Band Secretary, explaining that a Baby Band is feasible in a rural community. She gave practical information for carrying on the work by visiting the mother, pictures, Bible stories and scrap books. Enroll the babies and you touch the mothers' hearts. She closed with a poem "Two little Babies were born one day."

Mrs. Stanley Spafford, speaking on "The Ear Marks of a Model Missionary Meeting," said, have your meetings just a little nearer perfection; 75 per cent should attend, an ideal meeting is one in which members have something to say, to see and to hear; be punctual; have prayerful preparation, use all available literature, be concise in dealing with business, give systematically. Have good methods, friendly attitude, each one willing to assist, and lastly grow in the Kingdom of God.

Mrs. Rev. W. H. Clarke dedicated the offering and Miss Vera Ray, R.N., of Centenary, who is leaving soon for Nigeria, being sent to Africa by "The Soudan International Mission" gave a personal talk on "Why I decided to be a missionary", and she was given a standing ovation by the gathering who will offer prayers on her behalf.

Mrs. W. C. Haggerty of Cherry Valley, President of the Belleville Presbyterian was guest speaker and delighted his hearers with a very impressive and thought-provoking address on "The Four F's" which represented Facts, Folks, Friends and Faith. It is a fact that we have under the W.M.S. 182 missionaries in 10 countries. In Canada we have 101 missionaries and 64 associate workers at 80 stations. She gloried the life of Catharine Campbell of Listowel, Ont., who retired this year after forty years of service in Central India. Funds — 96½ per cent. of our money goes direct to the fields and 3½ per cent is used for administration. Detailed letters from missionaries are found in the Blue Book and these we should read and study and then be willing to give as our organization must have material substance. Folks — are all human beings regardless of colour, and each one has individual dispositions, each with a task to complete life's highway, each with a purpose in view, each with at least one talent, and each with a soul to develop. Faith — is the only thing which we are able to offset the tempter's power. We cannot go on and on without zealously putting first things first. We must cultivate our Faith. She closed with a poem "Two travelers crossing a bridge."

Mrs. Horace Yateman, of Trenton, gave a ten-minute paper on "My Experience as a Tither" and said "Giving to the Lord should be done systematically. A tither establishes the habit of putting God first for Tithing is an act of worship. We all have time and talents as well as money to contribute and by withdrawing we prevent the spread of the gospel and also our own spiritual growth.

Mrs. J. E. Irvine read a paper prepared by a member of Tabernacle mission Circle on the subject "Why am I a Circle member? Through example, precept, education in Church work, pleasure in activities, spiritual blessings received and a desire to serve.

Mrs. Froats conducted a question drawer, dealing with missionary problems and Mrs. Farnsworth reported that it was the desire of the nominating committee that Mrs. Froats continue to hold that office for another year.

Mrs. Haggerty outlined the plans for the tenth anniversary celebration to be held in Belleville on October 22nd and 23rd.

This very helpful service closed with the hearty rendering of "In Christ there is no East nor West", Benediction was pronounced; closing a very inspirational, educational and interesting day of valuable material which we as W. M. S. women ponder over during the coming year.

Howdy Gang!

"The frost is on the pumpkin"
— an no foolin'.

Just imagine — in about another month we'll be sitting up close to the furnace pipe listening to Foster Hewitt telling about the way "Red" Horner and Nels Stewart of welcoming each other back at the game — one by up-setting his playmate into the sideboards on his ear, and the other by tapping his friend across the beeper with the soft end of a hockey stick!

It's not a very nice thought, but it might just as well be good and cold in the evenings as the way it is now.

Well, the political situation is getting a bit more interesting, and that's not saying much either.

We've got three boys in the local ring for Dominion honours, or whatever you call it, and because Stirling is half in one riding and half in another we expect there'll be two good shows for the price of one.

Mr. Embury in the north and Ernie Tummon in the south, they look with love-filled peepers at the Rt. Hon. R. B. and say "Yes, though I walk in the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me".

Then Ferguson in the north and Cameron in the south they kneel in silent contemplation and they say unto Mr. King: "thou wilt maketh me to lie down in green pastures, and beside the still waters".

Then out of the north steals Jud Gunter who is met half-way down the pike by Laurie Lewis, and under the reconstruction flag Jud says "to heck with youse guys, I preparent a table before you, in the presence of mine enemies!"

To which Mr. Lewis further adds "We'll sprinkle thy dome with oil 'til thy mug runneth over".

And all the poor ratepayer can do is sincerely hope that no matter who goes to Ottawa to the merry-makers' banquet for the next four years, surely goodness and mercy will follow them for a little while longer, so that they can live in the same old house as they have always had, without being kicked by the balliff therefrom.

It's a great world, and those boys that have got their things all packed and their minds made up that they want to go to Ottawa and see the sights and things for the next few years, are having a great time trying to settle the every-so-often "battle of promises".

So far as we can see, all this business of voting is unnecessary. They might better get together and "flip" for it. It amounts to the same thing anyway because we have Grits, Tories, Reconstructionists, those who think they are, those who hope they aren't, those who don't know what they are, those who don't care what they are —

And after that comes the gang that hope they'll be the chosen few — not caring a awful lot who "chose" them as long as they get that four-year vacation in Ottawa, with bed and board provided, and a "little" besides for compensation in the way of spending money for chevin', smokin', the odd show and a new Easter outfit.

Anyway, it won't be long now.

Henry Wallace was in on Saturday and informed us that someone had requested that he either be chairman of the Reconstructionist gathering at Ivanhoe, or else play the organ for the community singing.

Henry politely refused to do either one of the requested chores, but he did tell us of one little thing he intended doing on election night — he intends coming to town that night for the express purpose of giving Neil Bedell a hypodermic so's he wouldn't be forced to stand the pain unfortified.

At the same time, Neil says that he doesn't want Henry to think he copied the idea, but he had made up his mind that him and Ham Johnston were going to go out Ivanhoe way and kloroform Henry so that he could sleep peacefully while the reports were coming in about the Tory flagship being torpedoed by a Reconstructionist submarine, and the crew put to route by the Grit heavy artillery.

Well, the only thing that's left for us mortals to do is to wait until all these political meetings are over; until all candidates have run out of pledges; until Mr. J. M. Public and family have cast their ballots, and then figure that no matter how thin it's sliced, it's still boloney!

Well, last week we were all set for the opening meeting of the Community Welfare Club, but we missed the boat; stopped the wrong train, hailed a taxi that wouldn't stop and now we're walking back.

Seems as if there ain't going to be no meetin' after all.

This is the time of year when chicken suppers and anniversary celebrations are thicker than the down on a Perkinsee goslin, and there just ain't room for nothin' else.

So far this season Gord Bailey is still leading in the endurance test at the district chicken suppers.

And Gord has come up against some pretty tough opposition too!

We hope those in charge of the Club program arrangements can see their way clear to bring the Belleville Rotarians to town at a later date, seein' as 'ow it was not possible to bring them when they had planned.

Anyhow it certainly would not have been any too nice to have two banquets in town the same night.

Well sir, the other day we were speaking about the Community Club when one of the group up and remarks "We don't need no Community Club. This district's over-organized now!"

Play that one over on your linoleum!

Anyone who drops a cud like that can just be labelled plain "knocker".

We've got to have a certain amount of them, but it's too bad!

When we hear anyone like that talking, we just figure that his parents groused both before and after the advent of his arrival, and he's groused ever since.

It just comes natural!

Well last week a report came in about two young ladies from here who were going south and east through Belleville.

Before leaving town they were warned that the horn on the car would not blow when needed.

However, they decided they had not time to wait, so started off in the middle of the night, on their journey.

They got as far as Belleville, and were on the way through the city, when lo and behold, the horn that wouldn't blow when it was wanted, started to toot merrily with might and main, when it was not wanted —

And the two ladies in the car couldn't get it quieted down.

So, according to information received from Belleville, the driver, instead of driving the car on to the next service station, stopped it in the middle of the road, ran a whole block for help, and left the other sitting in the vehicle while the troublesome "horn kept right on announcing to the passing public that it was alive and well, and able to blow as loud, if not louder than any of them.

After all the folks and neighbours in that section of the hamlet had been thoroughly awakened, a mechanic and a garage ambulance came along and persuaded the horn to stop broadcasting its views to a section of unwilling listeners, and all was well.

Fall is with us and the ladies around town are enjoying another of those semi-yearly sessions of moving, lifting, sweeping, scrubbing and losing.

Lorne Anderson happened to ask his father recently where the Pyrenees were.

And much to Lorne's surprise Bill hawked out: "Ask your mother; she's been housecleaning."

Things were nice and quiet in town over the week-end, except that Duff was back for a day.

We feel a verse coming on!

'Twas the night 'fore election
And all through the house
Not a creature was stirring,
Not even a mouse —
When out on the sidewalk
There rose such a clatter
All got up in their nightshirts
To see what was the matter.

And there was Jack Morton
A-wavin' a banner,
And shoutin' for Bennett
In a gosh-awful manner.
While right in behind him
Was seen Tommy Soimes,
Yellin' "Don't vote for King
Or you'll all lose your homes!"

To add to this number,
(In his hand was his sword)
Singing out Bennett's praises,
Was Storekeeper Ward.
And he looked toward the skies,
As though thanks he did give,
That he couldn't vote King
If forever he'd live.

And then you could see,
As you peered through the dark,
With the good old Grit banner,
Stood staunch Alex Park.
While there on his left
Perched his friend Jim Lagrow, Yelling "Don't vote for Bennett — He's a big — so-and-so!"

While just in the offing,
Looking like he's frost-bitten,
Is the flag "Reconstruction",
And it's friend Ira Whitton.
And there in his glory —
(His party's prime mover) —
A-hootin' for Stevens, Stands Bethel's Herb Hoover.

One after the other
They hoot and they holler,
Telling one, telling all,
Just what member to follow.
Clint McGee jumps and stammers,
Saying "Down with Ern Tummon,
Vote for Cameron instead,
And start business a-boomin'!"

Then along comes another Piping "Come on, wake up!
And vote for Doc Embury!"
Says Charley Dracup,
"You're crazy's the Dickens!"
Johnny Butler flings back
"Every vote cast for Embury's Like a train off the track!"

"Rorko Ferguson will,
If he wins the election,
Put us on the right highway —
The road to Perfection!"
Thus speaks John O'Donnell —
A hopplin' good Grit —
While right there behind him,
And 150,000,000

HIGH - FIDELITY - SOUND

A-hammerin' and stampin'
And pawin' aroun',
Is a booster for Gunter —
Our good friend McGowan;
Who proclaims to the public
That both Tories and Grits
Are fit to be hog-tied
And a gang of half-wits.

And he's backed in his statements
Of what crooks they are,
By town clerk George Emery,
Fortified by Phil Carr.
Saying: "Vote Gunter, Vote Lewis —
And vote Reconstruction —
Here's your chance, boys and girls
Save us all from Destruction!"

Melkeljohn and O'Donnell, (With their bayonets exposed)
Yell: "Tories might not be rotten,
But they're sure decomposed!"
Then in jumps Bill Whitty,
(Backed up by Chas. Linn)
And they claim that them Grits
Is as crooked as sin!

And then Henry Wallace
Jumps into the battle.
So high-strung and jumpy
His teeth start to rattle;
And him and Ham Johnson
Engage in a duel —
Ham says: "Bennett's a piker!"
Henry: "King's a darned tool!"

And these two keep at it
Till both them gets mad,
And Ham up and kicks him,
And gosh, it gets bad —
Till "Stub" Rollins (a Tory)
Takes up Henry's puzzle,
And Ham he hauls off and Pokes "Stub" in the muzzle.

So on into the night
Runs this battle and bluster,
'Till there comes down the road
With all the speed he can muster,
A-shoutin' as he comes
'You can all go to — well —
But I'll always be Grit!"
Taunts Cornelius Bedell.

So they squabble and squabble,
They scrap and they jangle,
'Till along comes Frank Sprentall,
To settle the rangle.
And before he gets through
All the boys don't know whether They'll finish it out
Or they'll all get together

And support some one man
Who will take things apart,
And start them off right —
Like Monsewer Aberhart;
So that each of us guys
Once a month gets a cheque,
For twenty-five bucks —
Let the rest go to heck!

So, as you all probably expect,
there'll be a election before you get another copy of this great family journal.

And on election night the Stirling Legion are putting on a real show down at the arena, where you'll all be able to get the returns right hot off the wires, so —

We'll be seein' yuh!

PROTECTING POTATOES FROM FROST

In order to prevent losses to potatoes from low temperatures the crop should be harvested before the advent of heavy frosts. The potatoes should be stored in rooms having a temperature between 35 and 40 degrees F., thus preventing them from turning sweet and the development of necrosis. When potatoes are being transported during the winter months they should be carefully protected from frost. When it is known that potatoes have been undercooled do not handle them until it is certain that the temperature is above freezing point.

LANDSLIDE OF VOTES PUTS LIBERALS IN OFFICE

MacKenzie King Given Biggest Following of Any Premier Since Confederation

Climaxing a succession of provincial victories, the Federal Liberal party under Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King captured the treasury seats at Ottawa on Monday with the biggest majority recorded since Confederation. When the battle of the ballots was finished and the federal field surveyed, it was the Liberals first, the Conservatives a poor second and the rest, nowhere.

Cabinet ministers and Conservative front-benchers toppled like tall pines in a northern blizzard. And the sweep was not limited to one section of the country. It was general, devastating, and at one time it looked as if only a yeoman's guard would be left.

But later returns gave Mr. Bennett a strong, experienced following in the new House.

Never before have the Canadian people elected a government so emphatically. The nearest approach was in 1917, when Sir Robert Borden, campaigning as a Unionist, elected 153 members. And never before has one of the old-time parties fallen so low, the worst showing being in 1921 when Conservatives fell to 50 seats in the House.

Two New Parties Fall Reconstructionists and the C.C.F. each made its initial bid for power federally, failed dismally. Neither party elected a man east of the Great Lakes. In the West the C.C.F. picked up a few seats, but Hon. H. H. Stevens recorded his party's lone victory by his election in East Kootenay, British Columbia.

Liberal Leader King, who will form the next government, won his Saskatchewan riding of Prince Albert. Premier Bennett who, presuming he stays in public life will walk across the green-carpeted aisle in the House and become Leader of the Opposition, was successful in his old riding of West Calgary. J. S. Woodsworth, Leader of the C.C.F., was returned to the House by the people of Winnipeg North-Centre.

A few months ago Premier Bennett was flat on his back with a heart

Only a shortage of 33 votes in the New Brunswick riding of Royal prevented the Liberals from taking every Maritime riding.

Quebec returned to almost a solid Liberal bloc with 55 Liberal and four Independent Liberals to back them up. The Conservatives retained only five of the 24 seats they won in 1930 with one still doubtful.

Ontario did two things to Premier Bennett. It made his downfall doubly sure and gave him the nucleus of his following. In 1930 he won 59 seats in Ontario. He won 26 with the Liberals jumping from 22 to 55. The whole story of the election was written in Ontario figures.

The anti-Government sweep was almost as marked in the West as it was in the east, but the opposition was divided. Alberta, for instance, went Social Credit while in British Columbia, the C.C.F. elected at least four C.C.F. members, the party's biggest group provincially.

The following Cabinet Ministers will form the nucleus of the anti-government forces in the House: Premier Bennett, Sir George Perley, Hon. C. H. Cahan, Hon. Earl Rowe, Hon. Hugh Stewart, Hon. E. Lawson and Hon. Grote Stirling.

Two women were elected: Agnes Macphail, member for Grey-Bruce, as U.F.O.-Labor, and Mrs. George Black, wife of a former Speaker, winning her husband's old seat of the Yukon as an Independent Conservative. Thirteen women were defeated in various parts of the country.

Speaker James Bowman lost his riding of Dauphin to the Liberals and Deputy-Speaker Morand went down to defeat in Essex East to another Liberal.

The old parliamentary "Ginger Group," the United Farmers, Progressives and Laborites, who formed the C.C.F. as a Federal party, was routed. The Social Credit party in Alberta went down to defeat such veterans of the House as Robert Gardiner, who once led the United Farmers of Alberta; H. E. Spencer, E. J. Garland, W. T. Lucas, George Coote, Alfred Speakman and William Irvine. They ran under the C.C.F. banner.

Of the four Laborites in the last House, also running as C.C.F. candidates, there kept their seats, Mr. Woodsworth, A. A. Heaps (Winnipeg North) and Angus MacInnis (Vancouver South). The only Laborite from the East, Humphrey Mitchell (Hamilton East), lost his seat to a Conservative.

LIBERALS LEAD IN BOTH RIDINGS

Rork Ferguson in Hastings-Peterborough - Chas. Cameron in S. Hastings

The two ridings of Hastings-Peterborough and South Hastings, in both of which the village of Stirling takes a part, swung to the Liberal party in Monday's election, following strenuous campaigns by three candidates in each riding.

In South Hastings the successful Liberal standard-bearer, Mr. Charles A. Cameron, Barrister of Belleville, defeated W. E. Tummon, Conservative, and member of the House of Commons for the past two parliaments, and Laurie Lewis, Reconstructionist Candidate, having a majority of 428 over Tummon. Belleville city, home of the elected candidate, gave a substantial majority for their adopted son, while in Trenton another substantial majority was run up. The southern part of the riding supported Mr. Cameron with the exception of Sidney Township and Thurlow Township, while in the northern and eastern part, Tyendinaga Township and Hungerford Township gave majorities for Cameron, with practically all the villages and towns showing strength for Mr. Tummon, but not sufficient to overcome majorities lined up by the Liberal candidate. Laurie Lewis was always trailing in the voting, never having a majority in a single poll in the riding. The contest developed into a straight fight between the two major parties, Conservatives and Liberals.

At the Trenton Airport, Mr. Cameron had a majority, while in Trenton his plurality was 246. In the front riding of Sidney, Mr. Tummon came out with a majority of 48, while his plurality in Thurlow Township was 219. In his home village, Mr. Tummon received a majority of 94 and in Deseronto 99. Laurie Lewis polled his heaviest vote in Trenton and Belleville, the counts being 131 and 338 respectively.

A summary of the vote by municipalities follows:

Legion Carnival

Stirling Arena was the scene of a most successful event on Monday night, when the officers and members of the Canadian Legion Post No. 228, Stirling, held a carnival featuring games of chance, boxing, dancing and the screening of the election returns.

From early evening all roads "led to" the arena and by eight o'clock close to a thousand people were present to participate in the fun, and particularly to hear the election returns. These were flashed on a large screen, which had been erected at the west end of the arena, as they came over the wire. Chief interest was in the returns from the local and district ridings and as the trend to Liberalism was noted much good natured banter was passed between the exponents of the older parties.

Boxing bouts by members of the local Boy Scout Troop, under the management of Mr. Thos. Ward, also provided entertainment for a large section of the crowd, who enthusiastically applauded the participants in each bout. Those taking part were Mic-

On Sunday evening last, Mrs. W. C. Pitman, Mrs. Wm. White and Rev. E. W. Rowland went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Linn and presented on behalf of the Board of St. Paul's United Church, and the Public School Staff, a purse of money with an address, to Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Snowden. Mr. Linn then spoke a few appropriate remarks and assured Mr. and Mrs. Snowden that this gift was but a slight expression of the high esteem in which they are held by their many warm friends in Stirling, and expressed the wish that happiness and health would be their portion in their new home in Pembroke. Mr. and Mrs. Snowden left for their new home in Pembroke on Tuesday night, followed by the good wishes of their many Stirling friends.

STIRLING HIGH SCHOOL WINS FROM MARMORA

(By R. Williams)

A nipping breeze blew down from the north across S. S. H. campus, bringing a flutter of joy to the hearts of Stirling football lovers. The local supporters were over-awed by the size of the Marmora combatants. This advantage was happily counter-balanced by the well-timed team play displayed by the Stirling players. The crowd was very enthusiastic over the brilliant plays and co-operation displayed by both teams.

One highlight of the day's game was a ninety-yard dash by Marmora's brilliant runner, Marvin O'Neill. Imagine the despair, after being so jubilant too. The game had just opened and after about two minutes Stirling kicked over the deadline for the first score of the game. But then, not two minutes later, Marvin joyously galloped from his own ten-yard line right down through the Stirling team to score the first touch-down of the season for Marmora. They failed to convert, thus leaving the score 5 to 1 for Marmora, at the end of the first quarter.

It was Stirling's kick-off, at the beginning of the second quarter, and both teams juggled back and forth, from one end of the field to the other. After about ten minutes of play, when Stirling was on Marmora's 45-yd. line, Bailey started heaving those beautiful forward passes of his right over the Marmora team. A succession of heaves gave Wriggling McDonnell a chance to go over the touch-line for Stirling's first touch-down. The crowd went wild with joy and suspense because, when Mathison failed to convert, the score was 5 to 5 for S.H.S. The first half of the game ended with both sides striving desperately to obtain the upper end of the score.

The third quarter was uneventful as far as the score was concerned. But that does not mean that there was a lack of thrills in it for the spectators. Marmora tried several forward passes but were either incomplete or intercepted. Mumby helped "hoarsen" the throats of Stirling supporters when he intercepted a long forward and made a beautiful run to Marmora's 40-yd. line. During the ensuing play both sides lost yards in penalties for off-sides. The fourth and final quarter opened with a bang. The time was limited. Only 15 minutes to go. The score was still 5 to 5 for Stirling. Both teams were out to do or die. Points counted now. Stirling tore up the line to give Mathison a chance to kick over Marmora's dead line, thus adding another point to Stirling's tally. Cries of "Get in there and hold him, fellows!" of "Get in there and hold him, fellows!" echoed over the field from the throat of the visiting team's captain. In their eagerness to respond to this urging, Marmora was penalized for being off-

Time To Decide

Are the hockey fans of Stirling and district going to have hockey here this coming winter, or are they going to have to journey to Belleville, Campbellford, or some other centre to enjoy this type of entertainment? This is a question which will have to be decided by the sporting fraternity in the village soon, and there can be no object in leaving it off any longer. Whatever is to be done should be done at once before the district leagues have made arrangements for the coming winter. Good clean hockey provides high class entertainment and is an asset to any community in that it is a splendid advertising medium. Any community is a dull place throughout the winter without hockey.

Hydro Anniversary

We are in receipt of a copy of the Kitchener Daily Record of Friday last, in which a section is devoted to the commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the transmission of the publicly-owned power and light from Niagara Falls throughout Ontario. Last Friday marked the anniversary of the realization of the dreams of those three fathers of Hydro: Dan Delwetter and E. W. Snider, who were instrumental in gathering primary information and arousing public interest, and Sir Adam Beck, who supplied the leadership to bring the project to a successful conclusion. Perhaps no anniversary in the history of the Province of Ontario is deserving of more recognition than this one, for there is no public service which has done more to lighten the burdens of the citizens of this province either in the industrial, agricultural or domestic spheres than Hydro. The special twelve-page anniversary edition contains much of historic interest in connection with the development of this great project and is a noteworthy tribute to the great enterprise and the men who worked for its success.

Names Omitted

As had been predicted beforehand, there were many people throughout Canada who were deprived of a vote in Monday's election because their names did not appear on the voters' list. Included among those who were disenfranchised in this manner were a number from the Village of Stirling and surrounding district. Heretofore, when an elector's name was omitted from the voters' list, the election law permitted the swearing of voters in rural ridings, but under the new regulations this is not permissible, so consequently nothing could be done about it. It is not right for an elector who is entitled to a vote to be deprived of the privilege of exercising his franchise and the law should be changed to allow the addition of names on polling day. Had the voters' lists been printed locally using the municipal lists as a basis instead of having them printed in Ottawa, it is doubtful if nearly so many names would have been omitted.

The Election

For the eighteenth time since Confederation the Canadian electorate went to the polls on Monday and when the smoke of battle had cleared away one of the biggest political upsets in the history of the Dominion had been recorded. From coast to coast the Liberal party, under the leadership of Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, made large gains from the Conservative party, and as a result, when the next Parliament convenes will have a substantial majority over all other parties. As a result of the Liberal victory in Monday's vote, a condition probably unparalleled in the Dominion's history has been created, with every province with the exception of Alberta being in the Liberal fold.

With bright autumn weather prevailing, the voters flocked to the polls and it is believed that a record vote was recorded. Never before had so many candidates been presented for the consideration of the voters, with eight hundred and ninety-four contesting the two hundred and forty-five seats.

The defeat of the government is no doubt due to the long period of depression through which the country has passed, and the universal clamour for a change. Some weeks ago the consensus was that the result would be a Liberal landslide, but as the date of voting drew nearer and Premier Bennett was being enthusiastically acclaimed in his election tour, it was thought that the result would be fairly close. Nevertheless, Monday's result left no doubt as to the wishes of the electorate.

In the local ridings the Conservative cause also suffered defeat when Dr. A. T. Embury, who has been the representative for Hastings-Peterborough for the past ten years lost to Mr. Rork Ferguson of Asphodel, the Liberal standard-bearer, while Mr. W. E. Tummion, of Tweed, Conservative member for South Hastings, was defeated by Mr. Chas. Cameron, Liberal, of Belleville. Mr. Cameron is a well-known and popular lawyer and his career will be watched with interest by his supporters. Mr. Laurie Lewis, of Belleville, was the candidate for the Reconstructionist party. In Hastings-Peterborough the defeat of Dr. Embury is attributed to the candidature of Mr. Judson Gunter as a supporter of Mr. Stevens. The Conservative candidate and Mr. Gunter both came from the Village of Bancroft, and as a result the Conservative Candidate's usual majority in the northern section of the riding was greatly reduced. Mr. Ferguson, the successful candidate, while practically unknown in this section of the constituency, has had a wealth of experience in municipal affairs and will doubtless prove a worthy representative.

CURRENT COMMENT

Monday's election results have changed the handshaking which has been so common on the part of politicians during the past few weeks to head-shaking.

Now that the Hon. MacKenzie King will shortly assume the mantle of the office of Prime Minister of this Dominion, we presume one of his first official duties will be to fulfil the Liberal election promise to "take the silk pants" away from "Fergy".

Congratulations are due the Trenton Courier-Advocate, which celebrated its seventy-first birthday with last week's issue. The Courier-Advocate is one of the brightest and newest exchanges coming to our desk and its editorial style, written in Editor Moore's own inimitable style, is frequently quoted by both the daily and weekly press. May the Courier-Advocate continue to prosper.

According to an announcement by the Department of Game and Fisheries the ban on the shooting of black and grey squirrels will be lifted for two days—October 24th and 25th—throughout Ontario. Each hunter will only be allowed a bag of five, all to be used as food or mounted. Black squirrels are quite plentiful in some sections in this district, but we doubt if they are plentiful enough to warrant the legalizing of their shooting even for a two-day period.

The uncertainties of an election campaign are truly great. Hon. H. H. Stevens, leader of the Reconstruction party, went from one end of the Dominion to the other preaching his doctrine of a new deal for the masses, and according to reports was given enthusiastic receptions. Yet on Monday, of the one hundred and seventy-odd seats contested by his party, only one—his own riding—returned a supporter of his party. It hardly seems possible that any party labelled as championing the cause of the masses could make such a dismal showing.

and death. Men can certainly make a mess of things. It might be advisable to turn things over to the women to manage for a while. One thing certain there would not be a war no matter what else might happen.

MASSACRE, NOT WAR

(Ottawa Journal)

These half-armed, half-clad, undisciplined Ethiopian warriors are no match for Mussolini's legions of steel with their tanks and machine guns and planes with death-dealing bombs. For them it is flight or massacre. So what the world is witnessing is the rape of an ancient nation, defenceless and helpless, by an aggressive, imperialistic power. Mussolini does not deny it. In his speeches, more martial and bombastic than the Kaiser's ever were, he proclaims the right of booty, the law of force.

TEACHERS AND OTHERS

(Ferris News-Record)

There has been a good deal of discussion about teachers in Ferris lately, partly due to the unusual situation created when it was necessary to obtain a new teacher for the public school after the present term began, but there is always a good deal of discussion about school teachers in every town. There are very important personalities as other towns? How do rates compare? And so on. Or what about the numerous employees of the council—the firemen, the street cleaners, constables, clerks and others. What about our parks, streets, cemetery, hospital and public buildings? Are they as good as they might be? Do ratepayers receive value for their money? We are not suggesting that any of these individuals are not satisfactory. All we want to point out is that they are public servants as much as the teachers. So are all those who hold positions under provincial and federal governments and paid out of public funds in any way. You are paying their salaries just as truly. So why not give the teachers a rest and turn your attention and ability in some other direction?

MRS. ELIZABETH ANN ROBLIN

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 17th, Mrs. Roblin, wife of the late D. W. Roblin, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Russell, in Hamilton. She had been in failing health for some time, but her sudden death came as a shock to her many friends in Rawdon. The late Mrs. Roblin was in her 73rd year, and was born in Rawdon, having lived there mostly all her life. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Ann McKeown, her parents being the late Thomas and Catherine McKeown. She was a faithful worker in the United Church when health permitted, and highly esteemed by all her friends. The remains were brought to the home of her late son, William A. Bateman, who passed away three months ago, at Springbrook; the service being held in the United Church, and burial at Twelfth Line cemetery. Surviving are two daughters: Mrs. W. A. Russell, of Hamilton, and Mrs. S. R. Curtis, of Winnipeg; two brothers, Thomas McKeown, of Norwood, and John, of Bonarlaw; two sisters, Mrs. John Stuart and Mrs. Lily Anderson, of Rylestone. The many floral offerings bore silent tribute to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The bearers were Thomas McKeown, Ralph McKeown, Arthur Burdick, Ray Stuart, Lorne and Eldon Anderson, all nephews of the deceased.

"What's your new little brother's name, Betty?"

"We don't know yet. No one can understand a word he says."

Farmer: "My pigs are all ailing just now."

Friend: "Never mind about that. They'll be cured one day."

"Where have you been for the last four years?"

"At college taking medicine."

"And did you finally get well?"

Diner: "Waiter, this steak tastes just like an old boot smeared with onion."

Waiter: "But, sir, what strange meals you have had."

"Does your husband worry over your grocery bills?"

"No. He says there's no sense in both him and the grocer worrying over the same bills."

She: "I'm hungry."

He: "What?"

She: "I said I was hungry."

He: "Sure, I'll take you home; this car makes so much noise that I thought you said you were hungry."

Mrs. Percy: "Now, Henry, what are you thinking about? I can always tell when you have some thought that you are trying to conceal from me. Out with it!"

Henry: "I was just wondering what the Mormons could see in polygamy."

Teddy: "Say, are you going to propose to my sister tonight?"

George: "Why—er—er—what do you mean?"

Teddy: "Oh, nothing. Only if you are, it ain't going to surprise her. She has made us promise all to go to bed."

Gladys: "I'm so thrilled, dear. It's tomorrow that Reginald will conduct you to the altar."

Muriel: "Yes darling, and right there Reginald will stop being a conductor and start being a brakeman and porter."

Four-year-old Joe had just come away from his playmate, a girl about a year older. His troubled features showed he had a serious problem on his mind, and he volunteered the explanation of the situation.

"I don't want to get in the habit," he said, "of Ruth Spencer hitting me."

For years he had been henpecked, but at last the worm turned. One morning he said to his wife: "My dear I had a queer dream last night — that someone was running off with you."

"Indeed," replied his wife, "and what did you say to him?"

"I just asked him why he was running!"

Hoeecake: "Nigger, who's de mostest cross-eyed pussen you 'ebber seed?"

Gingersnap: "Ole Deacon Fossum-grease. Dat nigger kin see a fly on each ear. Who's de mostest cross-eyed pussen you ebber seed?"

Hoeecake: "Ma brudder-een-law, Gatorbait. Dat nigger's so cross-eyed he doan need but one glass in his spectacles."

"I am very proud of my paintings," declared the artist. "I think I shall soon hold an exhibition of my work."

"Well, take my tip," commented the callous critic, "and see that you don't get rheumatism through sitting on the cold pavement."

Johannie, on his ninth birthday, had had a party. It was all over, and he was now gazing wistfully at the remains of the cake.

"Mother," he said, "may I have a piece of cake — only a small piece, please?"

"No," replied his mother, "You've had quite enough."

"Well, may I sleep with a bit under my pillow?" asked the boy.

"Very well, here you are, and remember to keep it under your pillow. Now run along to bed."

On going up to Johannie's room some time later, his mother was amazed to see Johannie sleeping peacefully with the pillow over his stomach.

WELLMANS WOMEN ENTERTAIN STIRLING AND SPRINGBROOK

Last Thursday evening the Wellman's Women's Association entertained the Stirling and Springbrook Societies in their Church. There was a good attendance of visiting and local members. The program was given by the three Societies. Springbrook's contribution was a reading by Mrs. Belle and a short address by Mrs. (Rev.) H. W. Foley. Stirling ladies' contribution consisted of readings by Mrs. Munro and Mrs. Matheson. The following numbers were given by the local society: duet by Lucille and Omar Dracup; solo, Mrs. Heagle, and reading, Miss Cook. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Todd and was responded to by Mrs. Gordanger. The special speaker of the evening was Mrs. J. A. Lott, President of the County Women's Association. Mrs. Lott, in a very frank and challenging way presented the aims and purposes of the Women's Association and Ladies' Aids. Rev. H. W. Foley, of Springbrook, Chairman of the Belleville Presbytery, was present, and gave a short address. At the close of the entertainment lunch was served by the Wellman's Association and a very pleasant half hour was spent by all present.

NEW BRIDGE AT TWEED

An announcement of importance has been made to Tweed residents to the effect that a new bridge is to be erected spanning the Moira River at that place, and the work is scheduled to commence in the spring of 1936. The present structure is very dangerous to motorists due to its narrowness and the right angle turn at the east side. The present bridge is not heavy enough for traffic and it has been the object of complaints for a number of years. Officials who have been working on the proposal announce that a number of workmen will be employed and that the work will take several months to complete. It is stated that operations at the crusher at the north of the Lakview Poultry Farm of which Springer & Beatty are in charge will continue into the New Year.

SATURDAY'S MARKET

There were but few changes to note in prices for all products offered for sale on Saturday's Belleville market which was largely attended by both sellers and buyers.

The display of fruit was exceptionally fine, consisting of peaches, plums of various kinds, grapes and melons. Peaches ranged in price from 45c to 60c a basket; plums 50c and 60c a basket and grapes 25c for blue and 30c for light coloured per basket. Melons were from 5c to 15c each.

Poultry, while quite plentiful, commanded a good price. Chickens sold from 60c to 90c each; Ducks 90c to $1.00 each; one turkey was offered at $2.50.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Protecting Potatoes From Frost

In order to prevent losses of potatoes from low temperatures the crop should be harvested before the advent of heavy frosts. The potatoes should be stored in rooms having a temperature between 35 and 40 degrees F., thus preventing them from turning sweet and the development of necrosis. When potatoes are being transported during the winter months they should be carefully protected from frost. When it is known that potatoes have been undercooled do not handle them until it is certain that the temperature is above freezing point.

Recommended Varieties of Oats

Variety tests of oats made at the Central Experimental Farm over a long period have shown that Banner and Victory still hold the lead in the medium late variety class in this district. Legacy, a medium early variety, has yielded exceptionally well in comparison with later standard varieties. Where very early varieties are recommended as one of the best. The new early variety Cartier, which has been accepted by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association as a registered variety, is considered as being equally good and slightly higher yielding than Alaska in this district.

National Cheese Week October 28 to November 2

Although Canadian cheddar cheese is equalled by few and surpassed by none of the 250 different kinds of cheese manufactured throughout the world, the Canadian people eat less cheese than most of the other great nations. For this reason, the Canadian cheese industry in 1934 promoted "National Cheese Week" in an attempt to call attention to the advantages of cheese as a food product, and Canadian at that, worthy of more general use. As a result of these efforts, the consumption of Canadian cheese in Canada increased by almost half a pound per head of population during the year, and heartened by this advance, the Canadian cheese industry has called the 1935 National Cheese Week for October 23 to November 2.

One reason for the small quantity of cheese eaten in the Dominion is that it is generally served as plain cheese at the end of a substantial meal and not as the principal ingredient of an enticing meal, dish followed by a light desert. Cheese is a food in itself and can be used in cooking in many different ways. It is one of the best muscle builders for older girls and boys, as well as for adults, but when served in crude bulk cannot be said to be universally appealing. Cheese does not lose its flavour or nutritive value in cooking, but it should be remembered that when cheese is subjected to high temperatures it is harder to digest. Eaten according to modern recipes, there can be no cause under circumstances for any digestive disturbances.

Current Crop Report

Recent showers throughout the Province have benefitted root crops and pastures. Due to the length of straw and variable weather, threshing is not yet completed. Silo filling is well under way, with corn a better than average crop. Fall wheat harvested has given an above-average yield of fair to average sample. Oats and barley were a good yield of average to good quality, though the latter may grade light for malting purposes. Peas were patchy in sections but sufficient for canning purposes. Hay, alfalfa and clover have been abundant crops of average quality. Pastures are still furnishing good grazing. Late potatoes have suffered from dry rot and are a light crop. Sugar beets are improving with moisture though the sugar content is lessened from 14 to 15 percent. A good average crop of beans has been harvested and an average pack of tomatoes has been completed. Late apples are a light crop, with fruit slightly under size. The yield and quality of tobacco are good and the bulk has been harvested under ideal conditions. Fall ploughing is well under way but additional moisture would be welcome. Barns are filled. Pasture has been extended, and an abundant winter's supply of feed is assured.

Proper Hog Feeding

In order to produce pork as economically as possible, farm products, which would otherwise have little or no value, must be utilized for hog feeding. A ration which is balanced, or nearly so, must be fed, however, if satisfactory gains are to be made and if a satisfactory carcass is to be produced.

Experiments have been conducted to determine the value of potatoes when fed in combination with ground grains and skim milk. It has been found that satisfactory gains can be made when potatoes are fed at the rate of four pounds for each pound of grain. Skim-milk should be fed liberally with this ration for best results. Potatoes are fed, preferably cooked. The grain mixture may consist of almost any mixture of common ground grains but it is advisable to include some barley in the mixture especially during the latter part of the fattening period. Where grain and milk only are fed, a suitable mixture consists of equal parts of middlings ground oats, and ground barley until the pigs weigh about 120 pounds and then add one extra part of barley. Where potatoes are fed, one part of barley should be omitted. In this experiment where the meal mixture was valued at $1.55 per hundred pounds, potatoes had a feed value of 25 cents per hundred pounds.

Lamb Campaign

An appreciable benefit to the Canadian farmer-sheep-breeder is anticipated from the work being carried on by the recently-organized Canadian Lamb Committee, which has undertaken to conduct a campaign to encourage the consumption of fresh Canadian lamb and to inform Canadian housewives of the economical and nutritive advantages and the year-round availability of this type of meat, according to a statement just issued by the committee.

The object of the campaign, the statement continues, is to effect a more even balance between the production and the consumption of fresh lamb in Canada. Its work has been necessitated because within recent years the finishing and marketing methods of fresh Canadian lamb have been improved to such an extent that this meat may now be obtained at moderate prices during any month in the year.

The majority of housewives, however, are still apt to regard fresh lamb as somewhat of a seasonal luxury and are not fully aware of the continuous monthly movement of the farmer's product to the retail market, it is claimed in the statement. Many housewives also do not appreciate the tremendous nutritive value of lamb and its suitability as a staple meat in the family diet, and the committee is confident that its efforts will be of substantial benefit to thousands of Canadian housewives as well as to thousands of Canadian farmers and sheep-breeders.

MICHIGAN TOURIST HAS NECK BROKEN

Losing control of the car, which she was driving, from an unknown cause, Mrs. Jack Johnston of Battle Creek, Michigan, sustained a broken arm and fractured ribs, while her brother-in-law, Tom Johnston, sustained a broken vertebrae of the neck and is now in Belleville General Hospital in a critical condition. The accident occurred one mile west of Madoc on Highway No. 7, shortly after one o'clock on Saturday, the automobile at the time travelling in an easterly direction. The car, a new terraplane, was completely demolished in the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnston, with Tom Johnston, a brother, were travelling east with Mrs. Johnston at the wheel. The car went out of control and turned over a number of times in the ditch. Dr. Eagleson, of Madoc, went to the scene and had Mrs. Johnston removed to the home of Mrs. Russell Lewis in Madoc, where she will be confined for some time. The brother-in-law was removed to Belleville hospital. Dr. G. H. Stoble was called in attendance.

Lawlor, opened the meeting and after a hymn, led in repeating the Lord's Prayer. The following Secretaries reported: Supply, re-bale which was forwarded in September and acknowledged; Missionary Monthly, re-subscriptions, which are now due; Christian Stewardship and Finance, who read a letter from the Presbyterian C. S. & F. Sec., urging us to more faithful and systematic giving, quoted from the address of Mr. Bruce, missionary from Korea, as further reason why our givings should not fall at this critical time, and finally reported a serious deficit to date in the givings of the local Society; Peace, giving a timely reminder of conditions that are anything but peaceful, needing our prayers. The Treasurer's report also noted the financial shortcomings to date. The tenth anniversary of Missions in the United Church will be celebrated in Belleville Presbyterian by a program and dinner to be held in Belleville on October 23rd, services opening at 4.30 and dinner served at 5. Individual members of St. Paul's will please make their own arrangements for attending as it would not be possible to provide transportation for all who will want to attend this gathering. WEST HUNTINGDON

Extra large congregations attended St. Andrew's Church Annual Anniversary held both morning and evening on Sunday, Oct. 13th. The special minister for the day was the pastor's father, Rev. R. J. Koffend, of Toronto. And those in attendance were not disappointed as Mr. Koffend gave two outstanding inspirational addresses.

In the morning his subject was Christ's Desire for the Church; Basing his remarks on Ephesians 5, Chapter 27, "That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing, but that it should be holy and without blemish."

The speaker said that he was under the impression that in our rush for progress in Church work we often put God in the background. He compared the attitude of the members of the early church to ours today. More dependence was placed on prayer than now.

We certainly can have no glorious church until we feel the need of God's Holy Spirit to have a change of heart. In the evening Mr. Koffend's subject was "What the Enemies of Christ said about him": 1st, He is true; 2nd, What do we for this man doeth many miracles; 3rd, This man receiveth sinners; 4, He saved others, himself he cannot save.

These stirring evangelistic messages of Mr. Koffend's will linger long in the minds of those present. A special feature of the anniversary was the unveiling of the memorial of the late Mr. H. Rollins. This was ably performed by the pastor of the Church, Rev. J. A. Koffend. In view of the fact that Mr. Rollins loved good singing, his sons gave the church as a memorial, a beautiful hymn board. The choir of fourteen voices directed by the pastor, rendered excellent music. They were ably assisted by Miss I. Elgie and Messrs Arthur Duncan and William Dermid, Stirling.

The anthems were all familiar hymns, which always carry a gospel message. In the morning they rendered "I am His and He is Mine", also "I am the Way". Mr. Arthur Duncan gave as a solo "Leave it with Him". Mr. Duncan's solos are always appreciated by this congregation. In the evening the choir selections were: "When We all Get to Heaven", and "I will sing of my Redeemer." Mrs. Samuel Donnan was the pianist for the day.

The church, which has been recently redecorated looked beautiful with its many flowers and potted plants.

Rev. H. A. Turner, pastor of the United Church, was present in the evening, and pronounced the benediction.

The Thankoffering amounted to one hundred and forty-five dollars. The annual anniversary dinner was dispensed with this year. Under the capable leadership, the Rev. J. A. Koffend, every department of this church is progressing and Mr. Koffend is anxious to keep his people informed on all the up-to-date themes in undertaking a series of lectures on Nov. 5th, which will no doubt prove interesting. There were no services in the United Church on Sunday evening as the members attended the anniversary of St. Andrews.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR MEN AT ST. JOHN'S

On Sunday evening a special service for men was held in St. John's Anglican Church, under the auspices of the Men's Club of the Church. Rev. Major W. E. Kidd, M.A., M.C., of Kingston, Chaplain of the 21st Battalion, C.E.F., was the special preacher for the occasion and gave a very inspiring sermon based on the theme "Christ's Desire for His Church." The scripture lessons for the service were read by Messrs Earl Morrow and Ernest Dainard. At the offertory Mrs. H. P. Ellis rendered a solo "Abide with me", while Mrs. H. H. Alger presided at the organ throughout the service. Following the service a number of former members of the 21st battalion, who were present at the special service, together with members of the Men's Club, were entertained at a social gathering at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. S. McConnell, where the veterans renewed acquaintances with their beloved padre.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION COUNCIL MET

The annual convention of the religious Education Council, which embraces Stirling, Rawdon and Marmora townships was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, on the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, Oct. 15th, when representatives were present from the fifteen Sabbath Schools in the district. The afternoon session was opened at two p.m. with a short devotional period, conducted by Rev. E. W. Rowland of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling. Mr. Robt. Eggleston, Sunday School Supt. of St. Andrew's Church, then welcomed the many guests on behalf of all the governing bodies of the church, and particularly the Sabbath School teaching staff. Mr. W. J. Johnston, in the president's address expressed his great pleasure at seeing such a large representation on hand. Pleading reports were given by the following officers:

Children's Work — Miss McComb.
Young People's Work — Mrs. Thos. McMullen.

Missionary — Mrs. W. J. Sharpe.
Temperance — Mr. E. Searles.

Reports on the work done in the Dept. of Girls' Work; Adult Division; and Home Religion were read by the secretary in the absence of the Superintendents. The report of the Teachers' Training Division was the only one that was incomplete. Mr. Arthur Duncan then favoured the gathering with a tenor solo "Abide with Me" (by Malloy), with Mrs. R. J. Koffend at the organ. Following the offering was a report of the Library Committee given by Mr. Fred Hulin, Superintendent of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling. There was a very interesting Round Table Conference to deal with the difficulties encountered in the working of the various Department leaders, under the direction of Rev. R. R. Elliott, of South Cayuga. Provincial representative of the Central governing body at Toronto.

The afternoon session was brought to a close by Rev. H. H. Lackie and the gathering retired to the church parlours for the splendid supper arranged by the ladies of St. Andrew's Church and some of the senior members of the Sunday School.

Promptly at 8 p.m. the evening session of the Conference was opened with a devotional period conducted by Rev. A. S. McConnell of St. John's Anglican Church, of Stirling. The report of the nominating Committee, which was composed of the Sunday school superintendents and ministers of the various churches represented was followed by the election of the following officers for the coming year.

Hon. Pres. — Mr. J. F. Baker, of Bonarlaw.

President — Mr. W. J. Johnston, Harold.

Vice — Mrs. W. J. Coitrell, Marmora.

Secretary-Treasurer — Mrs. Hiram Mumby, Springbrook.

Department Superintendents

Children's Work — Mrs. S. J. Elliott.

Boys' Work — Rev. H. H. Lackie.

Girls' Work — Miss Lulu Johnston.

Young People's Work — Mrs. T. McMullen.

Adult Division — Rev. H. W. Foley.

Dept. of Home Religion — Mrs. W. G. Swayne.

Teachers' Training — Rev. J. A. Koffend.

Missionary — Mr. L. Meiklejohn.

Temperance — Mr. E. Searles.

The very impressive ceremony of the installation of officers was performed by Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth, after which Mr. Arthur Duncan offered a solo "I Heard the Voice" (by Gounod). Mr. J. F. Baker was then called upon to present the Association Banner to the school gaining the greatest number of points in the general proficiency test. St. Paul's Sunday school year and Supt. F. T. Hulin received the Banner. The gathering then officially accepted an invitation to hold the 1936 Conference at Rylestone. Mr. Eric Cappel sang in a very pleasing manner at this point in the program "I Remember Calvary."

Following a few minor matters of business, the President introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. R. R. Elliott of South Cayuga, Provincial representative of the Ontario Religious Council, who delivered a fine address on this branch of church work. "Our Branch of this great work is today meeting with the greatest opposition it ever did because our system of teaching is being copied and adopted in other religions. Leaders of Buddhism and other sects are ordered to take courses in Christianity, not to become Christian, but merely to study the system," said Mr. Elliott.

Rev. Elgie Joblin, son of the former minister of the Rawdon circuit of the United Church, closed this meeting and the 1935 Conference of the Stirling, Rawdon and Marmora Township Education Council with prayer. Mrs. R. H. Williams presided at the organ for the evening session.

LEGION CARNIVAL

With about four minutes to play, Whithing McDonnell squirmed thru' the Marmora defence, twisted out of the clutches of all opposing players and scampered over the line for his second touch of the game, amid the jubilation encouragement of both team-mates and supporters. THE DIVORCE COURT MURDER

by MILTON PROPPER

FINAL INSTALMENT

SYNOPSIS

Barbara Keith, wife of a prominent Philadelphia business man, is murdered as she waits alone in a side room to testify in the divorce case of Rowland vs. Rowland. She was to have testified for the husband, a friend, who was defendant in the action. Detective Tommy Rankin is assigned to the case from police headquarters. His preliminary investigation disclosed that both Mr. and Mrs. Rowland had gathered evidence against the other of infidelity. The will of Mrs. Rowland's first husband directed her lawyer brother, Mr. Willard, to handle the estate until she remarried when the new husband was to come into control. Detective Rankin finds motives and the evidence of guilt for the murder of Mrs. Keith, leading to the doors of virtually all the principals involved. These principals are the two Rowlands, Mr. Willard, Mr. Keith, husband of the murdered woman, Hugh Campbell, paragon of Mrs. Rowland, and his underworld confederates.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The man who came to the door was an easily recognizable, albeit older edition, of the marine's portrait in Washington. The passage of time had served only to improve his appearance; broad and tall, six years had filled out the gangling frame Ellen Trent once described, into an enviable perfect physique. His dark hair had been bleached, and was now blond and curly, but his handsome, broad features remained the same.

For an instant he was so startled by Rankin's appearance that he dropped his guard. His mask off, an ugly light of fury flashed across his face; and his lips drew into a snarl. Both were swiftly gone, however, before the detective could be certain of them.

Rankin began facetiously. "Mr. Seymour King, I believe," he greeted him. "I'm lucky to find you in; and I must apologize for my intrusion at this late hour."

The other frowned, then forced a smile that developed into a hollow laugh.

"Mr. King," he repeated. "Yes of course, that's how I rented the apartment, so my wife wouldn't find out about it or trace me. But come in, Rankin. To what do I owe the honour of this visit?"

Rankin stepped inside the door, careful, however, not to close it.

"You use a good many names, don't you, Rowland?" His voice developed a steel edge. "Perhaps you'd prefer to be called Fred Dennis or Steve Harmon."

His quarry turned white, fear mingling with anger at this provocative onset. He retreated, his eyes glaring it was all he could do to control the savagery that crept into his voice. "What do you mean, Rankin?" he demanded furiously. "I never heard of them. I don't know what you're talking about and neither do you."

"Oh, you understand me all right," the detective returned evenly. "You've been many places and tried your hand at many jobs, besides being a life-guard at Miami and a movie extra in Hollywood. A marine on the U.S.S. Wyoming, for instance, who deserted, and a burglar in Fort Wayne. And you know Ellen Trent there. I should have connected the sort of roving life you led before your marriage with your activities in Indiana."

Allen Rowland clenched his fists. "You must be crazy, Rankin," he cried; his alarm betrayed the truth of the accusations. "You had better be careful; if you've come here to insult me, I advise you to get out!"

Instinctively the detective's muscles tensed as though preparing for an attack.

"I'd stay where I am if I were you," he warned him ominously. He dug his hands into his pockets. "I have a warrant for your arrest for the murder of Barbara Keith. Allen Rowland alias Fred Dennis alias Steve Harmon. And I caution you that anything you say — Stand back there Rowland!"

Simultaneously with his shouted admonition; he leaped back, ducking to the door; and from his coat came the staccato bark of a revolver. Physically no match for Rowland, he moved just in time to escape his half-anticipated forward lunge. His assailant had sprung with huge, muscular arms outstretched to pin Rankin to his side and bear him down by sheer weight. The bullet caught him in mid-leap; halted by the shock, he dropped to his knees with a groan and clapped his left hand to his right shoulder. Blood spurted between his fingers and an expression of astonishment on his face gave swift place to one of agony.

"Damn you, Rankin!" he ground out with an effort, through clenched teeth.

"You asked for it, Rowland," Rankin said heartlessly. "I warned you I had you covered; you won't escape this time as easily as you did from the American Express office and the Stager House in Fort Wayne. Now perhaps you'll behave yourself."

He turned to the two officers who had rushed hastily from the corridor at the shot and pushed their way into the apartment anxious and alert.

"It's all over but the shouting, boys," he reassured them. "I don't believe there will be any more trouble. . . . You can take him along as soon as I put these irons on him. And see that his wound is treated at headquarters immediately."

He first permitted his prisoner enough time to tie a handkerchief about his shoulder. Then he produced the handcuffs; and disregarding Rowland's stream of oaths and abuse, the policemen held him, while Rankin clicked them on his wrists.

As Rankin followed his prisoner to City Hall, he was quite satisfied with the accuracy of his solution and his ability to establish his guilt.

Mortimer Keith shook his head slowly, with the bewildered air of one who cannot grasp a fact presented to him.

"It's utterly beyond me, Rankin," he protested uncertainly, "to understand how Rowland could be Barbara's murderer. They were in love with each other; everything indicated that they were having an affair and that, a look of anguish came into his eyes and his voice dropped, 'she was his mistress.'"

The detective waved his hand positively. "That's just the point, Mr. Keith," he contradicted "they were nothing of the sort. I've already told you why they hated each other; from the very beginning they were enemies."

"But what of their friendship in Florida, and Barbara's many contacts with him since?" the manufacturer inquired. She did go with him to that bedroom at Sunset Inn, and two weeks ago helped him obtain evidence of Mrs. Rowland's infidelity. And she was willing to testify at the hearing."

"Yes, that is how it all looked and what Rowland doubtless intended. There were two possible reasons to account for Mrs. Keith's willingness; one, a very real dread. Like you, I was misled by the obvious belief that there was some intimacy between them."

For a moment the other covered his face with his hands. "Poor Barbara," he murmured sadly, "she must have suffered much from him. If she had only chosen to confide in me, instead of keeping her story a secret. I'm afraid I have been most unjust to her."

It was two days after Allen Rowland's arrest that Rankin visited Mr. Keith to discuss with him the ultimate solution to his wife's death. The two men sat in the manufacturer's office.

Rankin lit a cigarette. "The development of the crime is quite plain," he related, "if you follow it in proper sequence. From the time Rowland — or Dennis, as he was then — escaped from Fort Wayne, and Miss Webb was arrested, they never crossed each other's paths until two years ago."

"And when did you first discover Allen Rowland was the man you were after?" Mr. Keith queried.

"Not until I recognized his photo in Dennis's service record in Washington — the picture of him in the marines as Steve Harmon," the detective answered. "The description I had of him didn't put me on his trail, despite its similarity to Rowland. Dennis was thin and had dark hair. In the last six years he had filled out, with a really fine physique and had bleached his hair. Still, even without the photo, I would have discovered his identity when I got around to comparing his finger-prints, with those I had collected back here."

"I suppose there's no doubt you'll make a successful case against him?"

"Oh, no, a conviction is practically certain," Rankin said firmly. "You see," he proceeded, "the most elusive factor in the evidence against him was that of motive; incidentally, it was his second protection against being suspected. His apparent relations with Mrs. Keith let him out completely. As her lover and protector, he would have no reason to harm her; and all his actions seemed to clear him, as being sincere and really devoted. But now that Rowland is revealed as Dennis, it is easy to establish the true situation and his motive for the crime. And there'll be no difficulty about the question of opportunity, either. More than likely, we'll manage to trace to his possession some of the money she paid him and that will prove him a black-mailer. And to top it all, he left his finger-prints in Dr. Brantman's office, on the bottle from which he stole the chloroform for the murder."

The manufacturer nodded. "Yes, that clinches the case, I should say."

But what about the others, Rankin? What do you expect to do with Campbell, for instance?"

In reply, Rankin frowned and shook his head in exasperation. "That is a big disappointment to me, I'll admit, Mr. Keith; I had counted on a really big killing in convicting such a notoriously successful criminal. But he had no connection with your wife's death. And since Riley was silenced, I can't establish his conspiracy to kidnap her. He acknowledged that to me, but without witnesses, so I can't use it in court. And Mrs. Rowland's purchase of chloroform for that purpose isn't sufficient evidence either since Mitch never had a chance to administer it. So I'm afraid I'll have to release him, unless Gurck confesses to being hired to kill Riley. And that's hardly likely, even when we lay hands on him; he'll have an alibi a mile long and we'll never bring that crime home to anyone."

"And Mrs. Rowland and Mr. Willard?" Mr. Keith pursued. "Will you take action against them?"

"The D. A. will have to decide whether to disbar Willard for malpractice and his part in framing the divorce," Rankin shrugged. "It isn't the kind of offense about which I can do anything. For the same reason, they and Campbell will go scot-free; actually, they weren't involved in the murder, and I can't prove their kidnapping plan. I could hold Miss Edmund, for threatening to blackmail you, if you didn't mind the fresh publicity and the entanglement of Mrs. Keith's name in that mess at Sunset Inn. But if you refuse to prosecute . . ."

"Oh, no, Rankin," the other raised his hands in quick protest. "I prefer to let that business quite alone. Whatever her reason, she prevented Barbara from being co-responsible in Mrs. Rowland's divorce suit. For those services I was willing to pay."

A sardonic smile played on the detective's lips, but he nodded understandingly.

"There you see why the police have such a hard time bringing culprits to justice," he commented. The smile changed to one of satisfaction. "Still, come to think of it," he concluded, "Adele Rowland and Harvey Willard won't go altogether unpunished. She has no genuine grounds for her suit, which means it will be refused. She'll still be tied to Rowland, and unable to marry the man she happens to fancy at the present time. And Campbell won't get his hands on her fortune. At least not yet; later, she may be divorced on the legal basis that Allen Rowland is a convicted criminal. But that won't happen in time to save Willard from financial ruin and his assets from his creditors." He sniffed contemptuously. "That's very little consolation for you, I realize, Mr. Keith. But I'm human enough to derive a decided pleasure out of any misfortune they may have; they played a despicable game and don't deserve anything better."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SHADOW SHOOTING

Experiment a little with shadow effects. You'll enjoy it.

DID you ever snap shadow pictures? If you haven't you have missed a lot of fun and failed to get some grotesque but fascinating pictures to add interest to your snapshot collection.

Shadow pictures are easy to make, too. The main requisite is a good, strong sun in the late afternoon or early morning. Late afternoon, perhaps fifteen or twenty minutes before the sun starts gradually to disappear below the horizon, is preferable, for your light is usually stronger at this time and casts deeper and sharper shadows.

The two pictures above are only a couple of examples of the many unusual pictures to be taken with the aid of a strong sun. The picture to the right was the result of an alert amateur's "nose for pictures." As he started down the steps of the elevated train platform—with his always ready camera—says he: "Here is a picture!" so hurriedly set the diaphragm at f.11 and shutter speed at 1/25 of a second and snap—he had a fine shadow picture. As the man at the bottom of the steps was walking away from the camera a shutter speed of 1/25 of a second was fast enough to stop action and still give the proper exposure.

Obviously the picture to the left was posed but it shows further possibilities for taking unusual shadow pictures. An ideal place for taking shadow pictures is on light colored ground; the cement sidewalk, the street or better yet—on beaches where the light sand accentuates the dark body and outline of the shadow.

You can also get unusual shadow pictures by standing so that your shadow is cast on the side of a building or a house.

Here's one thing to remember. If you take pictures with the shadow cast on a light colored surface the exposure should not be as long as that used in taking pictures with the shadows cast on a dark background. In other words you make your exposure for shadow pictures but little longer than you would for an ordinary snapshot with the same lighting conditions.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH HOLMES FETED WEDNESDAY NIGHT

(Received too late for last week)

Mount Pleasant Church Hall was the scene of a very happy gathering on Wednesday evening, when a large number of folk from the surrounding community as well as several visitors from Latta, Stirling and Carmel gathered to pay homage to one of our popular boys in the person of Mr. Kenneth Holmes and his bride (nee Eva Chambers). Rev. James Beckel was chairman for the occasion and complimented the folks at Mount Pleasant on their hall as this was the first gathering held in it since his arrival on the circuit. The Misses Muriel Milligan and Edna Thrasher, with Mrs. R. Hoard at the piano, led in a round of community singing. Mr. Ira David rendered a piano solo and Miss Thrasher read a selection entitled "How to Keep Husbands Tender and Good". Short speeches of best wishes were given by Mr. James Sharp, Mr. Wilbert Hagerman, Mr. Frank Hutchinson, Mr. Ed. Pyear and Mr. Clifford Holmes. All wished the newlyweds much happiness and Mr. Pyear told a couple of humorous stories. Miss Marguerite White sang a vocal solo "Down by the Brook". Miss Frances McKeown gave a piano solo "Sweet Kiss Polka". The bride (who looked charming in her wedding gown), and the groom, were then given seats of honour at the front of the hall and Mr. John Coggins read the following address. At the close, Mr. Frank Smith rolled the curtain and revealed a lovely upholstered bed couch, an electric floor lamp and a fernery, from the community; also a couple of lovely pieces of china from friends. Ken and Eva both suitably replied, thanking their friends for the lovely gifts, and inviting everyone to visit them in their new home. All joined in singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows." At the close of this short programme a delicious lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee was served. Following is the address:

Mount Pleasant,
 October 9th, 1935

Dear Eva and Kenneth,—

We, your friends and neighbours, have gathered tonight to express our good wishes and congratulations on your recent marriage. We are glad to know that you are going to remain among us, Kenneth. We have known you since childhood and have always found you ready to help in any church or community enterprise. Neither Eva are you a stranger to us, as we have enjoyed many times your musical ability during your stay with us this summer, and now, we are glad to welcome you permanently to our midst. Every neighbourhood feels they must offer all newlyweds some advice. May we express ours in these verses: Now with yourselves your joys will rest,
 We hope they'll not be few,
 When many years have rolled around
 With pleasure you'll review
 The marriage vows and sacred ties
 Your hearts with joy do bind,
 And as each anniversary comes
 Your lives be more entwined.
 To you how bright the future looms
 What prospects are in view,
 And may they all be realized
 In our best wish for you.
 We wish you every happiness,
 In this your married life,
 And may your days be full of bliss
 As husband and as wife.
 And now we ask you to accept these gifts.
 May they ever serve to remind
 You of your friends here at Mount Pleasant.
 Signed on behalf of the community:

Don Campbell, Frank Jeffs, Frank Smith, Ed. McKeown, John Coggins, Percy MacMullen.

RAISING LILIES FROM SEED

If a greenhouse is not available, seeds of lilies may be sown in pots or in cold frames late in the fall and left outdoors all winter. This method is suitable for districts where heavy snow falls early and remains all winter. It is the method used at the Central Experimental Farm for such species as L. ambigua, L. concolor, L. Davidi, L. Henryi, L. regale, L. tenuifolium and L. Willmotiae. In districts where the winter is very severe and the covering of snow is uncertain as well as in districts where the winter is milder and thaws are frequent, it would be advisable to keep the seed in a cool place until spring and then sow it in a cold frame.

The case was investigated by the R.C.M.P. and Provincial Constable Price Morris, who found a still in operation on Monntney's premises, they testified in open court. The still was confiscated by the authorities.

GOD'S CARE

How sweet it is to feel ourselves,
 Wrapped round by God's most tender care.
 To know whatever sorrow comes
 His everlasting arms are there.
 He needs the little sparrow's fall,
 Our very hairs are numbered too;
 Such loving thought of things so small,
 Should fix our trust in Him more true.
 His promise stands forever sure,
 He'll help us all the way we go;
 When passing through the waters deep
 The rivers shall not us o'erflow.
 We need not undertake to live
 Without His help a single day.
 His strength and grace He'll freely give,
 And help us all along the way.
 The greatest work that we perform,
 Our little tasks however small,
 Are not beneath the great concern
 Of Him who needs the sparrow's fall.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD THAT THIRD DIMENSION

How many times have you heard the expression "Don't take a picture with your camera facing the sun"? It's one of the old beliefs in amateur photography that has been handed down from year to year to every new snapshotter.

While this is good advice for the beginner it is not necessary to forever abide by this rule. Those of us who like to try breaking such rules have found that most of the work of which we are proud has been produced under other lightings. The important thing to remember is that you must never stand so that sunlight will strike into the lens.

The lighting of the subject has much to do with securing that quality sometimes called "atmosphere" in a picture. There are a number of ways in which a photograph may be given apparent depth or "third dimension." Taking the picture when there are long shadows, getting a reflection in the foreground, using strong sidelighting or back-lighting, and timing the exposure just right so that the detail of objects in shadow is not blocked out, are precautions that contribute to the desired effect. Let us consider each of these separately.

Shadows, thrown in long drawn-out spots across walls and walks, more than anything else make one feel that he is "looking into" a picture instead of "looking on" a flat piece of paper carrying the images of the objects recorded.

The foreground should be well broken up with shadows so that there is not too much contrast between it and the rest of the picture.

When a body of water can be included as a part of the foreground, then there are wonderful opportunities for adding depth. The reflection will carry the foreground—into the picture—and lead to the principal point of composition. Reflections often serve as an avenue to lead back from the foreground of a setting. The only precaution necessary when dealing with a water foreground in strong sunlight is to watch that a swell or wave does not throw reflected light sparkles upon the lens, as that may fog the picture.

Side-lighting, where the source of illumination comes from the side of the object or scene, and back-lighting, where the light comes from the rear, are not difficult to handle if the lens is protected from the light coming toward it. Shade the lens with the hand, or stand in the protecting shadow of a tree to make the exposure. Also, you should time the exposure more for the parts in shadow than for those that are high-lighted.

Don't be discouraged if you fail to get the desired appearance of depth or "third dimension" in your first attempt. If at first you don't succeed watch for your contrasts and shadows and try, try again.

MISSION AT ST. JAMES'

A Mission will open in St. James' Church, Stirling, next Sunday, October 20th, and will be conducted by two Redemptorist Fathers. Services will be held morning and evening.

ACCEPTS POSITION

From the Rochester, N.Y., Democrat and Chronicle, of Sept. 22nd, we learn that Miss Evelyn Mary McCann, of Hornell, N.Y., has been appointed to the staff of the Eastman School of Music, as teacher of piano. Miss McCann is well equipped for this position. She obtained her B.A. and M.A. degrees at the Eastman School of Music. Then she studied for two years at the Julliard School in New York City, under the famous pianist, Ernest Hutcheson. Returning to Rochester, she last year was a faculty member of the Hochschule School of Music, and organist of the First Reformed Church. This latter position she retains, along with her new duties at Eastman's. Miss McCann is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McCann, Hornell, N.Y., and a niece of Miss C. McCann of this village.

LIBERALS LEAD RIDINGS

votes. This is the first time since the constituency was established in 1924 that it has been in the Liberal Field. East Peterborough had been more consistently Conservative for more than a generation, excepting a period of defection when it had fallen in with the Progressive uprising in 1921. And the Hastings section had been more staunchly Tory for even a longer period.

Rolling up a majority in the Peterborough Section of the riding, Ferguson was never headed despite an adverse vote in the southern part of Hastings. In the northern part of Hastings, Gunter, the Reconstructionist, made strong inroads into former majorities held by the Conservative and this ensured the election of Ferguson.

The complete vote in the riding of Prince Edward-Lennox gives George J. Tustin, Conservative, Napanee, 7,415 votes; James W. Clarke, Liberal, Napanee, 6,787, and Garnet Taylor, Reconstructionist, Bloomfield, 808. Tustin's plurality was 628. In Northumberland, W. A. Fraser, Liberal, was re-elected with a majority of about 1769 over Major Belford. In Peterborough West J. J. Duffas, Liberal, carried the seat by 567 votes. Kingston City elected Prof. Norman Rogers, Liberal. Frontenac-Addington elected Colin Campbell, Liberal.

THROUGH THE OFFICE WINDOW

BY
The

Howdy gang!

Off again — where to doesn't matter much, as long as we get going!

Or maybe we're wrong — perhaps it does matter too!

Anyway, last week was just one of them weeks!

Week in and week out — every Thursday — and mostly all the weeks lately have had a Thursday, we're supposed to fling this mess of hash in between the column rules and help fill up page eight.

Most weeks the folks that take time to read what's been cooked up and served out by the Office Owl are very generous in their complimentary remarks — stating that they enjoyed the stuff, or else saying that they didn't enjoy it.

Occasionally we strike a week when several find things they do not just agree with (which can certainly be expected by the writer), and may it be spake right out loud here and now — we are glad to have our mistakes pointed out so that we can correct them.

Then too, once in a great while, we have complaints about things being said or written that we both stated and wrote with absolutely no intention of expressing in a manner which would be offensive to anyone.

And as we said before — last week was one of them there weeks!

In one connection we mentioned about twenty-five names of different men around town, (most of whom have at some time or other been mentioned in this column previous to last week's issue) and so far as what they intended to do on election day — or another day — we knew absolutely nothing — and cared less.

With the exception of Henry Wallace, we weren't absolutely sure that any one of the whole twenty-five was going to vote Communist.

Yes Sir! Henry's the only one we were sure of!

We didn't mention Bob Patterson, because we knew perfectly well that Bob wanted to support Agnes McPhail, only she didn't run in this riding. So we didn't dare mention her nor Bob.

We didn't mention Tom Montgomery, knowing that Tom was a good Grit and working hard at it!

We took it upon ourselves to accuse Jim Lagrow of supporting Gunter and the Reconstruction Ticket and we've found out since that Jim voted straight U. F. O., and enjoyed it!

So you can easily see just how sure we weren't about the rest of them!

But, although we're making absolutely no attempt to write an apology, we are interested in trying to write an explanation — if one is needed.

And —

Oh! Oh! We knew it! We've got just far enough that we feel a verse coming on!

Well, just as we promised in last week's edition — They had an election — Quite true to tradition. And the night the returns were brought in by wire Everybody was here To see what did transpire.

And down at the rink There was hurry and bustle For all to get in and See who won the tussle. But it wasn't 'til late That the numbers were seen, And that Pat Scollie flashed 'em Out plain on the screen.

But listen, youse guys, As the evening progressed, And then word started coming From East and from West, Things got pretty blue For some of the crowd, And their faces showed sorrow And pain 't's allowed.

And as the words came That Bennett was sinkin' Lots of Tories for home And their beds started slinkin', But the Grits they felt grand, And their friends they did chide, As vainly the losers Their faces did hide.

Harry Hulin was grinnin' 'n' Ticked all over, As he heard that the Grits Drove the Tories to cover. So him and Frank Woodbeck Went searching around And picked up Ernie Saries, And b'gosh, what they found

Made all of them fess! Like they'd done something wrong. For they found Tom Montgomery Crying loud, crying long, And beside him Bill Anderson Was expressing his sorrow, And from Harry he Did his handkerchief borrow.

Well, Jimmy Lagrow (He was also a winner) Why he found Henry Wallace, Lookin' pale, and much thinner, And with him with tears Streaming down his left cheek Jim found Billy Whitty A'lookin' quite meek.

George Thompson, he too Was in terrible shape, And doin' his darndest Lest the tears should escape, As on Mel Fitzgerald's shoulder He painfully leaned, And down poor Mel's back Tear-drops trickled and streamed.

Delby Utman, b'gorrah, (As proud as could be) Stuck his chest away out, As the results he would see, And young Alex Park Could not restrain his pride, As he found that for once He was on the right side.

Roger Melkielejohn too Was laughin' and gay, As he found that the ballots Were going his way. As he looked on with joy (Not an eyelash was battin') There were smiles on the map Of our good friend Sam Hatton.

Jack Butler he stood With a look of content As up to the head His candidate went, And right at his side Feeling cause for regret— There stood "Skinner" Smith — And his cheeks too, were wet.

Bob Patterson, too Was a pure sight of pity, And he hummed 'neath his breath A most mournful wee ditty. By the look of despair One could certainly note, It was easy to tell That poor Bob lost his vote.

HIGH - FIDELITY - SOUND

And on into the night
King was gainin' on Bennett — Till Bill Anderson says:
'I'll be sick in a minute
Unless I get out
For I just hate to see
How the country's a-headin'
For a catastrophe"

So that's how it went
As the men and the women,
Heard how King was victorious
From end to beginnin'
And on into the night
As they patiently stood,
Some folks thought it was bad —
Others thought it was good.

But before we this mess
Should bring to a close,
We just want to say,
(And we think that we know)
No one should feel bad —
Not a sister or brother,
For of parties we see —
One's as bad as the other!

We feel a lot better with that off our chest!

We were of the opinion that this summer had been plenty hot, and we still think it was warm enough in most sections of this district, but —

It must have been hotter in some sections than it was in others.

The other day Acile Reid produced for our inspection a cob of pop corn that was well matured, and looked perfectly normal in nearly all respects —

Except for one thing —

About one-third of the kernels were popped right open, just as though they had been held over the stove!

We asked how he had come to notice this unusual corn, and our informant advised us that late in the summer he would hear occasional noises that sounded as if some of the neighbours were taking pot-shots at his turkeys with with a small-size revolver!

And it's been nothing else but them kernels breaking open with the heat!

The other day a bunch of geuts happened to be talking in this office about who had the best head of hair for their age, and one thing brought on another until one of them happened to mention that the former Editor didn't have much of his original top-not left.

Well, Fred Mallory, who generally tries to pass things off as gently as possible, said that you couldn't expect to see much hair there because of the amount of action taking place directly beneath the growing surface.

For some reason everybody laughed.

And then Tommy Solmes chirps up and remarks that he believed the reason Dobbie had such a light crop of hair was that his folks patted him on the head so much for being a good boy.

Then they all left!

Well, about this time of year folks have formed a habit of digging their potatoes — be they right or wrong, they dig 'em just the same.

And one local resident thinks that if people have their minds all made up to dig their potatoes, why, there just ain't no stopping them!

But one reader of this column sends us in a report that a certain piece of ground in the rear of their property (but which had never seen a potato or anything that even bore any resemblance to one) — was one day recently discovered to be in possession of as fine a crop of tops as any market-garden in this district ever produced.

The owner of the plot never has had any faith in AEsop's Fairy Tales, or hasn't yet figured out how in heck Jack ever climbed that Beanstalk, but still had enough faith in Nature to believe that tops couldn't spring up without a potato or two.

Nevertheless — not a single potato was to be found.

And it's not very nice for any neighbour to throw the tops over in somebody else's yard without throwing the potatoes with them!

We'll be seein' yuh!

ANNIVERSARY AT ST. PAUL'S

Rev. Dr. J. R. Watts, Kingston, Special
Speaker for Occasion

On Sunday and Monday, October 20th and 21st, the congregation of St. Paul's United Church observed their anniversary occasion. The day was fair and beautiful and long before the hour of service cars were gathering, many from a distance, with their eager passengers, to the place of public worship. The large auditorium and gallery were filled to capacity and it was an inspiring sight to see such a large company who had come to sing praises in the house of their fathers' God.

We were most fortunate in having again this year as our guest speaker Rev. Dr. J. R. Watts, of Kingston. The preacher was heard to good advantage and it was a blessing and a joy to sit at the feet of this gifted servant of God to be fed with the manna which cometh down from Heaven.

In the morning Dr. Watts took for his theme "The Things that Abide Forever". His lucid and convincing style in presenting great truths won and held the interest of his hearers made us feel the importance of building on the solid rock which cannot be shaken by wind or rain or tempest. The choir, under the guidance of Mr. G. L. Clute rendered two splendid selections "Great and Marvelous" and "Come Holy Spirit", with Miss Grace Pittman capably presiding at the organ.

In the evening every available seat was taken and it was evident that the people were anxious to again hear Dr. Watts. His subject was the "Parable of the Good Samaritan, or the Parable of the Road". We meet all sorts of people on "The Road" and we will surely meet the man who by his foolishness or stupidity, or in the hurry of things, fell among thieves. It is Christlike to be merciful, kind and thoughtful at a risk. How many of us are prepared to be good at a risk. Christ stood in exposed places for our sakes and all His true followers will follow their Master in danger. The choir at night sang "I Love the Lord" and "In the Cross of Christ I Glory".

On Monday evening the ladies of the congregation served an anniversary dinner, beginning promptly at six o'clock. Nearly 500 sat down to tables that were loaded with good things to eat and all were satisfied that they got "their money's worth". The ladies were thoroughly organized and carried out their difficult task with courtesy and despatch. The young ladies of the church deserve much credit for the efficient manner in which they waited on the tables.

After all were served a program of merit was given in the auditorium. A large number remained for the entertainment and were delighted with every number. Those taking part were members of the choir, Miss Dorothy Sager, Miss M. Carmichael, Miss

OPENS GAS STATION

Mr. Gordon Cottam has taken over the premises on North St. formerly occupied by Mr. Jack Bailey, where he will conduct a gas and oil station, and will be welcomed in the business field in the village.

VISITED PICTON

A number of the officers and members of the Men's Club of St. John's Anglican Church, together with Rev. A. S. McConnell, rector, attended the annual meeting of the Laymen's Association of Kingston Diocese, held at Picton last (Wednesday) night. A banquet was served and those present from here report a splendid meeting.

CAR DAMAGED

Dr. E. A. Carleton had his McLaughlin-Buick sedan considerably damaged when a heavy transport crashed into the front of it in Belleville on Tuesday night of this week. The doctor had parked his car on Pinnacle St. and during his absence an operator of the truck detached the tractor from his truck which rolled backwards against the car, breaking the lenses of both headlights, as well as damaging the fenders and the shell of the radiator.

A. Y. P. A.

A combined meeting of St. John's A.Y.P.A. and Trinity Church A.Y.P.A. was held in the Parish Hall, Frankford, on Friday, October 18th. The meeting opened with a hymn followed by prayer. Business of both branches was discussed and it was decided to hold a Halloween masquerade on Nov. 1st, in the Parish Hall.

The programme was in charge of St. John's A.Y.P.A. Miss Alice Calow gave a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Alger at the piano. Miss Louie Paires gave a very interesting talk on Ethiopia. Mr. Fred Houchin favoured the audience with a solo. Contests which were enjoyed by all, brought the evening to a close. Dancing was enjoyed by all, after which Frankford A.Y.P.A. served a dainty lunch. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

Using a shot gun instead of confetti for charitable purposes was the cause of Raymond Lawrence, Stirling youth, being charged with illegally discharging fire arms. Lawrence appeared in police court at Belleville on Friday, and pleaded guilty to the charge before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C. A suspended sentence of one month, upon the payment of the costs of the proceedings was meted out.

The court case followed the celebration of a recent Madoc wedding, when Lawrence entered upon the spirit of the surroundings and decided a fitting manner to assist the bride and groom upon their forthcoming honeymoon, was to greet them after the ceremony with a hilarious resound of noise. Lawrence appeared outside the church with his trusty shot gun and when the happy couple appeared upon the scene, after the ceremony, he fired the gun off, but unfortunately some of the shots struck the back of the moving automobile in which the newly married couple were riding.

Magistrate Butler today pointed out the possible seriousness of the young man's actions and after a severe reprimand meted out the suspended sentence. — Belleville Ontario

A severe electrical storm, accompanied by a heavy rainfall, passed over this district on Tuesday night. The lightning was very severe, but no damage has been reported. The farmers will be glad of the rainfall, as the soil was very dry and made fall ploughing difficult.

HONOURED BY FRIENDS

On Friday night of last week a large number of the friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jeffrey gathered at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Mumby, Bonarlaw, and showered the young couple with many useful and beautiful gifts. The large house was filled to overflowing and in some of the rooms standing room was at a premium. A short musical program was given, consisting of community singing and vocal selections by Mrs. Francis Jeffrey, Mrs. Clarence McKewen and Mr. J. F. Baker, with Mrs. W. G. Swayne as accompanist.

An address was read by Miss Nellie Webb, expressing the good wishes and congratulations of those gathered together and also the regret that Roma, who has been active in the social life of this community, will be moving away. Both Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey replied with short but appropriate speeches, expressing their thanks for the beautiful gifts and inviting their many friends to visit them in their new home. All sang "For they are Jolly Good Fellows" and gave them three hearty cheers and a tiger. Rev. Canon Swayne, Rev. H. W. Foley, Mrs. (Rev.) Foley and Mr. J. F. Baker gave short addresses, expressing their regret at losing Mrs. Jeffrey from this community, and wishing the bride and groom much happiness. A bountiful lunch was served by the ladies. The following is the address: Bonarlaw, Ontario, October 18th, 1935

Dear Roma and Clarence,—
We, your friends and neighbours, have gathered here this evening to express our good wishes and congratulations for your future happiness and spend a social evening with you before going to your new home. We feel we could not let you go without showing in some measure the esteem in which you are held by one and all. We have known you, Roma, all your life, and we shall miss you greatly in our community. You have always been

FAIR BOARD MET

A meeting of the directors of the Stirling Agricultural Society was held in the Agricultural Rooms, on Thursday night with a large attendance, and President Ed. Pyear in the chair.

Mr. J. E. O'Donnell, secretary, gave a lengthy report of the receipts and expenditures in connection with the fair held last month. According to the report the fair enjoyed a somewhat larger patronage than it has had for some years, and the number of exhibits and prizes given was particularly large, practically every section of the prize list being filled. The proceeds of the fair were sufficient to permit the payment of all prize money in full as well as all other expenses in connection with the event.

The balance of the meeting was devoted to ways and means of raising money to pay the outstanding debt against the society. Various suggestions were offered by the directors and a number of committees were appointed to investigate and plan for carrying out of several of the suggestions offered. The unanimous opinion of the directors present was that this year's fair was the best for some time and with the spirit of enthusiasm now prevailing among the directors the prospects are that next year's fair will be even better.

Those present at the meeting were Messrs. Ed. Pyear, J. E. O'Donnell, H. P. Ellis, Thos. Montgomery, Wm. Fitchett, Gilbert Thompson, Wm. Patterson, H. R. Tompkins, C. F. Linn, F. R. Mallory, J. B. Thompson, M. Sino, C. U. Heath and F. Blacker.

LOCAL LIBRARY GETS PORTRAIT

In Connection with Celebration of One Hundredth Anniversary

Word has been received that the Carnegie portrait, shown elsewhere on this page is to be presented to the local library in connection with the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Andrew Carnegie on November 25th.

The Stirling Public Library, one of the finest to be found in Eastern Ontario, has been the recipient of grants from the Carnegie fund, and is fitting that this portrait of one who was very deeply interested in this line of public education, should be displayed there.

It may be of general interest to residents to know that during the summer many new volumes have been added to the collection of books now on hand for the use of subscribers, and the shelves are heavily burdened with a very fine selection of writings by every known author. No finer form of entertainment can be found than that housed in the Stirling Public Library and it behooves residents of this district to patronize the institution to the utmost extent. The volumes contained in this institution are at all times at the disposal of the students of local schools.

As a part of the Andrew Carnegie centennial celebration, the Carnegie Corporation of New York is presenting to all Carnegie libraries in the United States and the British Dominions and Colonies, a reproduction of a portrait of Andrew Carnegie by Luis Mora, framed for permanent display.

Between 1881, when he built his first library in Dunfermline, Scotland, and 1917, when his library gifts ceased, Carnegie donated 2,811 public libraries in the English-speaking world. Of these 1,946 were built in the United States. Carnegie was born in Dunfermline, November 25th, 1835.

The Ticket Racket

Judging from opinions expressed in a number of the exchanges which come to our desk each week, public opinion is aroused in certain sections of the province over the action of various organizations and individuals flooding the country with raffle tickets on automobiles and other articles. The editor of the Oshawa Times says that "Apart altogether from the fact that in nearly every case these tickets are sent out in violation of the law, people are becoming heartily sick of being deluged with this kind of thing. Organizations of all kinds seem adept at compiling a very extensive mailing list, and even though the tickets are being sent to perfect strangers, out they go. Under this system, it is quite possible for the public to be defrauded. The tickets might be sold and the whole of the money be retained by the sender, and no one would be any the wiser. And neither the parties buying the tickets nor the organization conducting the car raffle would have any recourse to law without being involved in the buying and selling of tickets illegally." The fact that the authorities themselves overlook violations of the law in regard to these drawing tickets is proof in itself of the lack of support for the law among those who placed it on the statute books. If the authorities themselves take no action in the matter, and human nature being what it is, there is little danger of any individual taking action in the matter. Laws placed on the statute books without the support of the public are unenforceable and might just as well be done away with.

Why Not Have A Turkey Fair?

The time is fast approaching when many of the towns and villages throughout the province will be holding the annual turkey (or poultry) fair. Naturally the first question which comes to our mind is "Why doesn't Stirling have a similar event?" Some months ago at a meeting of the local Community Welfare Club the suggestion was made by one of the younger merchants of the village that an effort be made to establish a poultry fair in the village. At that time many favourable comments were voiced by some of the merchants on the suggestion, but so far as we have been able to learn, nothing has been done about it. The writer comes from a village where for years past the annual turkey fair has been an event looked forward to by both the farmers of the community and the merchants of the village — the former because it provides a convenient market for his poultry, and the latter because it means a day of increased business. We well remember before the use of the motor car became so general, of seeing the main streets literally jammed with vehicles while the various buyers moved about examining the poultry, while the farmer and his helpmeet (the latter usually had the most to do and say concerning the poultry) bargained for the best price possible. Tons and tons of poultry were purchased by the various buyers. The advent of the motor car and better roads, which have brought the city markets closer to the farmer, has no doubt lessened the amount of poultry offered for sale at these local events, but there are still many farmers who look to this day as the annual marketing day for their poultry. We see no reason why an event of this kind would not be successful in Stirling. All that is needed is to make arrangements with buyers to be present on a certain date and have the same advertised a sufficient time ahead to the farmers of the community. The poultry fair serves a dual purpose in the community. It provides a home market for the poultry breeders of the district, who in turn will provide an increase in business for the local merchant. Here is an opportunity for the merchants of Stirling to unite in boosting business. Why not embrace the opportunity and make an effort to establish a poultry fair in Stirling?

National Thanksgiving

In view of the advent of Thanksgiving Day in Canada fixed this year for today (Thursday, October 24th), it is interesting to remember that in Canada national Thanksgiving for harvest dates back to remote ages. Long before the white man came to Canada, certain days were set apart for public acknowledgment to the Great Spirit for abundant crops. The aboriginal native of Canada, like the Israelites and other ancient peoples, did not crowd their public thanksgiving into one day, nor did they confine it to one season. Besides the main thanksgiving in late fall or early winter for all crops of the year, there were public ceremonies for thanks for the rising of the maple, for the ripening of fruits and berries, and for the planting and the reaping of corn.

The Huron and Iroquoian nations had at least six major thanksgiving festivals throughout the year, culminating in the one of general appeal. There was a festival of seven days when the corn was planted; another of seven days when the corn was green; a third festival of four days when the corn was harvested, and a fourth, the great mid-winter festival of general thanksgiving. Certain elected officials were placed in charge. They levied contributions of food from each household; they fixed the dates of the ceremonies, and chose the orators to open the proceedings with an appeal to the Great Spirit and a prayer of gratitude to the three sister goddesses, Corn, Beans and Squash.

The Objibwas usually celebrated their "midewiwin" in the season of ripening fruits and berries, while on the Pacific Coast in what is now British Columbia, the coming of the salmon was celebrated in a feast of thanksgiving.

With the wheat ripening early in Palestine, the Israelites celebrated the feast of Pentecost as their harvest festival, and Moses was commanded to appoint and proclaim the days of thanksgiving.

"Three times thou shalt keep a feast unto Me in the year. Thou shalt keep the feast of unleavened bread (seven days) . . . and the feast of harvest, the first fruits of thy labours which thou hast sown in the field, and the feast of ingathering which is in the end of the year, when thou hast gathered in thy labours out of the field. Three times in the year, all the males shall appear before the Lord God."

In ancient Britain the Druids celebrated their thanksgiving for harvest on the 1st day of November, and in later years in Britain in pre-Reformation times, Lammas Day (August 1, Old Style) was observed as the beginning of the harvest thanksgiving, each member of the church presenting a loaf made of the new wheat. The Pilgrim Fathers after their first harvest at Plymouth in 1621 set a day apart for thanksgiving. It was not until 1680 in the Massachusetts colony that the festival became an annual one, Connecticut having previously established the annual observance as early as 1647. In the United States, President Abraham Lincoln appointed the fourth Thursday of November 1864 as thanksgiving day and since that time each succeeding president has adopted the same date. In Canada, with the arrival of the French colonists prior to the founding of New England farther south, the observance of harvest thanksgiving was celebrated according to the rubrics of the church, and in recent years the day of national thanksgiving in Canada has been named by the Dominion Parliament.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Port Hope News says "The greatest need of motorists in Ontario today is the elimination of the 'plus tax' sign at gasoline service stations.

Monday night's rainfall was a welcome one to farmers of this district. The annual fall ploughing has been considerably retarded owing to the lack of moisture in the soil, while numerous wells are also reported as being low.

A sign that times are gradually getting better for the farmer is depicted in the prevailing price of cheese. On Saturday the price offered on the Belleville Board was 11 3-8c which, with the bonus, brings it to 12 5-8c; while a year ago 8 3-4c was the price paid. Twenty years ago 15 3-4c was the prevailing price.

While the mild weather of the past week has not been conducive to thinking of hockey, local fans are again reminded that it will not be long before Canada's national game will hold the spotlight in sport circles. If anything is to be done about having a local team in either junior or intermediate circles, it should be done right away.

After November 1st next female telephone operators throughout the province will be paid wages based on the number of lines operated in the various systems, according to an order from the Minimum Wage Board of the Ontario Government. In small centres where from 50 to 300 lines are operated, the minimum wage is set at $7.00 per week of 48 hours. All time in excess of 48 hours weekly must be paid for at an hourly rate based on the prescribed minimum weekly wage for 48 hours. This legislation will be welcomed by many of the "Hello" girls and will ensure them a standard rate of pay.

are a fairly good market for our manufacturers, also pretty vital for our railways. In the circumstances the shipment of, say 300,000,000 bushels of wheat at a dollar a bushel would put a lot of good cash purchasing power in the hands of our people. It might very well be the thing to completely rout the depression.

COUNTY MANAGER PLAN

(The Winchester Press)
For a long time this paper has believed that the present system of municipal government has been slipping. This is borne out by the fact that it is difficult to get men to fill our public offices. The result is an interested few drag men in off the street and secure their consent to allow themselves to be nominated on condition that they will be elected by acclamation. Then this interested few control Council.

We have upon several occasions placed before our readers a plan of county government in the hope that it would be enlarged upon and adopted at some distant day. That hope is still alive. Indeed it is more than a hope. It is a conviction that the time will arrive when the electors will see the folly of clinging to an outmoded system and is supported by the action of a small army in Monroe County, N. Y., which is collecting signatures to petition for a referendum on November 5th on the question of whether that county shall have a manager form of government designed to eliminate politics and end unwieldy "horse and buggy" administration of finances.

Under the plan county government will be in the hands of a professional director unfettered by politics and who will have direct supervision of tax collections, disbursements, county offices, institutions and the annual budget. He will appoint all county officers with the exception of sheriff, district attorney and county clerk and will fix all salaries of appointive officers, subject to approval of the board.

Further, to remove the possibility of political interference, the county manager will not hold office on sufferance of the board that elects him, but will be named for a four-year term and will be subject to removal only after conviction on definite charges. After that he may forestall removal by an appeal to the courts. He does not necessarily have to be a resident of the county.

All county departments will be consolidated into three branches — public works, finance and public welfare. Appointed department heads will be required to submit regular reports to the manager, who, in turn, will report every four weeks to the supervisors, elected by the various municipalities. He will prepare the annual budget, subject to paring by the board after public hearings. The commissioners will become merely a policy-determining body.

Therefore while the sleeper sleeps in the sleeper the sleeper carries the sleeper over the sleeper under the sleeper until the sleeper which carries the sleeper jumps off the sleeper and wakes the sleeper in the sleeper by striking the sleeper under the sleeper, and there is no longer any sleeper sleeping in the sleeper on the sleeper.

AUTHOR OF GUMPS KILLED IN CRASH

Sidney Smith, '58, widely known newspaper cartoonist, was killed on Sunday when his automobile collided with another car near Harvard, Ill.

He was dead when removed from the wreckage of the automobile, in which he was riding alone, State Policeman Osmir Olson said. The driver of the second car, Wendell Martin of Wetseka, Ill., sustained a broken hip, a fractured jaw, and possible internal injuries. The cars collided head on. Smith was creator of "The Gumps" and "Old Doc Yak."

TURKEYS SCARCE FOR THANKSGIVING

The Thanksgiving turkey, time-honoured symbol of the post-harvest festival, may be a rare bird on Ontario tables next Thursday. Dealers throughout the province are generally agreed turkeys will be scarce because the flocks are not sufficiently developed and the cold storage supply is low.

If a customer really requires a turkey the fowl can be obtained, but he may have to pay around 30 to 35 cents a pound. Quotations on Monday, however, ranged from 24 and 27 cents and it was expected they would jump with the holiday demand.

One Toronto packer said the outlook for Christmas pointed to a plentiful supply of turkeys but geese were the best prospect for Thanksgiving.

A prominent Brantford turkey breeder said three weeks of rain on Manitoulin Island played havoc with turkey flocks and the Thanksgiving price would be 30 cents a pound for cold storage birds and 35 cents for fresh ones. He cited the high cost of feed as another factor contributing to the price increase.

Two Kitchener buyers had widely differing opinions about the turkey question. One said they would be plentiful and cheaper while the other saw a shortage. The first man declared the cold storage supply was plentiful and the price would be around 27 cents a pound. The other one, however, argued the 1935 turkeys, while plentiful, would not be ready for the holiday market.

In Kingston, at the other end of the province, buyers said the present turkey market was quiet. Storage turkeys were well sold out. Abattoir prices were 25 cents a pound while the retail price soared from 30 to 36 cents.

1936 LICENSES ON SALE NOV. 1ST

Hon. T. B. McQueen, announced on Friday that the 1936 registration plates and drivers' permits would be available at the head office of the Motor Vehicles branch, Queen's Park, on November 1st, and that shortly they will be on sale at upwards of 100 points throughout the province.

In explanation of this earlier-than-usual sale, Mr. McQueen said: "The motor car industry and dealers in second-hand cars have for some time been urging on the Department the wisdom of putting motor permits on sale in the fall of the year. One objection has been that the Department has derived some revenue through the sale of part-year licenses. It is felt, however, that it would be a means of stimulating the sale of new cars and assist the second-hand dealers to dispose of their heavy stock of old cars, if they could do so without paying the additional fee required for a part-year license on new cars and a transfer fee in the case of a sale of a second-hand car. By making 1936 motor permits purchasable on the first of November, any purchasers of new cars will save one-half-year's fee. The license obtained in November or December will be good until the end of December, 1936. The two-dollar transfer fee usually charged by the Department on the registration and transfer of the change of ownership of a second-hand car will not be required for the months of November and December, provided the purchaser of the second-hand car elects to secure a new 1936 license."

POULTRY FOR MARKET

(Experimental Farm's Note)

To a great extent the ultimate success of the poultry enterprise will depend greatly on the manner in which the products are marketed. The discriminating customer will be attracted by the well fattened and well-dressed chicken or fowl, and will pay a premium price for appearance as well as quality.

Success in fattening and marketing will depend to a great extent on the operator's knowledge and ability to prepare his product in the most economical and attractive form. Special feeding for ten days to three weeks will greatly improve the quality and pay for the extra feed and labour involved.

Only birds with strong constitutions can stand heavy feeding with limited exercise. Birds that lack vigour seldom make profitable gains in the fattening pens.

A serviceable crate, six feet long, by twenty-four inches wide, and eighteen inches high, may be made from slats nailed one inch apart, with a galvanized pan beneath the slatted floor for the droppings. Partitions two feet apart will provide compartments two feet square, and will accommodate four or five birds according to size.

To ensure freedom from lice, dust the birds with flour of sulphur and create a good appetite by starving for the first twenty-four hours. On the second day give only slight feed and gradually increase the amount until the third day; from then until finished give the birds all they will eat twice daily at regular intervals, about twelve hours apart. Mix to a batter, that will pour slowly from a pail, skim milk or buttermilk with two parts of cornmeal and one part of finely ground oats; or equal parts of barley meal and bolted mashed potatoes may be substituted for the corn meal. Feed in troughs suspended in front of the crate. A good finish should be obtained in ten to twenty-one days. Feed enough to thoroughly satisfy at each meal, but leave nothing over in the troughs to stall the birds. Starve for at least twenty-four hours before killing. Bleed by "sticking" in the roof of the mouth and dry pluck. Grade to uniform size and quality and pack in neat boxes.

Detailed instructions on killing, plucking, and grading may be had free from the Publicity and Extension Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Canadian Blue Grass Seed

The production of this seed in Canada is confined mainly to the counties of Haldimand, Norfolk, Brant and Welland in Ontario where it has been a cash crop for many years. Fair crop of some 90,000 pounds is expected this year but the quality is said to be off due to discoloration and lack of plumpness.

Prices to growers have not yet been established due to uncertainty in the market. A fairly large crop of Kentucky blue grass in the States may prevent much export demand there for our seed. However, the domestic market should be able to absorb the year's production particularly as very little carry over from last year is reported. Prices paid growers for the short crop of 1934 ranged from 12 to 14 cents per pound.

Cheap Feeds for Finishing Poultry

In experiments in crate finishing of poultry, it has been found that buckwheat screenings or standard re-cleaned screenings, a by-product from the grain elevators consisting largely of wild buckwheat and broken wheat, with a small admixture of wild oats, flaxseed and other weed seeds, give excellent results both as to quantity and quality of flesh. It was also shown in these experiments that small unmarketable potatoes may be used to advantage in crate feeding. Fed in conjunction with home-grown grains these potatoes gave as economical gains as corn and produced better colour and finer quality in skin and flesh. The potatoes may be fed either boiled or mashed, or raw and finely chopped, and mixed with the ground grain and milk.

The Potato Crop

Harvesting of the late potato crop commenced about the first of October and has been general since then. The crop suffered severely from drought and the fallure to germinate of a considerable percentage of seed tubers, which had been affected by frost. Both acreage and yield per acre show decreases. The production is estimated at 12,682,000 bushels, as compared with 19,716,000 bushels in 1934, representing a reduction of over seven million bushels. The acreage was decreased by 11 per cent from 164,300 acres to 149,200 acres, and the yield per acre shows a drastic decline, being placed at 85 bushels per acre as against 120 bushels last year. Potatoes in the eastern provinces have also suffered from unfavourable weather conditions, reductions varying from 30 to 40 per cent.

The supply situation may be regarded as distinctly favourable to growers in Ontario. Producers are marketing their crops slowly and preparing to store a greater proportion than usual in the hope of obtaining better prices later on.

Current Crop Report

The Department's current crop report states that though the weather generally was colder in September than usual, late crops continued to develop satisfactorily. Less fall plowing was done than in the ordinary year, as farmers were kept busy threshing their heavy grain crops, and in a number of countries, the soil was too dry in the first half of the month to work easily. The acreage sown to fall wheat shows a sharp decrease from last year due to these same factors, and in Central and Eastern Ontario the disastrous amount of winter-killing experienced in the past two years further tended to restrict the area sown to this crop.

Pastures are reported to be standing up well in most counties and milk flow continues at a level slightly above normal. The total hay crop amounted to 7,182,000 tons as compared with 4,286,500 tons in 1934. The yield of fodder corn is estimated at 9.8 tons per acre, considerably in excess of the yield of 9.2 tons a year ago and total production will amount to 3,173,300 tons as against 2,990,000 tons in 1934. In order to make use of the abundant supply of fodder available farmers are planning to feed a considerably increased number of stockers.

Climate and Sugar Beets

From the data collected during the past twenty years, a good general idea of where sugar beets can be grown successfully has been obtained. Of the two main factors considered, namely soil classification and climatic conditions, the latter appears to be the determining factor for both yield and sugar content. A cool wet spring prevents seed germination and a poor stand is the result. A hot, dry summer retards growth, giving small roots and a low yield, and a cold dull autumn, often with frosts before harvesting, prevents the proper maturing of the beets at a time when sugar formation is taking place. Thus the ideal seasonal conditions are a warm spring with sufficient precipitation to ensure good seed germination, a growing season with plenty of rain and a mild open autumn with considerable sunshine. These conditions vary every year and explain why one district produces good beets of high sugar content one year and beets of poor quality the next. A dark loamy soil seems to be best for sugar beet growing. Beets are very susceptible to soil acidity and liming of the soil is necessary. It is now recognized that for best results plenty of fertilizer must be used and phosphoric acid seems to be the most important element.

The Bees Need Help

The honey-gathering season has ended and the bees are now preparing, in so far as they possibly can, for the coming winter. They will, however, need some assistance in order to survive the long cold months that are ahead. During the summer months the bees worked feverishly to gather enough honey to sustain them through the following autumn, winter and spring. In most cases the amount stored far exceeded their requirements and the surplus has been taken from them. Unfortunately, there is a tendency on the part of many beekeepers to take from the bees an unfair proportion of their stores, thus placing them in danger of starvation before new supplies can be obtained the following year. To pack bees away for the winter without an adequate food supply is to court disaster. It is far better to find living colonies with a surplus of food in the spring than it is to find colonies dead or depleted through starvation. During the autumn months, the colonies are producing a large force of young bees that must survive the winter and continue the activity of the colony next spring. For this purpose a large supply is needed. Should the supply be insufficient brood production is curtailed or stopped entirely, thus weakening the colony when strength is of extreme importance. After brood rearing normally ceases the consumption of food is greatly reduced but does not cease entirely. At the end of September, or early in October, every colony should have at least forty pounds of well capped honey or sugar syrup for winter use. Any deficiency in this amount must be made up by giving combs of sealed honey or an equal amount of refined sugar made into syrup. Bees also require protection during the winter months and as they are unable to provide this for themselves it must be supplied by the beekeeper. Protection can be given either by packing the bees in well insulated packing cases or moving the apiary into a well constructed cellar or dugout.

WEST HUNTINGDON

The annual convention of the O.R.E.C. of Huntingdon township was held in West Huntingdon United Church on Wednesday afternoon and evening, October 16th. Delegates were present from Moira, White Lake, Beulah, St. Andrew's, Fuller (Knox) and Fuller United and West Huntingdon Sunday Schools. Rev. H. A. Turner, B.A., of West Huntingdon, very ably conducted the worship period for the afternoon session.

Mr. Ward Holland, president of the Huntingdon branch, presided over both sessions in an efficient manner; in his opening address he was much encouraged with the Sunday School work for the past year in the township. Those giving the reports of the various departments were: Mrs. John Wallace for the Children's Work; Mr. Arthur Wilson, Young People's Work; Mr. Phillip Carr, Teacher Training; Mr. Harry Lovibond, Temperance. The other superintendents were not present, but their reports were read by the secretary, Mrs. William Shaw.

The Misses Verna and Betty Foster, of Moira, delighted the gathering with a duet "God's Love". A most interesting and instructive feature of the programme was a teaching demonstration. Mrs. Henry Emerson of Moira taught an adult class and Mrs. John Wallace a junior class. Both of these talented ladies received many complimentary remarks concerning their method of teaching and no doubt the various teachers present carried home many new ideas which will be of great assistance in the coming year.

The Provincial Representative this year was Rev. R. R. Elliott and at this time Mr. Elliott discussed some Sunday School problems of convention and the afternoon session was brought to a close with Benediction. The ladies of the United Church served supper to the visiting delegates in the Orange Hall.

Rev. D. C. Hill, pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, Fuller, conducted the worship period in the evening and Mr. Elliott continued his afternoon's discussion for a few minutes. Mrs. William Shaw read the report of the nominating committee as follows: President: Mr. Ward Holland, Bethesda United Church.

1st vice-President: Mrs. D. McCauley, Fuller.

Superintendent Children's Work — Mrs. John Wallace, St. Andrew's.

Superintendent Girls' Work: Miss L. Rollins, Knox Church, Fuller.

Boys' Work: Mr. Gordon Foster, of Moira P.P.

Young People's Department: Mr. Arthur Wilson, West Huntingdon S.S.

Adult Department: Mrs. Henry Emerson, Moira S.S.

Home Department: Mrs. J. Clement, Beulah S.S.

Teacher Training — Mrs. (Rev.) H.

A. Turner, West Huntingdon S.S.

Missionary Work: Mrs. Florence Geary, Bethesda S.S.

Temperance Work: Mr. Harry Lovibond, Beulah S.S.

Rev. H. H. Lackey of Ivanhoe, in a very impressive manner installed the above officers who will constitute the executive for 1935-36. Next year the convention will be held at Fuller United Church. Mrs. Shaw read the report of the resolution committee.

The appreciation of the convention was extended to those taking active part on the program, to the ladies for excellent refreshments, also to officials of the United Church for the use of the building for the convention.

The Fuller quartet, composed of Messrs Arthur and George Brough, Frank Palmer and Lloyd McCauley, gave as special music, "Standing in the need of Prayer", with Miss L. Rollins as pianist. This number was greatly appreciated by the convention.

Rev. D. C. Hill gave an address on the work of the Sunday School and Church combined. Rev. R. R. Elliott gave a very instructive closing address on world conditions and he is of the opinion that Sunday Schools are doing the greatest work of any of our church organizations. Rev. Turner closed the convention with the Benediction.

OLD FOES MEET AGAIN

(By R. Williams)

Last Friday afternoon our ex-students ambled up to S. H. S. and engaged the present custodians of this imposing edifice in the annual friendly tilt on the old gridiron. The adherents of the opposing team kept arriving from one o'clock until their last player finally staggered in around five, in full dress suit. These games certainly are of interest to both the town players and school students, because they keep alive a burning flame of school spirit and all it means. School days are happy days, although we do not sometimes believe that, especially when we are far behind in our work and have to labour over-time in order to reach the far-distant goal that we have set for ourselves.

The ex-students did not show up to very good advantage when one looks at the score, but they certainly played with all their might and put a lot of good sportsmanship into the game. The contest was rather rough and tumble at times but this was probably due to the lack of practice, which was being made up for by the ex-students' hard team play. They certainly know how to take it, although they were heavier they lacked co-ordination of a well-trained unit.

From the kick-off in the first quarter, things began to happen fast and furiously. The play bobbed back and forth, with S. H. S. striving desperately for a touch-down. Their hopes were soon raised when Whirling McDonnell squirmed over the line only to be followed a few minutes later by Dainard, thus bringing the score up to 10-0 for S.H.S., ending the first quarter.

The second spasm was not quite so violent, but there was lots of excitement and again the balance weighing the two sides showed as it wavered from end to end. The invaders were heavier but the trained precision of the defenders counter-balanced this advantage. Before the quarter was ended they had scored another touch-down. By this time, tempers were showing the effect of the terrific strain by their frayed edges. The town players were eager to cut short the half-time period and begin the third quarter.

Once more things did not go so well for the opposition, as shown when Reid galloped over their touch line on the right end of a long forward pass by Bailey. The play re-commenced from their twenty-five yard line and another beautiful forward was received by Mummy to add another point to the mounting score.

In the fourth and final quarter the superior weight of the town players made itself felt more and more strongly on the lighter team. But the will to hold the varied-sweatered team to a scoreless game was so strong that it drove down to a hard, tight battle for time and points. The least slip by either contestant would bring ruin and destruction to the offender. Many times players and rooters caught their breath as mistakes were rectified by hair-breadth margins. This could not go on and again the united front of the "Red, Yellow and Black" baffled the "Mottles" to such an extent that they finally broke and allowed McDonnell to make another touch-down. This brought the final score to a glorious end, 26-0, for dear old S. H. S.

The weather man must have been away on his holidays, because, sad to relate, there was no nipping breeze to blow across the campus. The line-ups were:

Town — Snap, F. Fraser; Insides, Gordon Bailey, John Fox; Middles, Mr. Scollie, H. Alcombrack; Ends, M. Lummis, F. Butler; Quarter, Don Rodgers; Halfbacks, A. Rodgers, J. Potter, E. Robinson, L. Bateman. S. H. S. — Snap, R. Richardson; Insides, F. Bedford, R. Mathison; Middles, W. Brooks, S. Dainard; Ends, R. Scott, Woods; Quarter, A. McDonnell; Halfbacks, R. Bailey, L. Rowland, C. Mummy and M. Reid.

BRIDE-TO-BE SHOWERED

On Friday evening a large number of friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. Leo Farrell and tendered Miss Theresa Johnston, bride-to-be, a miscellaneous shower. Mr. John Donohue acted as chairman for the programme. Mrs. Wm. Mitchell delighted the audience with a solo. Miss Della McMaster gave a recitation entitled "Entertaining my big Sister's Beau", and was followed by a solo by Mr. John B. Hagerman. Miss Mary Forestell then read the following address:

Harold, Ontario,
October 11th, 1935

Dear Theresa and Don,—
We are gathered here this evening Theresa, to tender our best wishes to you.

For no doubt you're feeling happy. As the eventful day draws near, When you and your smiling Donald Before the altar will appear.

Perhaps you're somewhat lonesome And a little fearful too, As your lovely home you're leaving With another home in view.

You will miss your loving friends, Though they'll not be far away, And your uncle and your cousins You'll remember for many a day.

We are glad your cheery presence Still among us we'll enjoy, Though the labours new and varied, Your time and effort will employ.

Through the years that are before us, With their sorrows and their joys, We'll look back with pleasant memories To the days when we were girls and boys.

You will meet new opportunities That will demand of you your best, You will face responsibilities That will put you to the test.

Never doubt, or fear, or falter, If you find the way goes hard, God has promised He will strengthen If His way you will regard.

So, dear friends, we here are gathered And these varied gifts we bring, To convey to you our friendship Ere you receive the wedding ring.

Please accept these gifts we offer In the spirit they were brought, May they fill your days with comfort As they brighten up your thoughts.

So now we say in closing, That for you we wish the best, May your days be filled with sunshine Like the rose-tinted west.

May your Donald be a husband Who is always rated high, May you ever be his sweetheart And the apple of his eye.

Signed on behalf of the Community — Jean Donald, Ethel Hagerman and Mary Forestell.

A number of Theresa's girl friends assisted in unwrapping the numerous gifts, after which Theresa replied in a very suitable manner, thanking her friends for the many useful and beautiful gifts and invited them all to visit them in their new home. All joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Lunch was then served and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

CLOUDS AND FILTERS

If it's clouds you want in your next picture a filter will capture them.

LAST week the Snapshot Guild received a letter from a reader who lives in the country. She wrote in part—"At this time of year the clouds are simply beautiful and often when their formations are unusually attractive I take many snapshots hoping they will register and give a true picture of the beautiful scene. I have been somewhat disappointed in the results, however, for pointed in the results, however, for these beautiful, soft, white clouds have not appeared in the picture as true to nature as I had hoped for."

Clouds do add to the beauty of any outdoor picture but it is true that they do not always register through the lens of the camera as they appear to the eye.

Suppose we are taking a picture such as the one above and use a film which is sensitive only to ultra-violet, violet and blue light. We should not be able to distinguish between the clouds and sky if we give enough exposure to show detail in the landscape. This is because the light from the blue sky and the white clouds is very rich in light rays to which the film responds.

Although clouds and blue sky are both rich in ultra-violet, violet and blue, there is a marked difference between the two. The light from the clouds, being white, actually contains a certain amount of green and red light, while that from the blue sky does not.

This, then, makes it necessary to distinguish between clouds and sky in order to record both in a snapshot. We must, therefore, use a film which will respond to green, or to green and red light, and also put over the lens a filter which holds back the ultra-violet and blue. The green or green and red light from the clouds will thus effect the film, while practically no light from the sky will get through to it, and in the finished print, the clouds will appear whiter than the sky.

Some film is slightly sensitive to green light but supersensitive panchromatic films will respond to both green and red light. Such films will, therefore, show up the clouds against the sky if used with a yellow filter. The deeper the yellow color in the filter the more violet and blue it removes, or "holds back."

As you will no doubt surmise, there are various types of filters and each type has its limitations so in choosing a filter you must make your own decision, based on your general requirements. A good general all-around filter is the K-2 which requires lengthening the exposure two to four times, depending on the film employed.

There is also a filter known as a Sky Filter used extensively by the amateur to photograph clouds in a landscape with no increase in exposure time. Half of this filter is yellow and the other half clear. This filter can be used without increasing the exposure because the sky is photographed through the yellow part while the landscape, or general subject, is photographed through the lower half, which is not colored.

If it's clouds you want a filter will prove invaluable.

FIRST INSTALMENT

Ben Furlong came to the Southern fields looking for work. He was very dusty and quite hungry when at last he stopped in at the Durham House.

This was a rather better-looking place than the average Texas home-stand, and when he knocked at the kitchen door a girl appeared who was much better-looking than the average Texas homestead. She was, in fact, a very pretty girl.

She readily fetched Ben a drink of water, and while he rested she talked to him. That was, no doubt, because of his smile. He informed her that he had been raised in the Pennsylvania fields and was a good, practical oil man.

There being no chores to do, Ben sat in the kitchen and chatted with the girl while she cooked something for him, and in the course of their conversation he learned that her name was Betty Durham, that her parents were dead, and that the farm belonged to her aunt, with whom she had lived ever since she was a little girl. The aunt had gone to Opportunity in the family flier.

"Funny, you cooking for a tramp drifter like me and your aunt owning acreage like this," Ben remarked. "Isn't this land on the structure?"

"Sure! It's worth a lot of money. That well over yonder"—fork in hand, Miss Durham indicated a derrick not far away—"belongs to us."

From where he sat Furlong could see that the timbers of the tower were still bright and unstained, thus advertising the melancholy fact that the well itself was not a producer, so he inquired:

"What's wrong with it? Dry?"

"Dry nothing! They're not down yet. They've got a fishing job—been at it for a couple of weeks."

"Geel!" The visitor shook his head. "That's running somebody in debt."

"When the first oil talk commenced w'd of been glad to get the farm drilled on most any kind of royalty, but nobody would lease it. When they finally got ready, Aunt Mary wanted a bonus—two bits an acre—and she wouldn't listen to Uncle Joe's arguments. By and bye they offered two bits, but by that time she wanted a dollar. Then the companies got together, or the boom kind of petered out, or something, and it began to look as if Uncle Joe would be lucky to make any kind of a deal. He finally laid his ears back and leased a small block. Then he up and got killed."

"That's too bad."

"It was an accident. A powder wagon let go." The speaker's face grew wistful, she stared out across the arid countryside for a moment or two. "Uncle Joe loved me, but—Aunt Mary's his second wife; we're not really kins-folks. It might just as well have been Madox who got killed; he was as close to the wagon as Uncle Joe and yet he wasn't touched. Funny, too, because he's always been afraid of the stuff and has a hunch he'll be blown up. All you have to say to him is 'powder' and—"

"How'd your aunt come to put down this new well?"

"Madox drilled the well on the lot we leased, and after Uncle Joe was killed he quit the company and sort of took charge of things for Aunt Mary. It wasn't a big well, but the royalty is enough to pay for this one. I won't cook any more ham and eggs, so you'd better make the most of these. Yes, and you'd better come and get them; they're done." Miss Durham set a plate on the table and Furlong drew up his chair.

With the curiosity natural to his calling, the visitor inquired more specifically about the nature of the mishap that had halted Madox's progress, but he learned little. He inferred, however, that the royalties from the first well were dwindling at an alarming rate and that any considerable delay in completing the new well might therefore result in ruin to the owner. It was a prospect that naturally gave Betty and her aunt grave concern.

When Ben had finished eating he said: "Maybe I can give this driller of yours some help. I've worked on a good many fishing jobs. D'you think he'd let me try?"

"He will if I tell him to," the girl declared. "He's tried everything anybody has told him to try. Who knows? Maybe you can do it."

The speaker put on her sunbonnet and together she and Furlong went across the valley to the well.

Tiller Madox was a swarthy man of about thirty-five; his eyes were bold and black and set close together. He greeted the Durham girl with an easy familiarity, a suggestion of proprietorship that gave the visitor cause for thought, but towards Furlong he was none too cordial as when Betty explained the reason for the latter's presence Madox frowned.

"Another wise guy, eh? Every rope-choker in ten miles has been tryin' to show us how smart he is. What d'you know about fishin', stranger?"

"Not much," Ben confessed, "but I've had some luck."

"Oh, I've had plenty of luck, my self!" Madox asserted. "But I never had any good luck lettin' strangers monkey with my work. If you jim up the well, I take the blame."

"What'll you charge for this here miracle of yours?"

Impatiently Miss Durham exclaimed, "What's the difference how much he charges if he can do—?"

"I've been paid for any help I can give you," Furlong declared. "Probably I can't do anything, but so far I don't even know what's wrong. Do you mind telling me?"

"We've got a bolt in the hole."

"A bolt?"

"Sure! A six-inch steel bolt. It worked loose and dropped out of a tool."

"That's a new one," Ben admitted. "Why don't you drill it out, pound it to pieces?"

Madox grinned. "That's what we been trying to do, but it's tempered harder than the bit. It dulls every tool we use and all we been doin' for two weeks is sharpen steel."

"You've been experimenting for two weeks at a hundred dollars a day—Let Mr. Furlong have a go at it," said Betty.

"Can't you drill past it?"

"How you goin' to sidetrack a six-inch bolt loose in the bottom of a hole?"

"You can drive it into the wall."

"Oh, you can, can you? We're into a stratter of iron pyrites an' the rock's dam' near as hard as the bolt. It's much as ever a tool will cut it at all. That bolt just shifts around in the bottom of the hole like it was in a steel cup, an' it's too small to grapple. I s'pose we could get holt of it with some fancy kind of a magnet that would get holt of it." Again Madox grinned.

Betty Durham was staring as Furlong with an apprehensive pucker between her brows. "Ain't that our luck, for a little bitty old bolt to ruin everything? Can you think of any way—?"

"I can think of one way that won't cost much to try."

"I don't want any strangers experimentin' around—" Madox began; but the girl exclaimed, sharply,

"You've been experimenting for two weeks at a hundred dollars a day, haven't you? It's our well. Let Mr. Furlong have a go at it."

The driller executed an exaggerated gesture of acquiescence. "Right you are, Betty! But if this feller puts it on the bum, don't blame me." Then to Ben he announced: "Help yourself, partner. You heard the boss."

When Furlong had fully satisfied himself as to conditions he took off his coat and went to work. He knew of no fishing tool so designed as to pick up an object so small and as easily movable as a six-inch bolt, therefore he made one. He took a short length of steel casing of a diameter small enough to slip into the well, and in one end of this he cut teeth several inches long. It was a labor that consumed time: he was still at it when Betty reappeared at the well about dark and advised him that his supper was waiting.

Mrs. Durham had returned from town. She was a woman of indeterminate age. Her eyes were pale; her nose was hooked like the beak of a hawk; her lips were thin and set in avaricious lines. Immediately upon meeting Furlong she wanted to know whether he believed his experiment would succeed, how he proposed to go about it, how long it would take, and the like. Ben was noncommittal and he refused to raise her hopes. Before he had finished his meal he had convinced himself that the woman stood in some sort of dread of Tiller Madox and that her fear of antagonizing him almost equaled her anxiety for Furlong's success. Ben wondered why. Another fact he discovered—Betty and her aunt were not on the best of terms.

After supper by the light of a gasoline torch, Furlong resumed his work the while Madox vainly tried, with the new device which his employer had brought out from town, to grapple that obstinate piece of steel a fifth of a mile beneath his feet. But it was blind work, monotonous work, dispiriting work; time after time the clumsy fishing tool was raised and lowered but its jaws refused to seize the troublesome bolt. It was a job as hopeless and as baffling as trying to pick up a pin with a pair of fire tongs attached to a string.

The engineer of the rig watched Furlong's work with the interest of a fellow machinist, and of him the latter inquired finally:

"Say! How come Mr. Durham to get killed?"

"He was blown up. It was when the Planet Company was getting ready to put down that well on the north-east corner. Madox was workin' for the company then—movin' the rig on to the ground. A powder wagon came by an' the driver stopped to ask his way. You've seen them trucks—six hundred odd quarts of nitroglycerine in square cans all set in felt-lined racks to keep 'em from jarring. I a-lus been scared of 'em, but them drivers pound their wagons over these rough roads like it's so much molasses they got. Old man Durham went across to the road and give him direction—he stood there watchin' the wagon as it drove on. The driver was trottin' his horses, an' when he crossed the railroad track it let go. Jar set it off, I s'pose. Tiller says he saw it all, but he don't remember hearin' a sound or feelin' a shock of any sort. All he seen was a big black cloud, an' when he looked for Old man Durham he wasn't there. The fence was gone, too."

"What happened to the driver?"

"What d'you reckon happened? All the trace they ever found of him or the outfit was part of a horse's leg hangin' on a telegraph cross-arm about a hundred yards up the grade. There was a hole thirty foot wide where the wagon had been and the railroad iron was corkscrewed for a quarter of a mile. They found quite a bit of Mr. Durham—enough to hold a funeral over."

"And Madox wasn't scratched? That stuff certainly acts queer at times!"

"They figgered some air current was responsible. Kind of a Godsend for Tiller, wasn't it?"

"Not to be killed? Sure—"

"Naw! To get in with the wider an' Betty. Lucky for them, too, that he took to lookin' out for 'em. If he makes this well they'll be movin' in to one of them Dallas mansions with marble bedsteads."

"Humph! He'll never make a well if he keeps dropping hardware in it. In my country a driller that careless would lose his job."

"Tiller won't lose his job," the engineer asserted, positively. "He don't lose anything he goes after."

In the course of time Furlong finished cutting the end of his steel casing into a series of teeth, and these teeth he then bent slightly inward. This done, he attached the device to a tool and lowered it into the hole. Even Betty Durham and her aunt Mary who looked on with growing suspense, understood now how he proposed to pick up that bolt. He that they resembled the curving fingers of a hand, and his delicate task was to drive the casing home against the steel-hard bottom of the well until those fingers closed, until he clinched them over the obstacle. It was a task less difficult than it seemed.

cessary food has been stored and when given the required check and rest period will produce an abundance of leaf stalks.

First arrange for crowns that have been in a plantation for at least two years or until they are well developed. Crowns that are over four years in a plantation do not force so well as those of the younger plants. In late October, or early in November, just before the ground freezes up, the roots should be dug, allowing a good ball of earth to adhere. Leave these on the surface of the ground without protection until they become frozen through. Sub-zero freezing, however, is not recommended. Four or six crowns of fair size will, as a rule, produce enough rhubarb for a family of three or four.

The crowns or roots being given the required period of dormancy are then brought into a dark cellar, where the temperature can be maintained at 50 degrees F., placed in the cellar floor and covered with soil, sand or cinders. The soil, sand or cinders hold the moisture around the roots. Another very good way is to place one large crown in a bushel hamper or box, packing soil around it to hold the moisture. Where several roots or crowns are to be used they can each be placed in a hamper or box. This method is very convenient for handling, where small numbers of roots are to be forced. In commercial forcing, the roots are placed as closely together as possible, on the forcing house floor, or under greenhouse benches, and soil, sand or cinders placed around them. Water is applied when required.

To give continuity of harvest the roots or crowns should be brought into the forcing cellar at intervals of two weeks apart. It usually requires around three weeks to a month for the crop to be ready for pulling. If the roots are to be used for planting out again in the following spring, it is unwise to remove more than five pullings. After the fifth pulling the crowns should be put outside and allowed to freeze up again.

IT'S FOOTBALL TIME

Enlargements of long distance shots will often bring out the "action" detail of a football play (left). A shot from the side lines (right).

HOLD that line! Hold that line! Yes, football season is with us again with its excited, yelling crowds, raccoon coats and joyous celebrations by supporters of the winning team.

What a paradise for the snapshotter! He who goes to the game without his camera is missing a golden opportunity. Pictures of the game, the crowds in the grandstands and informal shots of his classmates and friends will furnish him many hours of pleasure year after year as he looks back through his snapshot album.

There are countless opportunities for interesting, story-telling pictures at football games. All you have to do is use a little imagination. When you are blocked in the traffic and remark to the girl friend, "Gee, look at that line-up of cars and the crowd at the gate," don't stop with that—take a snapshot. Don't be satisfied with stepping out of the car and just snapping a straight line of cars. Stand on the bumper and shoot down on the traffic and crowds. The results will be much more pleasing than the ordinary, conventional view.

The period before the start of the game offers further opportunities for unusual snapshots. For instance, take a picture from the top of the grandstand steps showing the crowds coming up the steps to their seats. A shutter speed of 1/50 of a second will stop the motion of the people as they walk directly toward your camera.

Stand on your seat and take a full view picture of the crowds in the grandstand and as you do this you may see some of your friends seated nearby. Attract their attention and as they wave with a cheer, "Hey, Bill," you can snap another interesting, story-telling picture. Even a chance, "blind" shot over your shoulder may bring unusual and pleasing results.

See today that your camera is ready for action, load it with film and leave for the game determined to get the kind of pictures you will be proud to show your friends.

Years ago in bonnie Scotland, a brae lad and brae lass romped hither and thither through the heather, as devoted as two children could be. Together they sang in the juvenile choir of the little Baptist Church at Bo'ness. Then they parted. The lad was wee Davie Thompson and he came to Canada with his parents. The lassie stayed in Bo'ness, for a while.....

A month or so ago, David Thompson, director of the "Brunswick Singers" quartet of "Fundy Fantasy", presented his own arrangement of "Trees" to the eastern and midwest network of the Commission.

In Windsor, Ontario, by her fireside, sat Mina Duff, now Mrs. Mina Bell, and she heard Mr. Thompson's name announced.

Time stopped in its flight. Her thoughts flew back to Scotland. Back 26 years, in fact, to the days when she played with a wee David.

She wrote to the quartet leader to compliment him on his fine arrangement and to inquire as to his natal land. A reply was soon forthcoming, and it was not long, on learning they were playmates of old, before the pair commenced a regular correspondence. Many and varied are the items of common interest of days past which they share.

Germaine Bruyere

After a summer of hard work with the best vocal teachers in New York, Germaine Bruyere, whose smiling countenance is shown above, will shortly return to Montreal. Launched in Montreal as a Canadian Radio Commission artist, Miss Bruyere's charming soprano voice was heard this summer via the NBC and MBS networks. Broadcasts over the CRBC network this winter are being arranged.

Visited Canada

Charles Brewer, who has introduced such celebrities as the Countess of Oxford and Asquith, Sir Seymour Hicks, Graham White and Amos, of "Amos and Andy" to the British radio public, was a visitor to Canada and the United States during the past two weeks where he spent most of his time in broadcasting studios.

He took part in the Toronto program, "Up-to-the-Minute" during his brief stay in that city and stated that the Commission's journal of the air was one of the most pleasing features he has heard. He also paid tribute to "The March of Time" program, and stated that he was particularly interested in these two features because they resembled his pet program, "The Scrap Book," which he does for BBC. It is on this feature that he announces famous personalities and it was learned that all of them are paid a fee. In most instances the fee is returned for a charity fund conducted by BBC.

Mr. Brewer is the son of the late Sir Herbert Brewer, celebrated organist of Gloucester Cathedral and for many years conductor of the Three Choirs Festival, an annual musical event of great importance which has been presented for over two hundred years in England.

Chunaldin Program

"Til Seraglio," by Mozart, will be played as the Overture for the "Melodic Strings" program to be presented by the Canadian Radio Commission from Toronto, under the baton of Alexander Chunaldin, on Monday, October 28, at 9:53 p.m. This is a national network presentation featuring the famed string orchestra under the conductorship of the distinguished Russian maestro.

Mr. Chunaldin will include on his program the Bach Aria in E Major, Beethoven's Minuet from Quartette No. 4 and Greig's Minuet from Piano Sonata Opus 7.

Chunaldin's own arrangement of MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" will be featured and two other selections to be played are "Serenade Enfantine," by Bonnaud and "The Mill" by Raff.

Peter Aylen, staff announcer at the Toronto studios of the Canadian Radio Commission who for the past six weeks has been the CRBC "Ambassador of Goodwill" to the British Broadcasting Corporation, London, England, returned to Canada this week. He arrived in New York a passenger on the liner Majestic.

Mr. Aylen, whose sojourn abroad was a combined holiday and business trip, reports that he was deeply impressed by the activities of the BBC. He paid fine tribute to its staff and lauded its programmes.

"Just for Safety's Sake"

And then there's the story they tell of the musician in one of the bands heard weekly over the Radio Commission's national network. In the tense second's before the studio's red light flickers he loved to spring a gas which is sure to bring a chorus of guffaws. On Friday the 13th everybody in the studio — and control room was on edge. The musician never blinked or opened his mouth. Now the orchestra leader contemplates hanging a Friday 13th calendar leaf on the wall of the studio each time he goes on the air — "just for safety's sake" he explains.

FOWL PLENTIFUL ON SATURDAY MARKET

An evidence of the near approach of Thanksgiving day was apparent on the Saturday Belleville market, when dressed fowl were offered for sale in considerable quantities. Fair prices were obtained for same. A number of turkeys were offered for sale ranging in price from $2.50 to $3.50, specials averaging about 35c per pound. Geese ranged in price from $1.50 to $2.00 according to quality. Ducks retailed from 90c to $1.00 each while chickens sold from 60c to 75c each.

Vegetables showed a slight increase in price over last week's quotations, with the exception of potatoes which retailed at 25c per peck. By the bag the price ranged from $1.15 to $1.25.

The hog market during the past week showed a slight increase in price, namely 10c for both live and dressed hogs.

No changes were noted in the grain market with sales quite brisk at quotations listed below.

In the dairy products the only change to note was in the price of eggs which showed a slight increase in price, namely 32c per dozen. In a few cases 35c was asked for specials.

Fruit displayed consisted of peaches, plums, pears and grapes, the latter plentiful. Prices were fairly reasonable.

Fish vendors did considerable business, the species being white fish, lake salmon and mud cats. Prices for same were reasonable.

ready to help with any good work, and have been one to whom we could turn at any time to assist in social activities, but what is our loss will be another's gain. Clarence, we congratulate you upon having won a girl like Rema for your life partner. We shall miss seeing your car standing under the big tree by Mr. Mumby's gate. You are not so well known in this neighborhood as Roma, but we feel that we can rely upon her judgement and that you will be an ideal husband. We therefore ask you to accept this shower with our hearty wishes for your future happiness. May these small remembrances of our esteem and regard remind you of your many friends, and may health, happiness, prosperity, and a long and blissful wedded life ever be yours.

Howdy gang!

Well the election and everything is over!

To a lot of folks that's a relief!

To others it's a blessing.

With us it's a catastrophe

Or something.

There just isn't anything to write about now, because things have been so quiet in our humble settlement ever since election day.

Nobody has broke into the Dominion Store lately or anything!

There haven't been any hold-ups that we heard about —

That is since the night of somebody's chivvrie when one celebrant undertook to put a few ventilators in the back of the bride and groom's automobile with the shot-gun!

About the only bit of action we can see from The Office Window is to watch Jack West as he signals the trucks around the danger corners.

Really, the guy that wrote The Deserted Village, must have passed through Stirling during one of these quiet spells

There now!

We knew it!

We shouldn't have mentioned that business about "The Deserted Village" —

We feel a verse coming on!

Say, wouldn't it be funny — Did it ever occur to you, Just how funny it would really be if in all the things we do —

Just suppose that all the folks Around the village should change jobs —

Would you laugh if we could show you Mrs. Potts up there at "Bob's" —

Sellin' all the guys their collars,

And their sweater-coats and boots, And a measurin' Bill Anderson For a couple summer suits?

Would it strike you kind of odd 'if, In the line of music lessons You could see our friend Stub Rollins —

With his pupils havin' sessions?

Would you laugh if you should happen To look into Fleming's as you pass And see Skinner Smith a'standin' With a lady at a glass —

Taking time to kind of tell her That the waist-line, he can see, Should be raised a little higher, So more comfortable 'twould be!

Don't you think it would be mirthful — Just a minute — let us take Jack McGee down to Bob Williams' For the horses, shoes to make?

Or, wouldn't it be more tragic If Jack traded shops with Williams, And Bob had to sew men's trousers, And make stitches by the millions?

Then let's take good Tom Donnan, And let him some evening stand In front of the musicians And lead the Stirling band —

Or why not try Tom Cranston, (With exceptions to the rule) He'd make a dandy principal Up at the public school —

Or say we tried Bert Eggleton, Perhaps he could do it better — Bert could teach the kids their geography And history to the letter.

And then take Cecil Macklin, In the evenings he could stop And try the doors about the town, As does the village "Cop".

Or if you saw Joe Whitehead, A'runnin' Woodbeck's saw, And feedin' in the cordwood — Wouldn't that fill your heart with awe?

If down at Baker's Service You saw a tractor engine startin', And crankin' there with might and main Was Mr. Harold Martin?

Then suppose the local theatre, A new janitor should need — Wouldn't your sides just shake and quiver — If, with most terrific speed

You should see a-workin' faithfully And sweepin' to and fro And hangin' out the pitcher signs Was your old friend Lawrence Munro!

Or if you saw each morning When you went to get your mail Billy West behind the wicket — Lookin' thin and weak and pale!

Or wouldn't you split your waistcoat

If you went into the bank And wanted to ask the manager Just how your credit sank —

And they ushered you with glory The money-boss to see — And there in the front office Sat Frederick N. McKee?

Or just suppose you're hungry, And you walk up to the Chink's Wouldn't you get the greatest of surprise

If at the kitchen sinks

You should see your friend Doc Carleton, Who much against his wishes, Was scrubbin' and a-polishin' A stack of dirty dishes?

Or wouldn't you think it humorous If some night you met the train, And you looked into the engine cab

And there, with heavy strain, You saw heavin' in the coal b'gosh So the whistle he could toot — Was dirty-faced and ragged Mr. Gerald Elmer Clute!

Perhaps you'd break forth into laughter If some evening you should find That your 'pendix gave you trouble And a doctor you must mind —

And you sent down for a special-

To fix your achin "mules"
And in would walk Bob Patterson
With his club-bag full of tools

To yank the achin parts therefrom
And, to give the anesthetic
He had brought along Geo. Luery,
Lookin' awful sympathetic!

Or even more 'twould tickle yuh
If the butcher you should need,
And you found young Don McCallum
Sawin' off the steaks with speed!

And then we think you'd laugh right out —
Should you need an undertaker,
And you woke and found that
"picklin'" yuh
Was Mr. Clifford Baker!

'Twould be funny as the dickens
If you wanted to use your phone,
And instead of the girls at "Central"
You should hear Ham Johnson groan —

"What the heck didjuh say yuh wanted?"
Or "Look the number up yerself",
And his curt remarks rang out so blunt
The 'phone jumped off the shelf!

Just supposin' every morning
When the milkman comes around,
You should scratch your head and wonder
What the heck the dog had found

And the cause for all the barkin'
From away across the pond,
Would be that the milkman's duties
Were being done by Lovibond!

Then you'd stare with consternation,
If some evenin' after dark,
You should find the daily paper
Bein' delivered by Alex Park!

Perhaps 'twould be even funnier
If to local court your taken,
And there, up in the Judge's seat,
And both his fists a'shakin'

Sits His Honor 'Happy' Tompkins
Handin' out the different fines — Wouldn't that make the rolls of merriment
Go tricklin' up your spines?

And resultin' from 'Hap's' 'judgements' —
With on his mug a scowl —
For ten days in the "Cooler",
There's parked The Office Owl!

But listen gang — don't ever think
There's cause for an alarm,
We've only changed these guys and jobs
Without doing any harm —

Because, as we at first explained,
Or tried our best to shout,
We couldn't find another thing
To fill this column about!

Let's hope there'll be something a bit more exciting going on during the next week, and if there is

We'll be seein' yuh!

IS IT ANYBODY'S BUSINESS

Is it anybody's business
If a gentleman should choose
To call upon a lady —
If the lady don't refuse?
Or to speak a little plainer
That the meaning all may know
Is it anybody's business
If a lady has a beau?

Is it anybody's business
When the gentleman goes call?
Or when he flaves the lady?
Or if he comes at all.
Or is it necessary
That curtains should be drawn,
To save from further trouble
The outside lookers-on?

Is it anybody's business —
But the lady's — if her beau
Rides out with other ladies
And doesn't let her know?
Is it anybody's business —
But the gentleman's — if she Should accept another's escort
Where he doesn't chance to be?

If it is, we'll join the rabble
And act the noble part
Of the tatters and defamers
Who throng the public mart;
If it isn't we'll act as teacher
Until each meddler learns
'Twould be better in the future
If he'd mind his own business

CRITICALLY ILL

The friends of Rev. B. F. Byers, former minister of St. John's Anglican Church, will be sorry to learn that he is critically ill, suffering from pneumonia. Mr. and Mrs. Byers have been residing at the St. Thomas Rectory, Belleville, with their daughter, Mrs. Payne. His many friends in this district will wish him a speedy recovery.

COMMEMORATE TEN YEARS OF UNION

On October 23rd, members of the Woman's Missionary Society from all parts of the Presbyterial, gathered in Belleville to join with the ministers of the Conference in a tenth anniversary rally, being held in Bridge St. and John St. Churches.

In the morning the eye was greeted with a large fifty-foot banner hung across the front of the church with the motto "All Nations Shall Serve Him". Special addresses were given by Rev. Dr. Frank Langford, on "Training for the future" and Rev. R. G. Katsunoff, B.A. "Canada and the new Canadian".

Holloway ladies catered for the luncheon at noon and about five hundred ladies gathered in John St. church for the afternoon session, over which Mrs. C. W. Haggerty, of Cherry Valley, ably presided, she being the president of the Presbyterial. Seated on the platform were Mrs. S. E. Reynolds, Kingston, Press Secretary of the Branch; Mrs. J. E. Maybee, Odesa, Literature Secretary; Mrs. R. M. Seymour, Cataqua, Pres. of Kingston Presbyterial; Mrs. J. I. R. McCrimmon, Beaverton, Pres. of Lindsay Presbyterial.

The service opened by singing the Doxology and repeating the model
prayer given by our Lord.

Mrs. M. E. Knox, Cor. Sec., read a letter of greeting from the Branch President, Mrs. W. L. Smyth, B.A. Pembroke.

Mrs. George Finlay, who was one of the first secretaries read a letter of greeting from the first president, Mrs. Wilson, who is now on her way to Regina to spend the winter.

Mrs. S. C. Gay, the second President, took charge of the Devotional, based on gratitude and praise to God for His ten years of continued presence and blessing, and based her thoughts on the season of "Thanksgiving". Miss Leona Riggs delighted

With Brother at Time of Accident

Andrew Jean Wick, 14, two-and-a-half-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wickens, of Ivanhoe, was drowned in a well on the Hallness Movement Camp ground, near Ivanhoe on Tuesday afternoon. The child was playing with her other brother and it was believed the children lifted the covering on the well and in some account able way fell in. The well is twelve feet deep and there was about five feet of water at the time of the tragedy. The brother was at the time and Stanley, 10, a 14-year-old boy, rescued the boy. The well will be no longer used and the mineral will be sold on the camp grounds. The father said the child was employed as a helper.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Canadian Wool

Sheep raising is an important phase of live stock production in all the provinces of Canada. Since 1913 a great deal of attention has been given to improving the quality of Canadian wool and the manner of its preparation for market. Propaganda has been mainly directed to securing improvement in the preparation of fleece wool for the market. Tub washing of wool and the washing of wool on the sheep have been discouraged. Today practically all wool sold commercially in Canada is "in the grease" and the fleeces are rolled and tied intact as they are shorn. Another important feature of the educational work is the emphasizing of the important of keeping fleeces free from chaff and seeds. This entails better housing accommodation and greater care in feeding. Although there has been a great change in the quality of domestic wools there is room for further improvement.

Soil Drift Control

While individual effort is usually very effective in controlling soil drifting, and every farmer should adopt the best known control measures on his own farm, the most successful results will undoubtedly follow the adoption of community action. The importance of this community action will be readily understood from the fact that an area of unbroken, drifting soil usually expands very rapidly. Moving particles of soil are not always brought to rest by collision with stationary soil particles, and in many cases the latter are caused to join in a general movement under the influence of high winds.

The most carefully planned and executed control measures may be entirely ruined if the soil has to withstand the combined action of wind and drifting soil from adjoining unprotected areas. These facts show the necessity for community action if a maximum degree of success in the control of soil drifting is to be obtained. While the control of drifting on any farm is primarily the concern of the individual farmer, his success may be aided or hampered by the action of his immediate neighbours.

Inter-Club Competitions

The annual Ontario Boys' Inter-Club competitions for Calf, Swine, Grain and Potato Clubs are being held at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, on Thursday, November 7th. Many coveted trophies and valuable cash prizes are being offered for competition. From the winners will be selected the teams to represent Ontario in the National contests at the Royal Winter Fair. It is interesting to recall that in 1934 teams from 24 Calf Clubs, 10 Swine Clubs, 17 Grain Clubs and 11 Potato Clubs competed for Provincial honours. In the National Contests at the Royal Winter Fair, Ontario stood first in the Dairy Calf project, second in Swine, first in Grain, and second in potatoes. During 1935 there were enrolled in the province 5,746 boys and girls in 433 clubs. Club work is a definite project work for boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 20 and the principle embodied in the phrase, "Learn to do by doing" is carried out to the fullest extent. Arrangements are being made to hold a Club banquet on the evening of Nov. 7th, at O.A.C. when Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture and Dr. Geo. I. Christie, President O.A.C., will be the speakers.

Timothy Seed Prices

The current timothy seed crop report indicates an abnormally large production of this seed in Canada in 1935. It would appear that there may be about eleven million pounds of seed available for commerce as against five million pounds in 1934 and an annual consumption in recent years of approximately seven million pounds. Owing to the surplus in sight, Canada is now for the first time in history on an export price basis in respect to this seed. In the past years prices at Chicago plus freight and import charges were the basis value in Canada, whereas this year, domestic prices may be based on Chicago quotations less the freight and export charges. As a result of this changed situation prices are now very low. At this time last year timothy seed was selling in Canada at fifteen to twenty cents per pound as against three to four and a half cents per pound at the present time. Surplus production this year resulted from two main factors, i.e., the high prices of last year which stimulated production and the abnormally large hay crop which permitted farmers generally to leave fields for seed rather than cut for hay.

Standard Poultry Boxes

Hardwood of any kind is not suitable for standard dressed poultry boxes. According to the Canadian Standards, lumber used for making these boxes must be a sound, clear, dry quality of soft wood planed smooth on both sides free from knots, and square, straight-edged stock but not tongued or grooved. When boxes are made up, there are five essential points: (1) each side and end must be in one piece and be square cut, (2) tops and bottoms must be flush with and fit flush over both sides, (3) an allowance must be made for a small space, of not more than a sixteenth of an inch, between the boards on top and bottom of the box to assist quick sharp freezing when placed in storage, (4) the bottoms and tops should be in at least three pieces, and (5) wide boards should be used as side boards in both tops and bottoms. The nails used should only be enough and strong enough to give necessary strength, so that the weight of poultry contained in the box may be shipped in safety. In packing strict observance should be paid to the allowance variation in weight of birds packed in the same box — squab and broiling chickens not over pound per bird, all other chickens

We should be careful what we said the careful friend. Of course, said Miss Cayer, though it isn't so much what you say makes trouble as what some says you said.

Fred: I hear you got a job. sort of a job is it? Frank: I'm doing research work. Fred: "That's great! What are you investigating?" Frank: Oh, nothing in particular.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

LET'S GO HUNTING

If's the wise hunter who keeps his camera loaded and ready to snap the real story-telling pictures such as this one.

DON'T these cool, crisp fall mornings sort of give you the hunting fever? In spite of all the pleasure you had during the good old summer time you probably look upon the fall hunting season as one of the highlights of the year, and as you sit enjoying a good evening smoke, isn't it a lot of pleasure to talk over the happenings of the day?

There should be more to a hunting trip, however, than tracking your game; or anticipating that tense moment when the antlers of a fine young buck make their appearance through the trees; or he carelessly makes a wild dash into the clearing and you put up a valiant fight against a severe attack of "buck fever."

The appearance of your game and the exciting moment when you quickly raise your gun to your shoulder and pull the trigger, is one of the thrilling adventures of a hunting trip.

There are, however, many moments of relaxation and leisure, too. It is then that you should do a different kind of shooting. "Shooting" with a camera should not be overlooked for it is with snapshots that you can make a picture record of your trip and enjoy your expedition over and over for years to come.

Your snapshots can picture your trip from the time you and your hunting pals load your duffel bags, guns, blankets and other equipment until your return with—we hope—your trophies.

Space will not permit enumerating all the picture possibilities on such trips. Picture taking opportunities, however, seem to have the habit of appearing at the most unexpected moments so it's the wise hunter who keeps his camera loaded and ready for action.

If you have never before taken snapshots under overcast fall skies it is important to remember that it will be necessary to give a longer exposure than ordinarily made under summer's bright sunshine.

But your snapshotting should not be confined to outdoor pictures for it is at night in the cabin or lodge you can take pictures of your party seated around the open fireplace swapping yarns and reviewing experiences in this and former hunting expeditions.

You will find that Photoflash bulbs will serve your purpose admirably. A Photoflash bulb is similar in appearance to a common electric light bulb and can be screwed into a special, but inexpensive holder, resembling an ordinary hand flash-light tube. This can be purchased at almost any store selling photographic supplies. The flash is set off by pressing the flash button and it gives an intense light without any noise or smoke.

After placing your camera on a tripod or some solid support look into the finder and be sure you can see all who are to be included in the picture. Set the diaphragm at f/8 or f/11, open the shutter after having been set for "time" and then flash the bulb. Be sure to close the shutter immediately after the flash. It is not necessary to leave the room in total darkness when the flash is made but be sure that no bright light is not shining directly into the lens of the camera.

Make your camera an important part of your hunting equipment and on your return have a picture story to show to your friends.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

On Sunday evening the woman's Missionary Society of Mount Pleasant held their annual thankoffering, and Messrs Herbert Higgs and John Coggins rendered a pleasing duet "I know my sheep." Rev. J. E. Beckel delivered a stirring sermon on Missions and voiced the same remarks as given last week in Belleville, that "Every Christian woman should be a member of the Woman's Missionary Society."

He based his thoughts on "The Heroic Spirit of Esther" and the challenge "Let us arise and do our duty for Canada, and if we perish, we perish, but our lives are laid upon the altar in his service." In a graphic picture he contrasted the lives of the women in Canada with that of their sisters in non-Christian lands where conditions are most unsanitary, where millions of women suffer the pangs of hunger, where thousands are not able to read, write or even think, and for that reason the women of the W.M.S. cannot hold their peace because they are blessed with many privileges, and these bring added responsibilities. The women of the W.M.S. are answering the command "Go ye into all the world" and the pastor was proud of this organization that has made saints out of some, but servants out of all.

Our missionary money isn't even spent but it is only invested in hospitals, schools and lives in Africa, India and other lands. Our doing and our dollars are accomplishing great things for God, and the sun never sets on the Missionary work of the United Church of Canada. The membership of the W.M.S. is like a vast army banded together to save the world for Christ. The people of the Church must open their mouths, hearts and pocket books in this great cause and a greater faith, zeal and enthusiasm is needed to carry on this wonderful work. Mr. Beckel closed his inspirational service with a poem written by Jean Gordon Forbes, the new Dominion Board President.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Egan entertained Messrs Henry Hagerman and Thomas Montgomery on Friday.

Fine Serial Fiction in a new form. . . . Three Prize Short Stories (of four instalments each) by a master story-teller. . . . They're Rex Beach at his best.

IN FOUR INSTALMENTS

SYNOPSIS: Ben Furlong, a young but practical oil man and driller from the Pennsylvania field, drifted into the Texas oil country, broke and looking for work. Finally he fetched up at the Durham home where live an elderly aunt, shortly widowed by the explosion of a powder wagon, and her niece, pretty Betty Durham. Perhaps because of his smile, Betty cooks some food for Ben, and while he eats he learns the aunt, in town on business, has an oil man, Tiller Maddox, sinking an oil well for her. A short 6 inch bolt worked loose from the rigging and is in the bottom of the well. Work has been suspended for days as the crew "fish for the bolt and operating funds dwindle away. Furlong offers to give a hand but Maddox objects. Betty insists and overrules Maddox so Furlong fashions a tool which he has lowered into the well, hoping to fish out the bolt. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

SECOND INSTALMENT

Furlong himself handled the rig during this operation and even Maddox could find no fault with the way he did it. When, after what seemed an interminable time, the wire cable began to stream up out of the depths and wind itself in smooth, black layers upon the drum, the two women pressed in upon the derrick floor.

Out of the well-mouth finally slid the fishing tool; it stopped, hung motionless with the lower end at the level of their eyes. The teeth had been bent inward, jammed together by the blows from above; inside the basket thus formed and tightly bit between two of those prongs was a shattered six-inch piece of steel.

Furlong had finished washing and Betty Durham waiting for

IN FOUR INSTALMENTS

SYNOPSIS: Ben Furlong, a young but practical oil man and driller from the Pennsylvania field, drifted into the Texas oil country, broke and looking for work. Finally he fetched up at the Durham home where live an elderly aunt, shortly widowed by the explosion of a powder wagon, and her niece, pretty Betty Durham. Perhaps because of his smile, Betty cooks some food for Ben, and while he eats he learns the aunt, in town on business, has an oil man, Tiller Maddox, sinking an oil well for her. A short 6 inch bolt worked loose from the rigging and is in the bottom of the well. Work has been suspended for days as the crew "fish for the bolt and operating funds dwindle away. . . . Furlong offers to give a hand but Maddox objects. . . . Betty insists and overrules Maddox so Furlong fashions a tool which he has lowered into the well, hoping to fish out the bolt. . . . NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

SECOND INSTALMENT

Furlong himself handled the rig during this operation and even Maddox could find no fault with the way he did it. When, after what seemed an interminable time, the wire cable began to stream up out of the depths and wind itself in smooth, black layers upon the drum, the two women pressed in upon the derrick floor.

Out of the well-mouth finally slid the fishing tool; it stopped, hung motionless with the lower end at the level of their eyes. The teeth had been bent inward, jammed together by the blows from above; inside the basket thus formed and tightly bit between two of those prongs was a shattered six-inch piece of steel.

"I suppose you think Aunt Mary's crazy, risking all her money like this," she said.

"I sure do," the man admitted. "This thing will show you the chances she's taking. Suppose that bolt had been something else, something we couldn't get hold of? There's a thousand things can happen to a well."

"I know. But she's greedy. She always was. Tiller talked her into it after Uncle Joe died, and she wouldn't listen to me."

"It's a lot safer to let the big companies do the drilling, and be satisfied with a royalty."

"Some people can't be satisfied," the girl said, quietly. Then after a moment: "Uncle Joe never intended to leave the whole farm to her. They didn't hitch very well. He said he was going to leave part of it to me, but—I guess he never got around to it. I'll bet Aunt Mary's sorry by this time she listened to Tiller; there's so many things a driller can do to a well."

"Pshaw! Is he that kind of a man?"

"What kind of a man? Men are all alike, aren't they—when they've got reason to be?"

"She better fire him."

"I guess she can't or darsent . . ."

Funny my talking this way to you and not knowing you only a few hours. I'd better mind my own business. Here we are. You wait while I get a light."

They had arrived at the house, and the girl left her companion outside. She reappeared in a few minutes with a lantern and a couple of patchwork comforters. These latter she surrendered to Ben, then led the way to the barn.

Like most farms in the oil country this one had been allowed to run down, and with the exception of some chickens and a few dispirited cattle there was no livestock left upon it. There still remained, however, some old fodder; it was dusty and musty, but suitable for a bed, and Furlong announced that he was delighted with these sleeping arrangements. He set the lantern down and walked to the door with Betty. There he said:

"You've been mighty nice to me. I wish that fishing job had been harder's eyes were blazing. In a voice ominously harsh and vibrant with fury he said:

"I came down to get that beating. I want it now."

The other members of the crew froze in various attitudes of startled suspense. The two men stared at each other.

Furlong was a burly, thick-necked youth; he was as hard as iron and in his gaze at this moment was an evil quality quite unexpected. His enmity for the driller had finally foamed over. In proximity to this flaming passion Maddox's smoldering dislike gave off no heat; nor at short notice could he fan its embers into a blaze. After a brief survey, pregnant with possibilities, he turned his head and winked at the other men. In a feeble effort at jocularity, he said:

"I told you I'd come up there and give it to you. I never ask you to come down here an' get it." He guffawed loudly at his own humour and walked away. Furlong stood shaking in his tracks.

That evening Maddox went over to the farmhouse. Evenings in this thirsty land, like evenings upon the desert, were cool, refreshing, beautiful. The brazen sky cooled, a blessed breeze played through the scrubby bush and brought faint fragrances unnoticed at other hours; the harsh outlines of unlovely objects were softened.

ed; birds twittered; Nature filled her lungs and took on new vigour.

Mrs. Durham was rocking upon the little front porch, and of her the man inquired:

"Where's Betty?"

"Her and Ben have gone to town."

Maddox scowled. "I allowed they had."

"He's gone in to buy himself some clothes and she took the car."

"He won't need no more clothes than he's got, on this job," asserted the driller. "He's all through an' washed up."

"What's happened, Tiller?"

"We had a row. I was a fool to put him on. In the first place, but his week's up Friday."

Mrs. Durham ceased rocking; her fallow face became more yellow. With an effort she said:

"He's a right smart hand, Tiller. I'd rather you didn't fire him."

"The hell you'd rather!" Maddox exclaimed angrily. "What you got to say about it?"

"Why, it's my prop'ty, my well—"

"Is it?"

"Y—You know what I mean. He's smart, I tell you. Didn't he fish that bolt?"

"Sure! An' didn't you hire him straight off, so's to spy on me?"

"Tiller! It's no such thing. Why should I spy on you? What you been doin' that you need spyin'—"

"Shut up an' listen to me. He's fired Friday night an' he gets off this place the next mornin'. So that's that! Saturday sometime, the powder wagon'll be here an' early Monday the men are comin' to shoot the well. We got a big one; I'll bet my life on that. I can tell! Why, she's makin' gas an' tryin' her best to let go, but—" the speaker paused, then finished slowly, distinctly — "there ain't goin' to be no well whatever until I'm took care of."

The widow's eyes fixed themselves hypnotically upon the swarthy face of the man before her. He continued:

"I wasn't gettin' along any too good with Betty before this feller showed up, but since he came she won't have nothin' to do with me."

"I did the best I could," Mrs. Durham declared, nervously, "but she says she won't marry you. She goes hog wild every time I talk about it."

"There's ways to make a girl marry. You got to make her marry me before that well comes in, or it's just like I said — it ain't comin' in!"

"Tiller!" gasped the woman. "You darsent do—anything to it. Not now!"

"Oh, darsent I? Who'll stop me? You won't. That little old bolt made a lot of trouble, didn't it? Well, that's nothin'. It just shows how easy it is in an unaccountable manner, and now it affected him again in the same way when she laid it in his. A sudden recklessness overwhelmed him, and before he knew what he was doing he had bent forward and kissed her.

The girl was startled, but she did not recoil. Curiously, she inquired: "Why did you do that?"

"I don't know. I—I couldn't help it, I guess. I didn't intend to, but—" Ben floundered; he felt his face burning hotly.

"Tiller tried that and I slapped him. I've known him a long time, too—"

Miss Durham shook her head, apparently more perplexed at her own lack of resentment than surprised at Furlong's boldness. "I must like you pretty well."

"I wish you would—did. I—I think you're wonderful."

"Queer!" Betty turned to go. A moment later she called back through the gloom, "I'll call you when breakfast is ready."

Before he knew what he was doing he had bent forward and kissed her.

Furlong was not altogether surprised when, on the following morning, Tiller Maddox offered him a job. Maddox, it was plain, was acting upon orders, and he took no pains to conceal his dislike for the new hand; nevertheless, Ben accepted the proffer. Aside from the fact that he needed work, his interest in Betty Durham was now sufficient to make almost any sacrifice worth while.

In the days thereafter he tried to fathom the peculiar relationship existing between Maddox and the two women, but he did not succeed very well. The driller, it was evident, had his heart set upon Betty, and in his attempt to win her, Mrs. Durham was his ally; nevertheless, for some unknown reason the aunt disliked and known reason it could be seen the aunt disliked and distrusted the man. About all that Ben could make sure of was the fact that in some manner not readily apparent the oil well was being used by Maddox as a weapon; that somehow it had become the stake in a three-cornered game.

Furlong and Betty meanwhile managed to see a good deal of each other, but they met clandestinely. Neither of them openly referred to this fact, and although the girl pretended that it was her aunt whom she feared, Ben very well knew that it was Maddox. No longer, by the way, did he apologize when he kissed her, and their stolen moments together had become very sweet.

Work on the well progressed as rapidly as could be expected. Inch by inch, foot by foot, the heavy steel bits cut through the rock; length after length was added to the casing, and as it neared the level of the oil-bearing structure "indications" became evident; occasional signs and gurgles issued from the well mouth as gas gathered and released itself. PETHERICK'S CORNERS

A large number of friends and neighbours met at the home of Mrs. John Simpson when a miscellaneous shower was given the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Grant Kerr; also a presentation from Zion United Church, consisting of a parlour table, fernery, silk table cover and a jardiniere. A short program was arranged and Rev. Dr. Reddick in a very capable manner acted as chairman. The program was as follows: Music by the orchestra, consisting of Art Petherick, violin; Cora Petherick, piano; Evelyn Barnum and Mrs. Ernest Irwin, guitar. Reading by Miss Pearl Kerr; Piano solo by Miss Rena Thomson, Scotch song and encore by Mr. Ernest Irwin; piano solo by Miss Evelyn Barnum; Orchestra music. Lunch was served at the close.

On Wednesday evening, last week, the Sentinel Orange Hall, at Pethericks Corners was filled to capacity, when Zion held their anniversary entertainment. The guest soloist for the concert was Howard Reddick, of Toronto, (son of Rev. Dr. Reddick) whose tenor voice is becoming very well known in church and radio work. He delighted his audience with four groups of numbers, one of which was sacred. He was accompanied by Mrs. Dr. Reddick. In addition, with Dr. Reddick acting as chairman in his witty and humorous manner, a varied programme was given. A play entitled "Patsy" was well presented by a group of girls taking part being Mrs. L. Anderson, Misses Cora Petherick; Helen Petherick, Margaret Petherick; Jessie Wright, Pearl Kerr and Laura Watson. An orchestra composed of Grant Meiklejohn, Don and Evelyn Barnum provided music while the crowd were assembling. Other interesting numbers were readings by Miss Marjorie Ferguson, accompanied by Mrs. A. G. Watson on the piano; readings by Rev. E. W. Rowland, of Stirling; Hawaiian guitar music by Mrs. Aylmer Petherick and Miss Cora Petherick between the acts of the play, both vocal and instrumental duets were given by Howard Reddick and Helen Reddick. In a special hour-long broadcast to be produced by the Canadian Radio Commission with the co-operation of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, in commemoration of Armistice Day, national network listeners will, on November 10, from 9.00 to 10.00 p.m. E.S.T., hear the voice of Brig-General Alex Ross, Dominion President of the Legion, as well as military bands, bugle calls, massed choirs, and a dramatization. Eight cities will contribute to this continent-spanning program, which begins at St. John, N.B., speeds westward to Vancouver, and returns east to end at Ottawa. St. John will contribute a five minute dramatization depicting the departure, in 1915, of a Canadian troopship for France, there will be military music and singing from the western studios. Toronto will offer a brief interlude with soldiers at Christie Street Hospital, and Ottawa will present Brig-General Ross, bugle calls, and massed singing.

Anti-War Poetry
 Readings from the works of Siegfried Sassoon, whose three volumes of verse are amongst the most vital and unsparing volumes of the Great War, will be featured on "Atlantic Nocturne" when that program, dedicated to Armistice Day, is broadcast over the national network of the Canadian Radio Commission on November 10, at 10.00 p.m.
 Read by J. Frank Willis, whose unusual voice has made him famous as "Canada's poet of the Air," the poetry of Sassoon will be incorporated with that of other anti-war writers and throughout the program a background of organ and violin music will predominate.

Sassoon's three volumes of verse, which oppose bitterly the folly of war and which are the most pacifistic of any written, synthesize in poetry what Barbusse's "Under Fire," and Remarque's "All quiet on the Western Front" spread out in panoramic prose or what Sherif's "Journey's End" depicted in stripped tragedy. The program is designed to further the cause of goodfellowship and peace on earth.

War-Time Songs
 Remember those old war-time songs that originated in London and gained such popularity with the boys in the trenches and the folks back home? Songs like "Mademoiselle from Armentieres," "I Didn't Raise My Boy to be a Soldier," and so on? Well, many of these English music hall numbers will be revived on November 2, when the Commission's Toronto studios presents the next in the series of "Let's Go to the Music" programs. The sparkling fare will include impersonations of Vesta Tilley, Albert Whelan, Harry Lauder, Lottie Collins and Charles Coburn. You will hear "The Army of Today's All Right," "The Preacher and the Bear," "Waggle o' the Kilt," "He Was Whistling This Tune All Day," and that famous old number "The Man Who Broke the Bank of Monte Carlo."

Guest Artist
 Auguste Descarries, the noted Montreal pianist and director of La Societe de Musique Eulerpe, will be guest artist for the November 1 presentation of the Canadian Radio Commission's "Canadian Concert Hall of the Air" program to be broadcast from the Montreal studios at 9.30 o'clock. Mr. Descarries was heard last winter over Commission stations on several occasions, directing his strong quartet in the weekly series of chamber music programs.

He Hates Jazz
 To get back to more routine stuff, your correspondent would like to point out to you Eldon Rathburn. Just 19 years old Eldon Rathburn, gifted young pianist who has off' been heard piano soloing from Saint John, hates jazz and abhors moon-in-June-spooning tunes. He leans towards Wagner and Beethoven for work on the Ivories but won't touch Brahms or Bach. Three years ago he wrote his first original composition, a charming intermezzo for his school's symphony. Since then a second number for full orchestra has come from his pen as have two selections for string quartets, a piano selection, and a number for two-piano work.

Club Thirteen

A favourite program of national network listeners will be heard on Wednesday, November 6, at 10.00 p.m., E.S.T. when "Club 13", broadcast from the Calgary studios of the Canadian Radio Commission, returns to the air for the winter season. "Club 13" is a mythical swanky night club with a floor show and all the trimmings.

WELLMANS W. I.

(Too late for last week)

The Wellmans Women's Institute met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Clancy on Thursday, October 17th, with a large attendance. The President, Mrs. Reg. McGee, presided and opened the meeting with singing "The Opening Ode" and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. The minutes of last meeting were read by the Secretary, Miss Leatha Hoover, and approved. Plans were made for the Halloween concert. Wellmans Institute received an invitation to visit the Rylestone Branch on Oct. 29th, when a speaker from the Department of Agriculture will give an address. At this meeting a large number of members from the Springbrook Branch were guests and presented a fine programme. Mrs. E. Todd gave the address of welcome, which was replied to by Miss Kathleen McComb, the President of the Springbrook Branch. The following programme was given, with Miss McComb presiding: Motto, "A Sane Mind and a Healthy Body" was given in a splendid paper by Mrs. Fred Heath. Community singing with Mrs. (Rev.) Swayne as accompanist. Another good paper on "Health" was given by Mrs. W. J. Barlow. Solo by Mrs. Swayne "Danny Boy". Mrs. Gordanier gave a splendid paper on "The Sunny Side of Life". A comic reading "The Domestic Instinct" was given by Miss Iva Brown. Mrs. Fred Heath gave a "Health Demonstration on correct position of the body while standing or walking." Miss Nellie Webb put on a contest "A dinner party Romance." The winning group received a box of candy. This concluded a very fine programme. Moved by Mrs. T. M. Reid, seconded by Mrs. John Rainie a hearty vote of thanks to visitors for their excellent program. Miss McComb replied. The meeting closed with the National Anthem. A lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed. Mrs. Alf. Williams moved a vote of thanks to the hostess for her kind hospitality, Mrs. Clancy replying.

BELLEVEILLE PRESBYTERIAL, COMMEMORATING TEN YEARS OF UNION, HOLD CONVENTION

 thoughts on the subject "A peek in the future." She opened her address with a discordant note when she said it is a cold fact that there are scores of women in our United Church, who have no desire to have the magic letters, W.M.S. written after their names. However, she later painted a glowing picture of our work as she pointed out the items that obstruct and gradually brought the audience to a place of hopefulness for the future. At this juncture she told of the days of work and worry during that first summer two years ago when members of the four boards spent hours in prayer that fair adjustments and harmonious decisions would be made and the W.M.S. of the United Church of Canada be firmly planted and established. Here the by-laws and constitutions were carefully studied and all should do their best to abide by the machinery or rules of our Society, as laid down by the Dominion Board. We as individuals must develop our talents and be willing for leadership. We should study our Blue Book and remember the object and aim of our Society, which is as follows: "It shall be the object of our Society to inspire a spirit of prayer and service among its members; to develop a missionary spirit in the women and children of the church, and to secure the means for carrying on of the work of the society at home and abroad, and the aim shall be to have an auxiliary in every congregation and every woman a member." Today we lack fuel and greater prayer, zeal and devotion is needed to further consecrate this great movement and keep it spreading. The most important cog in the whole organization is the women in the local auxiliary who are faithful to their tasks and they are the backbone of the Dominion Board. The Board depends on each one for funds, upkeep of literature, etc. She stressed using the Blue Book for programmes and having the members hunt up information, for if a woman studies a subject she knows it. Develop home talent rather than having too many outside speakers called in. Today we lack the spirit of enthusiasm that we once had for missions and we have failed to thoroughly develop a missionary spirit in our churches. A missionary church is a live church and a non-missionary church is a selfish church. The whole church would be missionary if we had all the women and children gathered into our organization. You cannot force people but just keep on being faithful and you will steadily draw others to this great cause. She advocated many ways to further the work and closed by saying "There is no limit to what we could accomplish if we were filled with the spirit of Christ, as nothing is too good for the Master who died for us."

Miss Olive Hamby, a former worker in foreign fields, wearing a Japanese formal gown introduced the first act of the pageant.

The ladies of North and South Napanee Sections wearing a colourful array of old-fashioned clothes depicted a scene in the Presbyterian W.M.S. when they only had 94 members, throughout Canada, and decided to send a missionary to India. A beautiful solo "The Ninety and Nine" followed.

The ladies of Tweed presented the Methodist work when a meeting was held in June 1880 in Hamilton. They too wore old-fashioned costumes and the heroic women decided to lay aside their velvets, laces, and silks, and raise 764 dollars to send a missionary to Japan.

The beginning of the Crosby Home for Girls was depicted and then one of their members gave herself as a missionary and so real was the portrayal that the audience were moved to tears.

The ladies of Picton presented the work of the Congregational W.M.S., when in Zion Church, Toronto, in 1846 a foreign board was organized. Later Mrs. Currie, beloved wife of their minister, passed away, and her death roused the women to greater efforts. A fitting solo "Take my life and let it be" was the close of the afternoon session.

In the evening the pageant was completed when over one hundred and fifty members of Belleville section portrayed the final act to an audience of over 1000 people. The gorgeous spectacle with its vast array of colour created by the many lovely and picturesque costumes of nearly every nation of the world was heartily applauded as the characters took their places on the platform and in the choir loft.

The panorama presented "The March of Time" of Missionary Life of the three great churches all united in one ten years ago. Natives of China, India, Korea, Formosa, Trinidad, Africa, Japan, the Canadian Indian, all the strangers coming to our shores, were heartily welcomed by the two Strangers' Secretaries. Following this came auxiliaries, young women's associations, mission circles, over fifty Canadian girls in Training, Mission Bands, nurses, doctors, social workers, and all phases of missionary work.

With the entire cast banked on the platform, underneath the motto "All the World Shall Serve Him" the vast audience were treated to a graphic picture of the work of the Woman's Missionary Society. This wonderful display of talent and beauty was a very fitting prelude to the closing address of Conference, given by Dr. A. E. Armstrong, D.D., General Secretary of Foreign Missions.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

One hundred friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Jeffrey on Monday evening at last week, in honour of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jeffrey (nee Roma Mumby). Later in the evening Mr. Fred Blakely called the gathering to order and Mr. J. Wilkinson read the following address:

Dear Clarence and Mrs. Jeffrey,—

We, your friends and neighbours, have gathered in your home tonight to enjoy a social evening and to extend to you our very best wishes for a long happy and useful and prosperous life. Clarence, it seems but a short time since you came, a stranger to our midst, but in your friendly cheerful manner you have exemplified the ancient proverb, "He that would have friends must show himself friendly."

You have been ever willing to give of your time and labour to the work of the community, and now that you have so helpful a partner we will expect even better work. To you, Mrs. Jeffrey, coming as a bride to our community, we extend a hearty welcome, and trust as the years pass you will find us friends worthy of the name. As a token of our love and best wishes we ask you to accept this gift and may we recall this happy event, and as has said, "When you take an evening of your friends both new and old when you're adding up the bill can't be bought with money."

And through thick and thin count ourselves most loyal to you in."

Of your friends and Mrs. P. Blakely, Mrs. J. Wilkinson, Louis Morrison, were then present.

For they are a delightful bunch at the evening dancing.

Howdy gang!

Another week has rolled around.

It's a good thing somethin's rollin'!

About the only thing that seems to be moving around town the last couple of weeks is the night patrolman and the weather.

Well, no matter how black the skies might seem Art Wilson refuses to carry an umbrella.

Just read the first paragraph of the West Huntingdon correspondence this week —

You know, after probably a quarter-century's contact with the farming industry, we've learned that farmers who will admit that there might be a slight profit in the farming game are about as scarce as tall-tale-tellers on a garter snake —

But here we have one — Arthur has admitted that this year the crops were excellent and that the prices were, slowly but surely assuming proportions by which the hard-working agriculturist could see their way clear to declare a profit on their investment.

Who knows — maybe the government didn't change any too soon!

And now that the farmer is going to have to sew up that hole in his pocket to keep his three cents from falling out maybe things will be a little better for all of us.

And speaking of farmers coming to town reminds us of other visitors locally.

It seems that down at Long's hotel there's been funny goings-on.

Every morning when "Pat" went down cellar he'd find that somebody had been stealing his apples and pieces of the same would be littered all over the place.

And Pat's just that kind of a guy that don't object to anybody helping themselves to his apples, if they're really hungry, but it kind of made him mad to think they'd turn right around and spit the seeds all over the floor.

And nobody blames him either, for that's a dirty trick!

Furthermore, it was found that the miserable thief had, as well as eating all he needed, stole some of the fruit and hid it in the woodpile.

Well, evidently Pat had heard about the proverbial "nigger in the woodpile", so he set a trap for the miscreant.

And what do you suppose was "bummin'" it's meals at the Stirling House?

One of the finest muskrats that ever took singing lessons in this section of the county.

Pat's been servin' such good meals at his dining table that evidently word has gone down the creek and the inhabitants down that way, have, as would seem to be in accordance with the spirit of the times, made up their minds that there was no use of them hurrying around to lay up a supply for winter, if somebody else would do it for them. (Kind of a spirit of "relief" or whatever they call it.

What's happened the Community Welfare Club?

We've answered that question at least a dozen times in the past couple of weeks with the same answer:

"I don't know."

We've asked the same question at least a dozen times during the last two weeks, and received the same answer:

"I don't know!"

Guess nobody knows!

The main thing of interest locally seems to be that everybody is getting ready for what's coming in the line of cold weather and about all there is to see in the evening's is a bonfire of leaves and things in front of almost every yard in town.

And to most of us, signs of winter are most welcome.

Now there it goes again!

In spite of all the precautions we've taken to avoid an outbreak,

We feel a verse coming on!

For just about this time of year we all seem kind of "woozy" — The dreary days November brings Make everyone feel "snoozy".

No matter where or when we look We see some sort of action That makes us feel like cussin' — (If that brings us satisfaction).

On every side the local gents Are doing this or that, Which makes us feel that after all The summer's left us flat!

For as we stroll along the street, There, raking up his lawn, And burning up the fallen leaves, Is Lindsay Melkjohn.

As if to guard from winter storms, (One needs no further proof) "Buzz" Hough's got Alex Park A-puttin' shingles on his roof!

While up the street some farther, Sayin' "Well, the summer's gone", Bob Patterson's about to start To put storm windows on.

Just look across to Church Street and — There, diggin' in like ferrets — Are Dennis Welsh and Jerry Bird, A-takin' in their carrots!

While up across the other way, (Too busy, far, for talks) Murr Hagerman is cutting down His season's crop of stalks.

Across the creek, and you can see As down the path he pushes, Is Harry Wicket (string and all) Tying up his berry bushes.

The tennis courts look sick as heck, For no one ventures where All summer Harry Lovibond Has lead his stalwarts there!

And up around the bowling green, (Upon his face dismay) "Doc" Carleton sees his once-green spot Is nothing now but hay.

He feels like one who treads alone Some banquet hall deserted, Whose lights have fled, whose garlands dead, And all but he departed!

Then at the lake — poor Milton Bird — He pitifully sings, There's nothing now, where all summer was

Cute bathing girls and things!

Fred Mallory's preparing for The snowbanks he'll soon see — He's huntin' the snow-shovel up. As busy as can be.

And after a couple of hours' search He finds — alas! — a sack! Somebody borrowed it last spring And never brought it back.

And on down town, with all the strength His little frame can muster, Ham Johnston cleans the chimney out.

So when cold winds, they bluster, The folks at his house needn't care How deep the snow, or thick — They'll sit beside the good old stove.

'n shove on another stick. And Harry Hulin's "fater" patch, No longer sees the hoos, That steadily for weeks on end Went up and down the rows.

For though they weren't so very big, (The crop could have been sweller) Poor Harry dug the cussed things And stored them in his cellar.

Then hurryin' round his garden, We notice Walter Barker, He's tryin' to get his pumpkins in Before the days get darker.

While right next door Frank Stapley Throws some hay down from the mow.

Jack Frost has taken all the grass That used to feed Frank's cow.

Then Skinner Smith, 'most every day, Both evenings, and at noons, Is rakin' bags of leaves so he'll Have beddin' fer his 'coons!

Yep! Everything that meets the eye It simply seems to say — "The time is ripe to freeze, yer ears —

The summer's passed away!" But as we pass on down the street, There's one redeeming feature — There sits with gun and ram-rod, One more-than-joyful creature —

Young Tommy Solmes is workin' hard With polish, and with rags, — He's shinin' up the huntin' stuff, And fillin' up the bags —

For him and Johnny Morton will (In another week or two) Be chasin' little deers around, And things that hunters do!

And Billy West, he too will soon Be gettin' huntin' fever — He'll say "To heck with churnin'," An' he'll walk right off and leave 'er.

He'll be goin' north with Morton; And, in spite of Council worry, He'll be wadin' round in bushes, 'Way up north of Peterbury.

And Charley Dracup, too, b'gosh, And Roger Melkjohn — They too, about this time of year, "Feel huntin' urge come on!"

And R. A. Elliott, he'll be there, On a runway, take his seat — And if he don't get "buck fever" Why some venison they'll eat!

Then Angus Dobbie, he'll be there, And scamperin' 'round, quite "nimble", And 'cordin' to his last report, He'll watch the family "thimble"!

So ain't it funny, that to some There ain't no fun at all When leaves and grass turn yellow, And we know it's coming Fall?

While to others it brings gladness, And they chirp out plain and blunt — "Ain't it nice that we're a-livin', 'Cause it's coming time to hunt!"

Excuse us! That'll be all for now, and the class is dismissed — but We'll be seein' yuh!
